PRIZE FIGHT IN ENGINE HOUSE

FOUGHT FOR A PURSE

SPORTS WELL ENTERTAINED

One of the liveliest and bloodiest prize fights that ever took place in this section of the country was an event yesterday afternoon in the roomy basement of No. 19 engine house, Eighth street, when a promising Pittsburgh pugilist, known as "Simon's Boy," knocked out "Pete" Drummey of Allegheny in five rounds for a purse of $100. Five-ounce gloves were used. Drummey was completely knocked out and it was 10 minutes before he recovered from the finishing blow.

The fight was quietly arranged and was witnessed by some 50 sports, politicians, policemen and firemen. About $500 changed hands on the result. Plenty of blood was spilled and at times it was hard to suppress the enthusiasm so that those living and doing business in the neighborhood of the city's big fire department house would not be disturbed.

Fought at Catch Weights.

The men fought at catch weights. Drummey weighed 160 pounds and "Simon's Boy" was 10 pounds lighter. Drummey was seconded by "Jack" Kearns and "Simon's Boy" by "Butch" Bowman. "Billy" Corcoran acted as referee. The fight was scheduled for 2 o'clock. As the sporty crowd put in an appearance at the engine house they were shown the way to the basement by the firemen on duty. Once in the basement they took seats about a hastily constructed ring. Later some of the firemen and two of the city's policemen found their way to the basement and they got as much enjoyment out of the mill as any of the others. "Shorty" Gates, a well-known sporting character acted as master of ceremonies and announced the men were to fight to a finish for a $100 a side.

Drummey was the first to make his appearance in the ring. He was clad in black tights and was followed by Jack Kearns, who carried a bucket, towels and a bottle of water with him. "Simon's Boy" followed in few minutes; he was clad in a pair of red tights and fighting shoes. "Shorty" went into the ring and announced that the spectators must not be loud in their cheering for they were in a respectable neighborhood and it had been agreed that order was to be maintained when the engine house was engaged for the fight.

Was Lively From the Start.

Corcoran scattered a quantity of rosin on the floor and the seconds put the gloves on the contestants. "Simon's Boy," although lighter, was in the better condition of the two. Drummey is three inches taller and when time was called he went at "Simon's Boy" in hammer and tongs style. The round ended slightly in favor of Drummey.

"Simon's Boy" reversed the order of things in the next round and sent Drummey to the floor twice. Drummey was not without friends. When the men took their corners many wagers were made. Some $800 was put up before time was called for the third round. Drummey opened hostilities by jabbing "Simon's Boy" in the nose. The blood dropped on his white chest, and the sight of the blood brought Drummey's followers to their feet.

The blood seemed to waken up "Simon's Boy" and he retaliated by hitting Drummey in the mouth. This brought blood. The fighters then disregarded rules and clinched, pulled and struck each other about the stomach.

The spectators went wild and Gates was compelled to call order. Both men were exhausted when the round closed. Second Kearns became excited and while trying to restore his man, dashed a bucket of water over him and at the same time drenched one of the spectators.

Spectators Had to Be Suppressed.

This brought the spectator into the ring. Kearns struck at him with the bucket and one of the policemen present was called to quiet the disturbance. Both fighters were weak when they were faced each other for the fourth round. "Simon's Boy" answered the cheers of his followers and smashed Drummey all over the ring. The men clinched and rolled through the ropes out among the spectators.

They were ordered back in the ring and renewed the fray. Drummey was weak. At this time the fire gong sounded and the audience was reduced as the fire laddies hurried up stairs. When it was realized the alarm was out of the district the laddies hurried down to the ringside again. All this time the fighters were driving each other over the ring.

"The city may burn, but let the fight go on," some one cried.

Drummey was almost out when the round that brought the knockout was called, and was not inclined to renew hostilities. Second Kearns gave him another application of water. This did not seem to put any spirit in the fighter. Then his backers became suspicious. "Fake, robbery," they cried, and several made a rush for the ring. The policemen interfered again.

Drummey finally staggered to the center of the ring. "Simon's Boy" rained blows in the Allegheny man's face. The onslaught was too much for Drummey and he went down on the floor. When he got up he was covered with blood and rosin. He was only on his feet for a second when "Simon's Boy" landed him another blow on the face and he went down and out.

Drummey was carried across. Water was dashed in his face and after ten minutes' work he was revived.

SCOFFERS HISS ZION PROPHET

DOWIE RAVES VAINLY

ANOTHER ELIJAH APPEARS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 20.—In wild disorder, with the police reserves hurrying to the scene from the Thirteenth street station, the so-called religious meeting of Dowie and his Zionists broke up in Madison square garden tonight.

Carrie Nation appeared at the hall, got a seat well down toward the platform, and in the middle of Dowie's ranting and vilification against his critics, the eccentric little woman from Kansas arose and cried out that she wanted to ask the "prophet" some questions.

The shout went up that she was Carrie Nation. Yells came from the crowd that she should be heard. Dowie pleaded with her in his most wheedling tones to resume her seat. He told her that he respected her infinitely, and all right, and again begged her to sit down. Then came a yell:

"Let's hear Carrie Nation."

"I will not," shouted Dowie. "This is my meeting, not hers."

Thrice again Mrs. Nation asked Dowie for an opportunity to ask pointed questions about himself and his claims. He ordered his guards to make her take her seat, but when the end of Dowie's address came and he lifted his hand to pass a benediction, Carrie Nation sprang to her feet again.

Dowie Rages in Vain.

While Dowie raged, the saloon smasher of Kansas found herself surrounded by a thousand or more persons, all of them cheering, and as she passed out of the hall all but one of the Zionists and perhaps a few hundred others started to follow her.

The big crowd got into a tangle, to loosen which the Dowie guards were entirely helpless. The crowd swayed one way and another and then the cries of men and the screams of women who felt the press of the big throng too heavily were heard.

Dowie's guards ran into the street, appealing to the police to enter in stronger numbers and end the perilous situation. A call was sent for the reserves. Dowie shouted and pleaded with the crowd to resume their seats. In about 10 minutes something like order was restored, all of the exits were thrown open, the police took the place of the Dowie guards, and the hall was finally cleared in somewhat orderly fashion.

Zion guards outside the big hall during the progress of the most remarkable meeting ever held in New York in the name of religion had to cope with another rival for attention which "Prophet Elijah III." desires all for himself. This was a harmless crank, aged and white bearded, who flouts about the city streets, and who is known as "John the Baptist II," because of a big tin placard that he wears on his breast making that announcement.

Still Another Elijah.

"John the Baptist II." took a stand outside Madison Square garden and harangued the crowd, denouncing Dowie. Time and again the guards with threatened forefingers and mutterings, told the old man to go away. Finally they appealed to the police. The police escorted the old man into Madison Square.

During the meeting Dr. W. S. P. Hansen got up to leave and Dowie spied him and, his face ablaze with anger yelled after him:

"There you go, you dirty dog."

Dr. Hansen paused. He looked back at Dowie with a smile, calmly and politely lifted his hat, replaced it and continued on his way out.

Dowie's chief aids, his wife and his son are about to leave him for a trip abroad. They will start on Thursday from this city, taking the Steamer Saxonian Saturday from Boston. They will go first to England and then to Australia where Mrs. Dowie's family still lives. They do not expect to return to the United States until next July.

REPORTERS SCOLDED BY PROPHET OF ZION

Dowie Exhorts Scribes and Threatens Them With Dire Penalties.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Stung by the criticisms of the press, "Dr." Dowie summoned the reporters to a conference in the Fifth Avenue hotel today in the hope of establishing more cordial relations.

Dowie began to scold his auditors. He berated the press because it does not recognize in him a man of scholarly attainments and refinement. He insisted almost tearfully that he was a regularly ordained minister of the Congregational denomination, a graduate of the University of Edinburgh, and a man of deep and omnivorous reading.

"I am no hypocrite," he cried. "I do not pretend to mortify the flesh. But I spend my own money. I am a millionaire. Dozens of persons have died and left me their fortunes. I don't even know the names of these persons. But they have left me hundreds upon hundreds of thousands of dollars. And I have given away much and have much remaining.

ZION CHARGE FOR HEALING STAMPEDES THE CRIPPLES

Announcement That Complete Cures Would Cost Them All Their Earthly Possessions Too Much for Small Army of Lame, Halt and Blind.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Oct. 20.—Dashing aside the guards who tried to stop them, 20 men and women stampeded from the "healing" room of John Alexander Dowie in Madison square garden this afternoon when they were asked to promise to give all their wealth to the church of Zion City if they should be cured of their ills by the Dowie treatment.

The indignation of the invalids was intense. Many of them were on crutches; others were blind, while a few had left their beds to test the treatment that the "Prophet" had declared was infallible to Christians. But they dashed over the Zion guards like a squad of heavy artillery and made their way to the street.

The stampede came after the midday meeting, when it was announced that all persons who wished to be treated could meet Overseer Piper in the "healing" room. More than 100 persons went to the room, including those who had begun the treatment yesterday.

They were suffering from all manner of ailments and the place looked like a hospital ward when the subjects were seated. The usual precautions were taken to see that no outsiders could see what was going on. Guards were stationed at the foot of the stairs and in the balcony before the door of the "healing" room.

Overseer Piper was in charge of the "healing." He took his stand on the platform at one end of the room and explained that it would be impossible to cure anyone who had not decided to become an absolute Christian. Then he added:

"If you are cured will you agree to follow John Alexander Dowie, to believe that he is the reincarnated Elijah, and to give your wealth and substance to the Christian Catholic church of Zion?"

Immediately the rush out began.

ENGINE MADE WILD DASH DOWN A STEEP GRADE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SOMERSET, PA., Oct. 20.—An accident which gave promise of resulting in a great loss of life was marvelously averted here late this afternoon. Baltimore & Ohio engine No. 902 pushing five freight cars met in a head-on collision with the Boswell-Cumberland coal train at the top of the hill between Rockwood and Johnstown. The concussion threw Fireman John Lunsen Pittman E. L. Collins of engine No. 902 from the cab and a moment later the big machine reversed itself and started down the steep grade towards Rockwood, passing through here at a speed of 40 miles an hour.

Station Agent W. G. Carter and his assistants were greatly alarmed until it was learned that the wild engine had come to a standstill five miles below.

Had the engine proceeded three miles further it would certainly have crashed into the crowd of passengers at Rockwood. Three through passenger trains from Cumberland to Pittsburgh were due to pass Rockwood in a few minutes. When the engine stopped the Johnstown-Rockwood accommodation, carrying 150 persons, was less than a mile ahead.

RAILROADS MAKING COUNTER PROPOSAL

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—When the United States Steel Corporation and the principal independent steel companies unite in a demand upon the railroads for a reduction of probably 50 cents per ton in freight rates on finished steel products they will be met by a counter demand on the part of the railroads that the price of steel rails be reduced, at least temporarily, from $28 per ton to $26 per ton.

Representatives of two leading roads say that mutual concessions may bring about an agreement whereby the steel concerns will be granted the reductions they want, and at the same time the railroads, which are hampered in their extension plans by the cost of iron and steel, may get rails below ruling prices.

If the railroads conceded the demands of the steel companies for 50 cents per ton reduction, the companies could figure on saving probably $6,000,000 in transportation charges, whereas, if the steel companies would consent to a reduction of $2 per ton in steel rails, the railroads could save probably $5,000,000.

Edward VII. Declines to Be Drawn Into Controversy Over Fiscal Policy.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—An attempt to draw an opinion from King Edward on the fiscal controversy by a letter asking for the truth of a statement published to the effect that the king was a free trader and had said that he would regard with great dislike any proposal for taxing food, has elicited a curt reply from Buckingham palace, saying:

"The private secretary is commanded to say that the king never expresses any opinion on political matters except on the advice of his responsible ministers, and, therefore, the statement must be inaccurate."

ADA REHAN PLAYS "KATE," BROTHER'S DEATH UNKNOWN

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Ignorance of the death of her brother, Miss Ada Rehan tonight played with her usual vim the part of Katherine with Otis Skinner in "The Taming of the Shrew." She will not be told until next Saturday night, after the performance in order that she may have Sunday to recover from the first shock of the sad intelligence.

ANARCHY IS RAMPANT AT COLOMBIAN CAPITAL

(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

PANAMA, Oct. 20.—The Herald's correspondent at Colon telegraphs that French mail advices from Bogota, October 8, received this morning via Barranquilla, confirm former cable reports regarding the unsettled state of affairs and states that serious trouble is anticipated at the capital.

The Colombian congress, it is stated, is in a state of anarchy. The government, supported by the house of representatives, wanted to close congress on October 20, but the senate insisted on continuing indefinitely, or at least until after the election, to frustrate the plans of the government. The greater part of the senate is working against the government, which is also reported as acting in a state bordering on anarchy, and which appears at once as a ship at sea without a rudder.

As an instance of the high handed acts of the government, it is stated that the administration had placed outside of the capitol, where the senate meets, about 100 armed men and about 200 more were hidden in lower parts of the building unknown to the general public or the unsuspecting senators.

QUADRUPLETS BORN IN AN OHIO HOME

M'CLELLAN MONEY HAS DISAPPEARED FROM VIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The $100,000 betting fund which Tim Sullivan, George Considine and a group of bookmakers were said to have got up to wager on McClellan, has disappeared. Odds of 5 to 4 that Mayor Low would be re-elected could not bring any part of it to light today.

To Erect Silk Mill at Sharon.

SHARON, PA., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The Sharon Textile Company, with a paid-in capital of $100,000, composed of Sharon and New York capitalists, will erect a silk mill here, which will employ about 150 men and girls.

ANOTHER NEW METAL.

Solium the Name of Very Light Substance Harder Than Steel.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The official United States consular report on the new metal solium is given in the reports today as follows from Consul General Guenther, at Frankfort, Germany:

"The French press publishes news with reference to a new metal, which is said to be based upon an interview which a representative of the Patrie had with Mr. Melard of London. The new metal is called solium and is said to possess a very light specific weight and excellent resistance. It is as hard as steel and of the color and brilliancy of silver. The main component part is salt Gy which is perhaps meant that it is manufactured from salt—i. e., chloride of sodium—so that the metal sodium may be the chief component part. It is said to be especially suitable for ship armor plate, as it does not rust and is more resistant than the armor plates now in use. It is also alleged of solium that through it radium can be manufactured in Brgild state at $5 per quart."

LEOPOLD IS COMING.

King of Belgium Will Attend Opening of the St. Louis Exposition.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Baron Monuhour, the Belgian ministry to the United States, landed here today from steamer Rhoopland and at once announced that King Leopold would be here next year to witness the opening of the St. Louis exposition.

The baron was shown a Brussels dispatch, stating that Belgium was willing to give important commercial privileges in trade with China, Japan and Korea provided that the United States would give Belgium her protection out there. He said:

"I believe that statement is true, though I am not prepared to give details."

USED CONFESSIONS TO EXTORT BLACKMAIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The police declare that "Doctor" Wad Grier, who was held today by Magistrate Barlow in the Jefferson Market police court on a charge of vagrancy, is the inventor of a novel method of blackmail. According to the detectives, Grier made a practice of concealing himself near the women's confessional booths in churches and then threatening them with exposure.

MEETING LASTS TILL MORNING

Federal National Bank Directors in Session for Many Hours.

NO STATEMENT MADE

OFFICIALS AGREE ON SILENCE

Directors of the Federal National bank, Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, adjourned at 1 o'clock this morning a meeting which began shortly before 6 p. m., yesterday and was continuous, except for a short intermission for dinner. All attempts to secure a statement from President J. A. Langfitt and other officers of the bank were unavailing. At 12:30 this morning President Langfitt sent out a message saying that there would be no statement made. When the officers left the bank after the meeting they still refused to make a statement.

The offices of the bank were a busy place until well toward midnight. The clerks and under officials were kept at work, the majority of them not leaving until close to midnight. The brilliantly lighted bank attracted a great deal of attention from the crowds passing along Smithfield street, and the directors seated in their room on the mezzanine floor, in the rear of the big bank, were watched by many.

From time to time individual directors left the conference and were absent for an hour or so, later returning, but they would not tell the objects of their missions.

The Federal National bank was organized early in 1902. Its capital stock is $2,000,000 and at the time of its organization it was the most heavily capitalized national bank in Pittsburgh. The stock was issued at 120, giving the bank at its start a surplus of $400,000. It has paid dividends at the rate of 1½ per cent quarterly.

The bank is located at Smithfield street and Fifth avenue on the first floor of the Park building where it has a handsomely furnished home. J. A. Langfitt is president of the bank and C. W. Eisenhals is vice-president and cashier.

The report of the condition of the bank at the close of business, September 9, 1903, when the last call for national bank reports was made, showed total resources of $7,609,782 23. The undivided profits less expenses and taxes paid, were $180,609 51. The bank is a United States depository and reported on hand $80,000 of United States deposits.

The stock of the company has been subjected to sharp declines on the Pittsburgh exchange this week. On Monday the stock sold down from 115 to 85, but was forced up again to 101. All day yesterday it seesawed and the closing quotations were 80 bid and 85 offered, a large number of transactions having been made at 80.

The course of the stock has attracted much attention and numerous adverse reports were in circulation, but they were promptly and fully denied by President J. A. Langfitt. He stated last Monday evening that the bank had suffered only one possible loss that of $110,000, for which it held notes of the Eastern Tube Company of Dayton, O. That company is in the hands of a receiver and a plan of reorganization is being worked out, he said, and the bank's loss on that account may be small.

NEW BOOM FOR RICE.

Rumor That Supreme Court Vacancy Will Be Given to Luzerne Jurist.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—While Governor Pennypacker has never committed himself on the state supreme court vacancy it is rumored he will appoint a jurist and not an attorney in practice. If this report be verified it would mean that Lyman D. Gilbert, who has been indorsed by Senator Quay, would be shelved and Charles E. Rice, of Wilkesbarre, president judge of the state superior court, promoted to the high bench.

The name of Judge Rice, who has been indorsed for appointment by the Luzerne County Bar association has been presented to the governor in a tentative way. Friends of Mr. Gilbert here think that his appointment has been definitely settled upon. They believe the appointment will be made immediately after Quay's return from the Maine woods.

IMPURE BEER SELLERS SUED BY WHOLESALE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—State Dairy and Food Commissioner Warren today directed his attorneys to bring 265 suits for selling adulterated liquors. Eighty-five per cent of the samples in which these suits were brought were doctored with salicylic acid, which the commissioner claims is deleterious to health. He declines to make public the names of the offenders until after arrests have been made.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA IS THROWN FROM HIS HORSE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—John Philip Sousa was returning from the race track this afternoon when a dog dashed into the road and became entangled in the forelegs of the his mount, "Badge." The horse went to its knees and Mr. Sousa was thrown to the road. After a moment of unconsciousness he was revived by his groom and attended by a physician to whom the dog belonged. His injuries consisted of an ugly scalp wound and a badly bruised shoulder.

The steamer South Portland, which sailed from Portland, Ore., last Sunday, loaded with wheat for San Francisco, struck on Blanco reef last evening at 5 o'clock during a heavy fog. The vessel carried a crew of 22 and 14 passengers. Of those the following have reached shore:

James McIntyre, captain; John Reimer, a sailor of San Francisco; Emanuel Pasoulmis, chief cook; William L. Wilson, Jr., of Baltimore; L. Baker, Alameda, Cal.; Guy Bent, a boy of 12 years, of Nova Scotia; Albert Bulley of North Dakota, passenger; Charles Bruce, first officer; James Ward, chief engineer; T. F. Fissonte, second assistant engineer; John McKown, oiler; J. Driscoll, oiler; W. Hughes, fireman; W. Roberiens, fireman; James Atwood, seaman; H. Webbel, J. H. Johnson, seaman, and Charles Heron, third assistant engineer.

Charles Hudson, the first engineer, died of exposure as they were taking him off the life raft. Fourteen persons are yet missing and are probably lost.

The South Portland struck bow on, going at a speed of about seven knots. Immediately she began to settle astern and shortly after slid off the reef and began to sink. Captain McIntyre, seeing there was no hope of saving the ship, speedily had the boats lowered. One of the boats loaded with part of the crew and some of the passengers capsized as soon as it cleared the ship's side and when last seen was floating away in the fog without a living soul on board.

The captain's boat with about 18 on board succeeded in clearing, but was also capsized and only seven were able to get back to the boat. They consisted of Captain James McIntyre, John Reimer, Emanuel Pasoulmis, W. L. Wilson, L. Baker, Guy Bent and Albert Bulley. They reached Fort Oxford last night.

A life boat on which the following embarked succeeded in reaching shore this afternoon: Charles Bruce, first officer; James Ward, chief engineer; T. Fissonte, second assistant engineer; John McKown, oiler; J. Driscoll, oiler; W. Hughes, fireman; W. Roberiens, fireman; James Atwood, seaman; H. Webbel, J. H. Johnson, seaman, and Charles Heron, third assistant engineer.

FIRE AT THE WALDORF.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Fire started in the Waldorf-Astoria this afternoon, caused by an electric curling iron in a woman's apartment. A volume of black smoke poured out of a window on the Fifth avenue side. The heavy tapestry curtain was burning.

A policeman in the street saw the smoke and in about a minute and a dozen fire engines were on the scene. There was considerable excitement in the corridors and an immense throng of curious persons gathered in Fifth avenue. There was no panic and in less than five minutes the firemen, with extinguishers and the assistance of hotel employes had put the fire out.

Hotel employes were not worrying about informing guests that there was no danger, but the dining parlors and corridors were soon deserted. Half a dozen maids hurried out carrying small children. The news that the Waldorf was afire spread quickly down Fifth avenue, and an immense crowd assembled about the corners of Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets and Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Robert Wheeler, who occupied the suite that had been dressing her late and had left a small alcohol lamp on a table near the window. The window was open and a gust of air blew a certain into the flame of the lamp.

NOT ASKED TO ACT.

Aid of State Department Not Needed to Capture Ferguson Murder Suspects.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—No requests has been made of the state department for extradition papers for Milovar Kovovick and Milovar Puttovick, suspected of the murder of Contractor Ferguson in Washington county, Pa., supposed to be on their way to Austria.

Assistant Secretary Loomis said today that extradition papers could not be issued for the men until after they are apprehended, but that if the police know the suspects were on a vessel due to arrive at a foreign port they could request the state department to ask the government where the men will disembark to arrest and hold them pending extradition. The police usually communicate with the police of foreign countries and thus secure the detention of prisoners wanted here.

CALL ISSUED FOR EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—President Roosevelt today issued a call for an extra session of congress to convene November 9 to consider the Cuban reciprocity treaty. The proclamation states that it is important that this treaty become operative as soon as possible. No other special object for the extra session's consideration is mentioned.

MINERS ARE GETTING AWAY

Welshmen Enticed to Ellsworth Are Now Deserting the Place.

ALL WITHOUT MONEY

AUTHORITIES ARE ACTIVE

Ellsworth, the coal miners' settlement, owned and controlled by the Ellsworth Coal Company, was considerably depopulated yesterday. Between 25 and 30 of the Welsh miners who, it is alleged, were recently brought to this country in violation of the alien contract labor law, left the place disgusted with conditions as they found them and which they say are at great variance from what they were represented to be when they engaged in far-away Wales to come to Ellsworth—"one of the garden spots of America," as it was then painted to them.

Those who left yesterday walked in a body to Monongahela, where they applied to the miners working at that place for food and shelter, and for assistance in obtaining work whereby they can make their own living until such time as they can return to Wales. It is said that 18 more of the Welshmen have arranged to leave Ellsworth today and join those who descended on Monongahela last evening.

Are in Financial Distress.

The imported miners are being given hospitable treatment by the Monongahela miners. They are taking them in about as fast as they leave the Ellsworth mines. A reporter for The Gazette, who visited Monongahela last evening, found the alleged imported miners to be in great financial distress. Many of them gave convincing evidence that they were induced to come here under false representations. Three agents in Wales advertised in the papers for men for the mines in Pennsylvania. On September 26 the South Wales Echo, published at Pontypridd, contained the following advertisement:

"Miners earn from 25 to 35 pounds monthly. Beautiful new garden city in America. Cost of living less than here. Stamped envelope or personal call for full particulars. Milney, Aberdillery."

Another advertisement appearing in the same paper of a later date read:

"Miners—Good prospects for miners in Pennsylvania. Wages—Loaders, $80 to $100 per month. Machine cutters, $110 monthly. For further particulars apply personally to Jones & Sons, Town Hall Chambers, Pontypridd."

Still another advertisement appeared in the Pontypridd papers, which read:

"Miners—3,000 good, practical colliery workmen, coal hewers, timbermen, engineers, mulers, etc., for America. Wages 16 to 25 shillings per day. Apply personally to Jones Bros., Craig Postoffice, Pontypridd."

They Tell Tales of Woe.

Among those who answered the advertisements and who are now in Monongahela depending upon charity are: John Belcher married one child, Lewis Llewellen, married and three children; Herbert Vaughn, single; William Davis, single; David Morgan, single; Henry Hatherall, married, three children; Robert Morgan, married; James Williams, married, five children; Henry Puddy, married, four children; F. Boucher, single; R. Payne, single; Henry Brown, married; L. E. Lewis, married, one child; and Thomas Brixey, married, two children. All their families were left in Wales.

It was learned from the Welsh miners that they had been coming to this country for over five years. They have records which show that 26 came over on the Freisland, 29 on the Westerhand, 29 on the Aurania and 30 on the Majestic during the last two months. They have evidence that some came on other steamers, but do not know how many.

All of the men had letters of introduction to officials of the company, generally to H. J. Millar. Thomas Brixey, who appears to be the principal man among the Welshmen, made the following statement last night:

Inducements Held Out in Wales.

"I was induced to come to this country by the numerous advertisements appearing in the Welsh papers. We were told that the Ellsworth mines were newly developed and that the company wanted practical Welsh miners, as the coal vein was nearly the same as exists in Wales. We were told that the company preferred Welsh miners to any other nationality. I was given a letter by Mr. Jones, which stipulates what salary I should receive when arriving here. I still have the letter, and will give it to William Little, of the United Mine workers.

"Upon my arrival last week I went to the office of the company. On the desk I saw a list of names and recognized mine among them. Learning of the conditions of the miners who came before me, I ask what wages I were to receive, but I could get no satisfaction other than all I could make in the mines. My friend who came with me worked three days and after working 10 hours daily, with all his might, he only earned $1.25 a day. On these wages I could not keep myself and support my wife and two children in Wales, or would I save enough to bring them to this country.

"They agree to send for your family if you sign an iron-clad contract to remain with the firm until you pay back the cost in bringing them here. It would require a lifetime to fulfill the contract."

James Williams who has a wife and five children in Wales, expressed himself in this manner: "I came here with barely sufficient money to reach Ellsworth. I expected to be able to send some money home after being here two weeks. I have been here four and have not earned a cent. I want to return home, and hope the company will be made to send me."

Over 200 Miners Imported.

The United Mine workers' officials, after continuing their investigation, learn that over 200 miners have been imported. Of this number 100 have secured work at various mines, 60 are in Monongahela City without work, and 30 are submitting to the terms of the Ellsworth company.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Government inspectors working on the alleged violation of the contract labor law have discovered evidence that possibly 200 other Welsh miners now employed in Ellsworth, Pa., came here within two years in violation to the statutes. Commissioner Rodgers said tonight that the authorities are thoroughly aroused and are making a searching investigation.

On account of today's developments the detained miners will not be deported on the Haverford on Saturday, as originally intended, but will be detained as witnesses.

Overwhelmed with disappointment, half of the imprisoned immigrants gave way to tears this afternoon. Harder to bear than their own misfortune is the thought of those left at home. They had provided their wives and children, having taken every penny they could scrape together to pay their passage over, that they would send them the first wages they earned.

PRACTICAL AIRSHIP LARGE AS BIG OCEAN STEAMSHIP

Successful San Francisco Aeronaut Says Only the Cost Deters Him from Construction of Great Air Vessel for Commercial Purposes.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—Dr. August Greth, who on Sunday successfully sailed the air in a ship of his own invention, intends to compete for the $100,000 prize and gold medal to be awarded for the most successful airship at the St. Louis exposition. Today he explained the properties of his airship as compared with the Santos-Dumont and Spencer machines. He said:

"There are three kinds of flying machines, so called. The first, in theory, consists of a machine that needs no buoyant attachment and can raise itself by its own force as does a bird.

"I regard this sort of a machine impossible in the present development of force. The weight of the best power we have increases in geometrical proportion to its raising power, so that if we have an engine weighing two pounds, for instance, and capable of raising two pounds from the earth by itself, and it should be desired to double its raising capacity, we would have to increase its weight to eight pounds. Manifestly when we desire to utilize such power to raise a ton, for instance, the weight of the engine alone would be so great as to preclude it raising itself. Birds do not grow too large size because an increase in their weight would preclude their flying freely.

"Accordingly we are left with two possible problems. One is an airship with a gas bag inside, and containing machinery and steering appliances with accommodation for freight and passengers. This must necessarily be on a large scale and its size would have to be enormous. To be properly dirigible and have a commercial value it would have to be as large as our greatest ocean liners. I have models for this kind of airship and I hope to live to see one completed along the lines of my plans. The cost of it is all that deters me from constructing one at present."

POLICE ACCUSED OF BLACKMAILING

WOMAN FIGURES IN STORY

Conspiracy Having Extensive Ramifications in Which Are Involved Many Prominent Lawyers and City Officials Is Laid Bare at Wind City Investigation.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The most startling charges yet laid before the Herrmann investigating committee, were filed today by U. Linder Wilkinson and S. A. De Boldt, who separately told an astonishing story of how detectives had aided in mulcting a St. Louis millionaire out of a fortune in sums aggregating $250,000.

Their narrative described how members of the Chicago police department assisted in a conspiracy whereby Zachariah W. Tinker was blackmailed in connection with the famous Wilkinson divorce case. Making use of the charges of a young wife and the jealousy of a husband as a means to exact graft, formed the theme of the sensational story. One detective was mentioned specifically as having acted in behalf of the various parties to the proceedings, and to have paid the husband $1,500 as an installment on a settlement that was never completed, so far as the husband was concerned, although thousands are said to have been "put up" among the conspirators.

John J. Kelly, a detective sergeant, operating from detective headquarters in the city hall, was named as the man who made the payment and who otherwise participated in the proceedings preliminary to the divorce. Others are mentioned whose names have not yet been disclosed, including two prominent lawyers, members of large and highly rated law firms.

Public officials were declared to have acted as agencies for bringing the various acquaintances of the millionaire and the young wife, and later as the means through which they were trapped. The husband's jealous rage furnished the necessary element to make wholesale grafting possible.

While the millionaire who shared with the estranged husband and wife the lot of a victim of the "ring" was not named to the committee, little secrecy exists as to his identity.

The city hall graft investigation took an unexpected turn today when it found its way before the grand jury. As a result Public Works Commissioner Block is threatened with prosecution on charges of having made campaign contributions from city employes in defiance of the state laws. The penalty prescribed is a fine of $50 to $1,000, or six months in jail, or both.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER AFTER SEEING WORLD

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Accused of a murder committed here 17 years ago John Healy will be placed on trial tomorrow. Former friends and acquaintances now in their old age, who had nearly forgotten the man and the deed, will retell the story of the old crime and identify Healy despite his changed appearance. Healy shot and killed Ferdinand Pommeranz in the yard of the latter's home, July 3, 1886. Healy escaped and has since traveled about the world.

In the meantime a murder was committed in Kansas City, the victim being a woman, and Healy, under the name of Radmond, was charged with the crime.

After the Kansas City murder he joined Roosevelt's Rough Riders but deserted. Later he joined the army and was sent to Manila, where he was arrested for the Kansas City murder. He was dishonorably discharged, and returned to face trial. Witnesses had disappeared, however, and he was not convicted of the crime.

After several more years of wandering he returned to Chicago in the belief that his experiences and advancing years had altered him beyond recognition. He was arrested here in connection with the recent car barn murders, but proved an alibi. Later, he was arrested for the Pommeranz murder.

CHAMBERLAIN ANSWERS CRITICS

POLICY NOT A PARTY ISSUE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—At Newcastle tonight Joseph Chamberlain returned to the tariff controversy, when he addressed an enthusiastic meeting of 4,000 persons, and held his immense audience for an hour and a half. It was his first public appearance since his recent illness and he was apparently in good health. A novel feature of the meeting was a battery of telephone receivers placed in front of the speaker's platform, by means of which the speech was conveyed directly to the offices of local newspapers. Interest in the tariff controversy has apparently not abated, reports on the speech and comment on it taking precedence in the press of even the decision of the Alaskan boundary tribunal.

The speech was principally a reply to criticisms of Mr. Chamberlain's previous utterances. He declared he was glad to try and answer any one who was ready to seriously discuss the problem from a national, not from a party, standpoint, and deprecated the personal elements which several of his prominent opponents had injected into the controversy. The former colonial secretary devoted considerable attention to ridiculing Lord Rosebery, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Earl Spencer.

He said that considering the fact that he had been termed an electioneering quack whose arguments were not worth answering, he was surprised at the amount of popular interest and newspaper comment his proposals had elicited. Then speaking seriously of his opponents he said he had not raised a party, but rather a national question. He was willing to answer seriously the points raised by men like Lord Goschen and H. H. Asquith.

He had not pretended, he continued, that his system could be introduced without costing anything at the start, but he did urge that taxation be transferred from points where it benefited nobody, to points where the empire would profit. If the country had adopted in the past it was not because of the free trade Mr. Chamberlain said he was not standing before his hearers because he had had the gout, but in spite of it.

Replying to the charge that he had based his whole system on the boom year of 1872, Mr. Chamberlain said his opponents would find, if they took the five-year periods working back from 1875, that these would show better still for his side of the case. He went at length into statistics with a view of proving this contention. He said he did not claim that the empire would break up immediately if his system was not adopted, but he thought it had a certain tendency towards cleavage, and commercial preference was the only method of binding the colonies to the mother country.

The colonies contained 11,000,000 whites who had offered to make sacrifices, if necessary, in order to build up an empire such as the world had not yet seen. The United Kingdom should not turn a deaf ear to these offers and thereby lose a chance which, if neglected never would recur.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE GROWING RAPIDLY

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The export trade to Australia is growing at a rapid rate. The steamship Sellasia, of the United States and Australasia line, sailed Sunday from the Erie basin stores for Fremantle, Melbourne, Sydney, and the New Zealand ports. She takes out a great cargo of American manufactured goods. It is but a week since the Star of Ireland sailed from the Atlantic dock for the Australasian ports and the big Bavarahan Grange is loading at the east central pier, Atlantic dock. It is but a couple of weeks since another great ship of an equal tonnage, 11,500, sailed from the same pier, for the Australian and New Zealand ports. These two ships alone carry about 30,000 weighter and measured tons of freight.

In connection with the export trade, there is reported a largely increased demand for corn, corn meal, and "samp" in South Africa. There had been a big slack up in the demand, but now this has disappeared. Samp is a form of broken corn, and is much used in South Africa by the natives.

BOOM NEEDED HEAVIER BRACES

MANAGER HUSTON IS RETICENT

Will Make No Statement Until After an Investigation—Removing the Bodies of the Dead—Arrangements for Three Funerals Today.

Officials of the American Bridge Company made an an investigation yesterday into the breaking of the traveler at the Wabash bridge Monday, resulting in the death of 10 men and the injury of five more. One of the engineers who examined the damaged structure said that the boom of the traveler was not sufficiently braced. Heavy log chains over the top of the traveler and boom would probably have averted the accident.

This information was as much as could be learned from the company's officials. General Manager Huston is the only person permitted to give out an official statement, and he said he was not prepared to discuss the cause of the accident until he had received reports from the investigators.

All of the dead have been removed with the exception of John R. Campbell. Secretary W. C. Bennett of the Pittsburgh union received a telegram yesterday afternoon stating that a brother was on his way here to take charge of the remains. He will arrive this morning and will take the body to Ontario, Canada, the home of Campbell.

Secretary W. C. Bennett and Business Agent George Boyd were busy yesterday arranging for the funerals of the victims. The local instructed Bennett to secure floral tributes and yesterday afternoon he placed an order for 10 wreaths, one for each of the dead.

The Pittsburgh local will take charge of three funerals. The others are not members of the local, most of them living outside the city. The funeral of George Wells of No. 1430 Fifth avenue will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. That of Edward Morris, Reed street, at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and that of Charles Simmons of No. 936 West North street, Allegheny, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The three will be interred in the Homewood cemetery. The local headquarters of the structural iron workers were ordered closed until after the funerals of the victims. The indications are they will be the largest funerals witnessed in Pittsburgh for some time.

The report circulated that the Pittsburgh local would enter suit against the American Bridge Company for damages was emphatically denied by officials of the union. They claim the report is absurd, from the fact that the local was not damaged by the accident, other than losing three valuable members. If the suits are entered the families of the victims must be the plaintiffs. The local will assist in any way possible to secure justice for the families of the victims.

TRIED MEMBERS LOST.

Executive Board of Structural Iron Workers Adopts Resolutions of Sympathy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The executive board of the Structural Iron Workers' union met today to discuss the labor situation in New York as stirred up by Samuel J. Parks. It was decided to appoint a conciliation board to bring the employers and union men into harmony. This board will be named by President Buchanan. The disaster in Pittsburgh was discussed and the following resolutions adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to call from our midst our beloved brothers in the catastrophe on the new Wabash bridge in course of construction at Pittsburgh, and,

Whereas, By said catastrophe the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers have lost active and tried members who have always been active for the advancement of their fellow men, and,

Whereas, Their families and relatives have lost kind and affectionate husbands and dutiful sons,

Therefore, Be it resolved, that we, the members of the executive board of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers hereby express our sincere sympathy and extend our condolence to their bereaved families and relatives, and be it further,

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, published in our official journal and a copy be forwarded to the families and relatives of our deceased brothers.

Resolutions were also passed expressing the sympathy of the executive board for local No. 3 of Pittsburgh, of which the victims were members.

STEEL OFFICALS SAY ECOMOMY IS NECESSARY

Conclusion Reached After Tour of Plants by Managing Directors.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Officials and managing directors of the United States Steel Corporation returned this morning from their annual trip of inspection of the company's vast system of plants and properties thoroughly imbued with the idea that the present was the proper time for effecting economies. This will include not only the closing of plants where the cost of production is higher than in others, but also the establishment of lower wages to thousands of employes of the big corporation.

To the finance committee, which held a meeting this afternoon, the various members who took the trip made a general report. It told of the closing of blast furnaces of suspending work at certain ore properties, and at various finishing plants.

The most important question, however, which the officials have to consider in the near future is the wage question and the labor difficulty. The executive officials and directors who returned today gave it as their opinion that the wage question would settle itself in time, but that reductions in wages would undoubtedly have to be made. On this principle the directors are practically agreed.

Eight Million Dollars Now in the Vaults of the Financial Institutions of the Monumental City—No Fear of Further Trouble Is Now Felt by Financiers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20.—Four million dollars which arrived here early this morning by express from New York, Philadelphia and Washington, cleared the financial atmosphere and at the closing time of the various monetary institutions this afternoon, there was every confidence that the crisis in the financial district of the city had been safely passed.

Every incoming train during the late afternoon and evening brought packages of money to the banks and trust companies, and tonight it is estimated that there is at least $8,000,000 of currency in the vaults of the financial institutions here. Conferences were held during the evening between various interests and it was stated late tonight that no further trouble was probable.

The directors and the receiver of the Maryland Trust Company, the first to close its doors on Monday, held a conference today, and discussed ways and means, but late tonight Receiver Allan McLane said he had nothing to make public. He expressed the opinion that the company would in the near ture be in position to pay dollar for dollar to all its depositors and creditors.

The directors of the Union Trust Company, the other institution which closed, also held a long session during the day. While the statement of assets and liabilities of this company is not ready to be presented to the courts, Receiver White expressed the opinion that the company will in a few days resume business.

Other banking and trust companies have been well fortified with currency, and no further trouble is expressed from any quarter.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—John Barrett, United States minister to the Argentine republic, who was formerly minister to Siam, thinks that neither Russia nor Japan are eager for war. Mr. Barrett only recently returned from Manchuria and China whither he went as special commissioner for the St. Louis exposition.

"I honestly believe," said Mr. Barrett last night, "from what knowledge I have of both Russia's and Japan's interests in Asia, that neither of them are anxious to for war. The leading statesmen of both countries cannot fail to see that whichever side won in actual warfare, neither would gain anything substantial, or to compensate for the cost of such a struggle and its injurious effect upon commerce and trade. Bad feeling would be engendered that would crumble the attitude of the United States would be to avoid being drawn in any way into the conflict. Yet our country has a great deal at stake because of the chief market for American products in China today is in the northern section of that country and Manchuria."

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Officials of the foremost bituminous coal companies of Pennsylvania and West Virginia today stated that the soft coal railroads are discount of demoralization of the bituminous coal industry, have determined to adopt stringent measures to curtail production. The railroads, it was stated, are prepared, if necessary, for a curtailment on the part of individual operators by causing a car famine so that the coal, even if mined, cannot be carried to tidewater. Efforts have already been made to prevent overproduction by persuading the individual operators to voluntarily restrict production. These efforts have so far been futile.

An attempt to form some plan to get the control of the Pennsylvania fields will be made this week when officials of the principal coal operators of Central Pennsylvania met in Philadelphia today to take preliminary steps looking toward this end.

The causes which have produced the present demoralization date back to the anthracite strike. A great many men rushed into the bituminous coal trade at that time and much capital was invested. It could not be easily withdrawn. Consequently these new interests are still in the business. The suspension of the anthracite mines and the curtailment of steel production lessened the market for bituminous coal, but the supply did not decrease. The trade is in a condition now where it would welcome a strike. This is the opinion of a prominent official of one of the companies.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—U. S. District Attorney Holland is not satisfied with the story of the escape yesterday of Albert T. Bell, the Colorado train confessed mail pouch thief and swindler, who was being brought from Denver to Philadelphia. The district attorney learned today direct from Deputies Baker and Davis, who had charge of Bell, the circumstances of the escape.

In his statement to the district attorney, Deputy Davis said neither he nor Baker had ever been in Philadelphia before. According to the records of the U. S. marshal's office Davis was in Philadelphia on April 24, 1900, having brought to the city T. S. Stewart, a national bank embezzler, who has been arrested in Denver. Bell is still at large.

TRANCE SLEEPER PUZZLES PHILADELPHIA DOCTORS

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Even the powerful application of an electric battery has failed to thoroughly arouse Dionysio Beguer, the trance sleeper at St. Joseph's hospital. For eight days he has lain in a stupor that puzzles Dr. Williams and the other resident physicians at the institution. The battery and the effect of making the strange Cuban talk incoherently and at one time cry "enough," but few other words escaped his lips.

"We put the battery on him again this morning," said Dr. Clark today, "and carefully noted its action. This was before his breakfast. The customary twitching of the eyelids and then the gradual relaxation of the muscles as the force of the current increased. The arms lost their rigidity and began waving, and then Beguer commenced to talk. He only muttered, and try as we would, we could not understand him.

"I kept the current on several minutes, but could arouse him no more. Then his breakfast was brought in, and as soon as we disappeared he ate it. If he thinks we are watching he will not touch a morsel, and this is the only reason to think he may be shamming. But so many other signs point to catalepsy that I cannot believe he is faking."

Another feature in the case was noticed today. Beguer's face has assumed a peculiar pallor so that at times he looks almost as though dead. Only when the battery is put on him does this disappear. Then the pale cheeks are suffused with color and he again appears sleeping.

This, the doctor thinks, is not an unnatural condition, as Beguer's strength does not seem to fail, and he continues to eat with relish.

SCOFFERS HISS ZION PROPHET

I gave the house to Mrs. Dowie, as I had a right to do.

"All of my deacons and overseers are men of education. They are college graduates, men of wide experience and good family, and yet I say there is none of them that is my equal. I am the moral, intellectual and spiritual superior of my entire host. There is no equality in Zion. I live according to my means and my people live according to theirs."

Dowie referred to the presence of his guards in the room, and told how he was always protected against possible assassination. He continued:

"I have been vilified and misrepresented. I say now to the newspapers that if you want a fight you can have it in any way that you want. And the next time that any paper prints anything that I do not like I will bar its representative from Madison Square garden. I will spank the press of this city unless it does what is right."

PARKHURST SCOURGES DOWIE THE "PROPHET"

Intimates in Critical Letter That "Elijah II." Is a Coarse Mountebank.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The following letter has been written to "Prophet" Dowie by the Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst:

The Rev. John Alexander Dowie:

Dear Sir:—I do not want to be presuming, but doubt if it is any more presumptive in me to call and try to clarify you than it is for you to come and try to clarify New York, and I do not know which of us has taken the heavier contract. I attended your services at Madison Square garden in person, and I left determined to enjoy it if I could and to be benefited by it and to go away and refute some of the charges that I had heard alleged against you.

But it was of no use; your behavior on the platform crushed every throb of sympathy I had with you. I never heard from a public speaker such a shocking display of egotism and self-assertion. I went to hear you preach the gospel and you preached Dowie. Men City, "think pet." I was ashamed of you, and almost ashamed to be in your audience.

It was a long way below the standard even of the circuses that I have attended in the same garden. The only consolation I could derive was that it was so contemptible and so far beyond the bounds of the respectable that even those in your congregation who did not know what Christianity is would have no idea that it had anything to do with what you were saying.

Of course, the ridiculousness of the performance was only enhanced by the immensity of your pretensions. If you claimed to be only an ordinary man there might be some hope for you, even with what you call the "rabble," but the rabble is discriminating and can discriminate as readily as the people between a prophet and a juggler, between an Elijah and a mountebank. I say this in no spirit of anger, but either your head is twisted or your heart is rotten, or you have adopted both as your method. You cannot bully people into Zion nor blackguard them into the kingdom of heaven.

I hope you will take this in the kindly spirit in which it is offered, and that it will be blessed to you. Yours sincerely,

C. H. PARKHURST.

CHICAGO CREDITOR SUES THE PROPHET

Marshall Field Seeks Payment for $5,000 Worth of Goods Sold to Zion.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WAUKEGAN, ILL., Oct. 20.—Marshall Field of Chicago has brought suit against John Alexander Dowie for $5,000, and it develops that the Chicago merchant and the Lake county authorities showed the prophet how to outflank Dowie in the face of his New York invasion, for a summons in the suit was served on him in his mansion in Zion City on the morning of his departure a week ago tomorrow. The matter had been kept quiet, as Marshall Field was one of the creditors whom Dowie boasted would give him unlimited credit.

A few hours before his train was ready to leave, Deputy Sheriff Griffin of Lake county appeared at Dowie's door and was ushered into the parlor, where the officer read three summonses for suits in claims for goods delivered in Zion City. Dowie took the matter as a serious affront, thinking it might have been left over until his return or else be brought up at another time other than on his eve of departure. He said that the bills were safe and that when he came back he would pay them.

DOWIE WANTS CUT RATES.

Leader of Zion Wants Clergy Rates on the Railroads for His Proselytes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The Trans-continental Passenger association was unable to decide today what to do with regard to John Alexander Dowie, his elders and his missionaries. An application was received by the association requesting that Zion City be given the privilege of clergy rates, such as is accorded to the ministers and missionaries.

A refusal to grant this privilege, according to Dowie, would be a plain violation of the Elkins law, which prohibits discrimination. The application was finally referred to a committee which is expected to make a report before the session closes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Sir Henry Irving and the 80 members of his company, who will support him in the production of "Dante" Monday evening, arrived today on the Minneapolis. ## Angry Indiana Farmers Hunting for Assailant of Young Girl.

ROSEDALE, IND., Oct. 20.—Twenty enraged farmers are on the trail of an unknown man who, today, brutally assaulted Lena Aikire, the 10-year-old daughter of William Aikire. The man was riding a bicycle and threatened to kill the children if they told of his deed. The child was able to describe the man to her father.

Aikire came to Rosedale to call a physician and ask for support in running down the assailant. A posse was soon organized and took the road followed by the wheelman. Excitement is intense and it is difficult if a lynching can be prevented if the guilty man is caught.

CARNEGIE REITERATES HIS HOPE OF UNION

LIMERICK, IRELAND, Oct. 20.—The freedom of this city was given to Andrew Carnegie today. Referring in a speech to emigration, Mr. Carnegie said that "Ireland's loss in this respect is America's gain." He looked for the day, he continued, when the United States and Canada would have a population of 250,000,000, and with the British Isles would form one nation. "We are an English-speaking people," he said, "and we are aiming to the nations of Europe." Subsequently Mr. Carnegie laid the foundation stone of a library.

STEVENSON'S MEN STILL WARLIKE

Councilman's Faction in Fourteenth Ward Will Not Recognize Organization.

M'ILVAIN WRITES A LETTER

Sends Men to Bigelow in the Hope of Lifting Verner Out of the Dumps. Citizens Employ Floating Audience Who Are Weary of Job.

Councilman W. H. Stevenson's faction in the Fourteenth ward held a meeting last night to take stock. W. J. Moore assured his followers that Capt. E. Y. Breck's committee would not be recognized in any way, and if necessary the courts would be appealed to to prove that the ward organization belonged to the friends of the "orphan" leader.

The Stevenson men do not care a rap about the Bigelow ticket this fall, but they want to control the organization when it comes time to elect councilmen, in February. They know that John Lauer, Christ Beckert, James J. Booth and D. F. Crawford have formed a combination to try to defeat the re-election of Stevenson. The feeling on both sides is intense.

Thomas S. Bigelow has a plan which he hopes will hold the Stevenson crowd. He is to recognize Moore as the real ward chairman in this fight and Verner is to stand by Breck. The same scheme is to be worked in the Fourth ward, where Bigelow gives his orders through Select Councilman Peter J. Donahoe and Verner through John Gibbons. The Moore people last night indulged in some discussion about the necessity of getting out the vote, but it was understood that Breck's committee is to get no assistance.

McIlvain Writes a Letter.

Director E. J. McIlvain of Allegheny will probably get a note in his morning mail reading something like this:

"Dear McIlvain, don't write.—T. S. B."

This letter, addressed to Thomas S. Bigelow, Fourth avenue, and written on the stationery of the Allegheny department of public works, yesterday found its way into print.

Dear Sir—It is gratifying to me to report that Mr. Murray of the Philadelphia Co. has assured us of his help, and with the employes of the Co. that is through Judge Reed, did not, or would not, interfere with employes politically last fall. So Mr. Murray's large influence with the men will be great in Allegheny. Also saw the Rosedale foundry people, there 200 men are with us. We will with this influence get nearly all of them. You can encourage Mr. Verner with this, as many favorable reports coming in.

Respectfully submitted,

E. J. McILVAIN.

Their information will be gratifying to Mr. Murray, Judge Reed and the Rosedale foundry. Mr. Verner's friends will also trust that the intelligence contained in the report of the faithful adherents of the Bigelow machine will tend to transform him from a "Jim Dumps" to a "Sunny Jim." Incidentally the public will have an opportunity of officially learning that the machine expects to drive the employes of corporations to the polls.

James W. Clark and T. S. Bigelow are both of the opinion that the passage of the linear tax ordinance will not be of any benefit to the machine in securing votes this fall.

Packing the Meetings.

Democratic-Citizens leaders have adopted a plan to insure audiences at their mass meetings. It is rather costly, and so far has not been very effective. The plan is being used extensively in the two weeks. At the Hall & Clark meeting in Braddock, out of an audience of 600 or 600, not more than 100 were residents of the borough. From McKeesport the Citizens political organization brought a delegation of 150. A big carload came from the Thirty-seventh ward, Pittsburgh, and two carloads from Wilkinsburg. Smaller delegations came from other nearby communities.

Dissatisfaction is already springing up among the members of these professional audiences, and the orators also have a grievance. The latter that it is difficult to throw any enthusiasm into a speech delivered night after night, when it is addressed to the same audience, who show by their weary manner that they have heard it many times before. One of the professional auditors voiced the grievance of his fellows as follows:

"It's pretty become listening to the same talk every night. It's not anyhow, they're not buying up as much drink as they promised. They don't realize what dry work it is for us."

"Republican workers in Wilkinsburg are most enthusiastic," said County Chairman Thomas J. Ford, yesterday. "At a meeting held in Penn hall, Wilkinsburg, over 200 active Republicans were present, a number of whom had been identified with the Democratic-Citizens party in the two former campaigns. All over the county I see the same thing. All the good class of voters who were misled by the promises of the Citizens leaders are returning to the Republican party. I look for an old-time honored Republican majority next month."

Disfranchising Voters.

The Citizens organization is using the county offices to give them an advantage at the approaching election and, incidentally, are disfranchising a number of citizens. It has been the custom heretofore, when the county treasurer's office was operated by a Republican, to get the delinquent tax books into the hands of the country collectors about the middle or latter end of September. This would give the delinquents ample opportunity to pay their taxes the necessary 30 days before the county election. This year not a book has been sent out to date, and the delinquents will be unable to vote. It was stated in the treasurer's office that none of the books would be sent out until after election.

Republicans of the Sixth precinct, North Versailles township, have formed a strong organization that promises to roll up a large vote on November 3. The officers of the organization are: Daniel Creighton, East Pittsburgh, president; Edward Hussey, East Pittsburgh, secretary; Thomas A. McGuigan, Brinton, treasurer.

The Republican colored voters of the Eleventh ward will open headquarters at No. 1221 Webster avenue this evening. Addresses will be made by Representative E. Cook and Capt. John A. Reed.

Many of the members of the Jacksonian club of Allegheny have announced their intention of supporting the Republican county ticket. Among the number is President Victor E. Paulin, who says that the club has not indorsed the Republican candidates.

PAYROLLERS TRY TO BREAK UP A MEETING

Allegheny Republicans Knew of Their Intention and Could Not Be Stampeded.

Convicted in advance of an intention to break up a Republican meeting last night, the Allegheny payroll brigade had not the courage to annoy the speakers with illumed interruptions, as had been their purpose. It ended in a lame attempt of Martin Mitchell, street superintendent of the western district, to stampede the audience by taking away the Italians, negroes and the few Americans whom the administration employs in street work in Allegheny. The payrollers obeyed Mitchell's orders and went out, but their absence, while it left empty seats, showing how desperate had been their intentions, only increased the enthusiasm of the audience that remained.

Thomas M. Strickler, former assistant city engineer, who resigned a few weeks ago and relegated to the private ranks, was the chairman of the meeting, and Dr. James W. Dickson, Charles A. O'Brien and others were the speakers. The meeting was called to order by Edward L. Braun, chairman of the Republican ward committees, and Strickler was elected chairman. In his speech Mr. Strickler said he had been informed that the Wyman administration intended to make trouble at the meeting, and that men on the city payroll were there to do the work. He pointed out the futility of intelligent mechanics trying to create disorder at a political meeting was an indictable offense.

Dr. Dickson made his speech annoyed only by the shuffling of feet and loud talking by the payroll brigade, but after another speaker had finished Martin Mitchell arose. The eyes of his cohorts were fixed upon him.

"Come on, boys; the meeting's over," said Mitchell, waving his hand toward the door.

Instantly the brigade arose, 50 strong, and made for the door, while the Republicans laughed and made it good evening. The meeting proceeded without further interruption.

DYNAMITERS WILL BE CAPTURED IN EUROPE

McQuaide Confident He Will Soon Have Perpetrators of Washington Co. Outrage.

There seems to be no doubt in the mind of Superintendent of Detectives Thomas A. McQuaide, that the men who killed and robbed Contractor Samuel T. Ferguson on September 23, in Washington county, are now on the ocean on their way to their homes, and their arrest is expected in England or Germany next week. It has now been established that Milovar Kovovich and Milovar Patrovich left New York on a steamer, Saturday, under assumed names, for the town of Slung, Croatia, Austria-Hungary.

The Ferguson Contracting Company has retained Attorney John Marron to conduct the extradition proceedings and also to aid the district attorney of Washington county in the prosecution. The police in the ports in England and Germany, where the steamer touches, have been notified to search the vessel and arrest the men. A description of the men has been furnished by Supt. McQuaide and it is expected they will easily be picked out.

The men evaded the police in New York by changing their names. The detectives looked over the steamer's passenger list instead of picking the men out on description. McQuaide has positive information that the men are on the steamer and will land in Europe Monday or Tuesday. The name of the boat he refuses to make public at this time.

Members of the Ferguson Contracting Company called on Director Harry Moore and asked him to extend Supt. McQuaide and Detective Richard Kelly a leave of absence to go to Europe and bring back the men, provided they are arrested.

Supt. McQuaide has made an information in Washington county against the men according to his statement he traced them through Pittsburgh and succeeded in finding where they converted some of their money into Bulgarian currency. At one place they got exchange for $5,000, and at another place they had $2,000 converted into Hungarian money. They posed as laborers who had made their fortunes in America and were going back to the old country.

HAYS SIGNS TAX BILL.

Franchise Law Approved by Mayor Does Not Go Into Effect Until 1904.

Mayor Hays yesterday signed the one-year linear tax bill. The first collection under this ordinance is not made until May, 1904, which is nearly six months after the next municipal election. It is admitted that the corporations will contest the law in the courts, unless it is repealed after the election, and will carry the case to the supreme court if necessary.

The case, even if acted upon in the quickest possible time, could not go through the county and supreme courts in less than a year, and in the meantime the ordinance will have lapsed of its own accord; and the Citizen party leaders say the law will not be re-enacted until a decision is handed down.

TWENTY-YEAR SENTENCE IS HANGING OVER SAM PARKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Another indictment against Samuel Parks, the labor leader, was found today by the grand jury. This indictment charges him with perjury and on conviction he can be sent away for 20 years. The indictment grew out of Park's testimony when he swore that he never saw or accepted the $200 check from Josephus Plenty in Bernard Lynch's saloon. Lynch refuted this testimony, as did Henry Farley, whose sensational confession is now in the district attorney's hands.

He was unable to resume his work and was taken to his home in Allegheny.

DEAD MEN'S NAMES ON REGISTRY LIST

Wholesale Padding Discovered in All Parts of the Cities and County.

ASSESSORS TAKEN INTO COURT

Serious Charges Made Against Officials. Making Election Boards an Important Factor in the Present Contest—Making Voters in a Hurry.

M. G. Leslie, chairman of the Republican city committee, who has been paying much attention to the registry lists, has turned up wholesale padding all over the city. He said yesterday that they had practically completed a canvass of Pittsburgh, and find that in many districts Citizens-Democratic registry assessors will have to be taken into court for the purpose of purging their lists. Names of dead and absent persons appear by the score, and names are duplicated in several voting districts of the county.

"In one district of the Seventh ward," said Mr. Leslie, "the list has been padded to the extent of 237 names, whereas the total vote of the district last February was only 250. The Citizens-Democratic machine has control of 155 election districts in the city out of a total of 239. They are not satisfied with that control, but are sending out letters to all the election officers for the purpose of getting the names of the clerks—something unheard of in the history of politics.

Desperate Methods Attempted.

"The purpose of this is clear. It is the open boast of machine men that with the election boards under their control, padded registry lists and the clerks under their thumb, they will simply try to steal the election if necessary in the districts they control. But the Republicans have no fear of this. We will win the election.

"The Republican party always accorded its opponents fair treatment in politics and was never accused of trying to use its boards, which it controlled for years, in this outrageous manner. The Republican party will have, in addition to its watchers and overseers, other officers of the law to protect the rights of voters on election day, and the courts will attend any cases where crooked work is attempted.

"With the power of the police department in the present hands, it is a serious problem that is confronting the people at this election. In addition to the districts which have been taken into court, there will be 15 voters' lists in which lists will be taken into court. These lists have been padded from 60 to 150 names in each district.

"The unusual proceeding of a political party asking for the names of the clerks of election boards is likely to arouse the ire of voters everywhere. The following is a copy of a letter dated October 15 and sent to J. M. Gould, majority inspector of the Second district of the Seventeenth ward:

Want Names of Clerks.

My Dear Sir:—You are an election officer in your precinct. It is essential for the proper conduct of the next election that you select a good, sober, reliable clerk. Kindly send his name to headquarters with his postoffice address. An early reply will greatly oblige. Yours very truly,

JAMES A. CLARK,
Chairman of Democratic county committee.
B. H. J. CARNEGIE,
Secretary.

Attorney Charles A. O'Brien yesterday went into common pleas court No. 3 and presented petitions asking for rules on Lawrence Bur, assessor of the Sixth district, Thirteenth ward, and on Peter Simon, assessor of the Second district, Fifth ward, to show cause why they should not correct their registry lists by striking therefrom certain names.

W. A. Harris files the petition against Bur, and charges that Bur will, in placing names of fictitious persons and names not entitled to be on the list, which was returned on September 3, 1903.

Harris avers that he has made a careful examination of conditions in the Sixth district canvassed, books and addresses included in the district, and found that people named were not in the ward. He accuses Bur of committing breaches of duty and numerous errors in compiling the list. A list of 50 names is attached which are alleged to be there illegally.

Assessor Must Explain.

The court made an order as prayed for on Harris' petition and it is returnable on October 23 next. No order was made in the other petition, the court taking the paper, but it is possible one will be made today.

Philippe Petitnato and Fillippo Burnello, the former charged with procuring a certificate of citizenship by fraud, the latter with aiding and abetting him and swearing to the affidavit, as witness, that Petitnato has been in this country over five years, were convicted in the United States district court yesterday. Attorneys William J. Brennen, Thomas B. Alcorn, W. S. Blair and G. M. Wright appeared for the defendants and United States District Attorney James S. Young and his assistants, David Miller and Robert Gibson, represented the government.

The prosecution showed by a copy of the manifesto of the steamship Lombard that a man named Guiseppe Petitnato arrived at Ellis Island, New York, from Italy on February 27, 1902, and Domitilo Scipio, an Italian, who resided in the same town in Italy with Petitnato, said he thinks when he came to this country about two years ago he left Petitnato there.

William T. Lindsay and L. D. Gamble, United States clerks, testified that Petitnato and Burnello had secured the papers for the certificate on March 2, 1903.

The defense did not put the accused on the witness stand but the attorneys for them tried hard to keep the ship manifest and the petitions alleged to have been signed by the defendants out of court, but the court overruled the objection.

Jury Decided Quickly.

Attorneys Brennen and Alcorn spoke for the defense and tried to convince the jury that there was no evidence to prove the defendants guilty. Mr. Young spoke for the government, and at five minutes to 4 o'clock Judge Buffington gave the case to the jury after a short charge. At 4:15 the jury returned its verdict which was guilty on all the counts.

Gregorio Scelete, an Italian, who was a witness in the case, and will also be in the 13 other cases of the same nature to be tried this week, was called before the court and sent to jail as a witness not being able to obtain bail.

Petitnato was released on bail and Burnello was committed in default of $1,000 bail.

In common pleas court No. 1 yesterday the entire bench sat for a short time to hear the arguments of counsel on the objections filed by the Socialist Labor party. The Socialist party has filed papers claiming the right to use the appellation, and the objectors claim that the law prohibits such a use of any portion of the name of the Socialist Labor party. The papers are in the hands of Judge James R. Macfarlane and a decision will be handed down later.

The name of Mayor William B. Hays has not been taken from the trial list in criminal court and the case will be called today. He is charged with a misdemeanor in discharging old soldiers without sufficient cause.

POLICEMAN ON TRIAL.

Trial Board Is Likely to Make a Number of Changes on the South Side.

Reorganization of the South Side police force will probably result from the meeting of the trial board today. Action will be taken on the cases of Capt. J. N. Fredericks and Lieut. Thomas J. Morley, who were before the board two months ago on charges of neglect of duty. Additional charges of drunkenness were made against Capt. Fredericks yesterday by Inspector P. F. Kelly. In addition to these 13 officers will be before the board on charges of drunkenness and neglect of duty.

Director Harry Moore is investigating the cases of Capt. Fredericks and Lieutenant Morley. He is dissatisfied with the service rendered by the South Side police.

Capt. Fredericks first became involved with the board for permitting the escape of a prisoner who had seriously cut a man in a fight. This charge was suspended by one of drunkenness, and a third charge for the same offense was made yesterday. Director Moore is determined to have a competent force on the South Side.

Lieut. Morley, Inspector Kelly would probably be reduced to captain, and Robert Denniston, former inspector of the fourth district, would succeed him. Denniston is now doing special duty under Superintendent McTighe. Director Moore denied that the board had any intention of reducing Kelly.

LECTURES BY DR. LEVY.

Rabbi Invites General Public to Attend Services in the Temple.

The Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy, rabbi of the Reform congregation Rodeph Shalom, Eighth street, has arranged a program covering the season of 1903-4. Next Sunday morning Dr. Levy will deliver his opening lecture of the third series of Sunday services held by this congregation. The lectures are printed in pamphlet form and distributed free to all who attend the services. A special edition is also printed for free distribution throughout the city, and any person who desires copies sent regularly can have this privilege by sending his or her name to the rabbi in care of the temple. The services and lectures are all in English, while the music is of a very beautiful and high order.

The class in current topics meets every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The questions of the day, of a literary, scientific and economic character, are discussed, while on the first Wednesday evening of each month Dr. Levy delivers an address on the founders of the great religions. This course will include addresses on Moses, Buddha, Confucius, Zoroaster, Mohammed and Jesus. On Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Bible class is held for the study of the "Book of Isaiah."

To all of these activities the general public is very cordially invited.

Conductor Held for Court.

Harry Brown of Allegheny, a street car conductor, gave a $500 bail yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. It is alleged that Brown was 95 cents short on October 10 and that he failed to ring up 13 fares on a trip last Monday.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 13, 1903.

Dear Doctor—For the past six years I have suffered from Catarrh of the Head and Bronchial Tubes; caught cold with every change of the weather and suffered from intense headaches. Was under treatment six months in the year, but with no permanent cure.

A friend asked me to try TO-NI-TA and after taking half of the first bottle I felt better than I had for several years. I have now finished my second bottle and feel perfectly well and all trace of catarrh is gone.

I take pleasure in recommending TO-NI-TA. Gratefully yours,

Interesting Demonstrations Here Daily.

Teneriffe Lace Constructor:—An ingenious little apparatus by means of which to employ one's leisure moments and employ them profitably. The acme of simplicity, yet by its aid any woman can make genuine Teneriffe lace of several different designs with little expenditure of time. Demonstrated daily, Main floor near lower Penn avenue entrance. The constructor, in three different sizes, for sale at a trifling cost.

The method of mixing bread in three minutes is shown throughout the day in the basement, particularly around 11:30 A. M.

Any hour of the day the difference between the ordinary light of the ordinary mantle and the brilliant light of the "Block" arrangement can be seen in the basement. It isn't so much in the mantle as in the method of letting air into the mantle. The Block light is good any time for 300 candle power.

The new Kap-Top broom does not make sweeping any easier that we know of, but it certainly is a broom that will outwear two or three ordinary brooms. That's a great point in its favor. Shown daily in the basement.

Blue Cheviots and Blue Serges.

For the little girl's dress, for the young lady's dress, blue was never more popular, and of course that is only another way of saying that the demand was never so great. Reassortments of blue cheviots and serges, the perfection of fine weave and finish, arrived yesterday.

Ready this morning in 50, 52, 54 and 56 inches, in this popular price range: 75c, 85c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 a yard.

Shades of Brown.

Because some special color leaps into pronounced popularity at a single bound is not saying that all other colors are to be laid on the shelf. The multiplicity of tastes does not converge at one color, and for that very reason brown and its interminable shades is now exceedingly popular—possibly the rich nut browns finding most favor. We have them in mixtures from $1.25 to $2.50 a yard.

The plain Zibelines and Cheviots in rich brownish tints are shown here at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 and $2 a yard.

New Angora Cloth.

As the name suggests, a fine material with a long silky nap to be employed for the smart long coat suit. This Angora Cloth is perhaps the most stylish material shown today on our counters. It comes in extra wide widths, in such pretty colors as silver gray, gun metal gray, nut brown, castors, heliotrope, red, navy and black.

Lower prices for these fine goods than anywhere around Greater Pittsburg, $1.50, $2.00 and up to $3.50 a yard.

Broadcloth and Zibeline.

20,000 yards of plain broadcloth and plain zibeline, the cream of foreign looms, in black and a range of colors showing over 75 tints, including the most dainty evening shades, at $1.25 and easily along to $5.00 a yard.

Our Shoes for Young People.

Shoes for young ladies who have reached the long dress period, shoes for girls who are longing to be there, shoes for big boys who like the rough and tumble of boyish life, shoes for little boys—each and every pair built upon lines of best service, which means great durability. While service is of first consideration, good looks are not forgotten. Therefore our shoes for young people possess dressiness as well as best workmanship.

Misses' Shoes of Chrome Calf, a winter shoe, broad toes, stout soles—sizes from 11½ to 2—$2.75; from 8½ to 11, $2.00.

Misses' Patent Ideal Kid Shoe, cloth or kid top, welt soles, a remarkably dressy shoe, sizes from 11½ to 2—$3.00.

Girls' Shoes of glazed kidskin, patent leather tips, stout soles, button or lace, for either dress or general wear, sizes 8½ to 2—$2.50.

Girls' Shoes with stout welt soles, patent leather tips, button or lace, sizes 11½ to 2—$2.00.

Boys' stout Shoes of excellent leather, heavy soles, built to withstand all youthful sports, sizes from 2½ up to 5½, $2.00.

Boys' Box Calf Shoes, made over the new English last, very stylish, sizes from 2½ up to 5½—$3.50.

Children's Welt Sole Shoes of dongola kid, button or lace—sizes from 5 to 8—$1.50.

Children's Shoes of Patent Leather or Kidskin, light turned soles, sizes from 5 to 8—$1.25 to $1.50.

New Silk Waists.

An invoice of Silk Waists scarcely arrives until it is in new hands—thus showing how great is the demand. So far we have been able to meet all ideas, and if constant reordering helps the matter along we can promise variety at all times. New for today—

At $5.00 new Silk Waists of black and colored Crepe de Chine, very dainty waists that button over shoulder.

At $10.00 new Silk Waists in pure white and the popular champagne color, made with neat yoke, the bodice tucked, fancy sleeves. The material in this waist Crepe de Chine.

Our New Folding Bed.

This Enameled Iron Bed, prettily finished with brass trimmings, is so much at variance with the usual conception of folding beds, and is altogether such an improvement, that we secured the sole agency for Greater Pittsburg. The bed works so easily that a child can fold it up or unfold it, and the beauty of it is that when it is unfolded it is impossible for it to be shut up without loosening a certain spring.

It is being exhibited in our Booth at the Exposition, as well as in our fourth floor Brass Bed Department. It will appeal to people who are under the necessity of economizing space.

We ask everyone to notice, when looking at the demonstration at Exposition, that the bed folds with its full complement of bed clothes.

Today's Sale of Women's Undermuslins.

An unusual sale for this time of the year, an innovation on our part. After thinking the matter over we could see no good reason why a sale of Undermuslins, provided the material was right, the workmanship was right, the price was right, could not be a feature of store life in October as well as any other month of the year. We leave the question to the consideration of women, simply stating that the garments were manufactured specially to our order, that they are the best in their several grades, and that the prices are exceptionally low in view of the fact that cotton in the past month or so has taken wonderful leaps upward.

A dispatch from Rome brings the important announcement that the pope wishes to abandon the seclusion of the vatican and go about Rome when he feels that he can do so safely. The report is unofficial, but claims as its authority statements made by relatives of the pope. Such action by the pope would sweep away the fiction that he is virtually a prisoner in the vatican, and would imply acknowledgment of the kingdom of Italy as at least government in fact. It would not necessarily imply abandonment of papal pretensions to temporal power, but would at least admit that they are in abeyance. Some such action on the part of the pope would not be at all surprising in view of his friendly relations with civil authority while patriarch of Venice.

Great credit is due to Councilman Stevenson for his pertinacity in urging legislation in discharge of public duty and in fulfillment of party pledges, but that it should have taken 22 months to get the Citizens leaders to take the first step shows how averse to reform is the real inclinations of the organization. The ordinance as passed is but a small payment on account grudgingly made, and it has yet to be seen whether it is of any real value. The Citizens leaders seem to think that this ought to be enough to keep the Orphans in line, and it is keeping them in line. Mr. Stevenson says that the railroad ordinances must be passed before the Orphans are reconciled, but where is there any need of reconciliation so long as they go along and confine themselves to protests. President C. S. Crawford in an interview has said that no matter what happens the Orphans are not going over to the other side. This should make the bosses feel easy, as election day is only two weeks off and the choice lies between the ring ticket and the Republican ticket.

The Bulgarian insurrection in Macedonia is in its last stages. It was intended to force the hands of the European powers and they would not be forced. At one time there was grave danger that Bulgaria would go to war, but the energetic warnings from Russia and Austria have impressed Bulgaria with the folly of the undertaking and the disbandment of the troops summoned to the frontier is now about to begin. By agreement between Turkey and Russia, Turkey is to take similar action. With the termination of the insurrection the European powers are pledged to the introduction of administrative reforms, secured by European control over details. Meanwhile, an agitation has been started in Bulgaria to induce the Macedonian refugees to emigrate to the United States. This country has been so long regarded as the dumping ground of Europe that no concern is felt as to our interests in the matter, but as the Macedonian refugees were forced into Bulgaria by disturbances created by Bulgarian agitators, it would seem to be only fair that Bulgaria should care for them. There is plenty of room in that country for additional settlers.

The arguments used by Councilmen Benz and Upperman against the linear tax ordinance are staple misrepresentations constantly in use for the protection of corporation of graft. It is altogether untrue that when public service corporations pay for the public property they use their charges to the people are increased. It is just the other way. It is in the cities where the corporations pay well for their privileges that their charges are lowest. Street car fares in Toronto range from two and one-half to four cents, and the street railway company pays a mileage charge on its tracks and a gross receipts tax in addition, and its property is subject to taxation just as other property. When public service corporations get their franchises for nothing they become most exacting in their dealings with the public. The reason is that the value of their franchises is represented by stock issues and their capitalization becomes so excessive that every possible means must be employed to squeeze the public to the utmost. The whole system of grants of franchises to municipal utilities is pernicious, both as regards municipal administration and corporation financiering. The franchises should always be held in municipal ownership and the privilege of using them be leased for stated terms.

Mayor Hays has taken a prominent part in the game of jollying the Orphans played by the bosses. Not long ago he declared for the immediate consideration of the railroad ordinances; now he says he doesn't want to be mixed up in that matter. The Baltimore & Ohio ordinance, now held up by the corporations committee of select council, has already been under consideration by that committee as part of the joint committee on corporations. The rump committees of select council are simply an obstruction to public business and a convenient instrument of graft. Select council itself is constituted in such a way that it has no representative value. An arrangement which permits East End residents, like Councilmen Fleming and Piatt, representing the First and Second ward, to have an equal vote with the representatives of the big East End wards, is opposed to every principle of fairness, but in the test vote in council Monday evening a population of 4,913 in the First and Second wards counted for as much as 44,161 people in the Fourteenth and Twentieth wards, whose representatives voted for consideration of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinance. With such a rotten organization of city councils, giving the control of the city government to a minority of the people, it is no wonder that corruption flourishes.

Tammany encountered a signal defeat at the meeting of the Kings county Democratic committee Monday night. The trouble dates back to the Tammany indorsement of Grout and Fornes, who had been renominated on the non-partisan ticket with Mayor Low. The Tammany leaders thought it would be a clever maneuver to indorse them, thus narrowing the municipal contest to the mayoralty alone. But when Grout and Fornes accepted the indorsement they were ousted from the non-partisan ticket and left on Tammany's hands as political outcasts whom no party wanted. Hugh McLaughlin, the veteran Democratic leader of Brooklyn, refused to accept them as Democratic candidates, and a movement was started under the lead of State Senator McCarren to overthrow McLaughlin. At the meeting of the county committee McLaughlin won by the narrow majority of seven. This practically insures the defeat of Grout and Fornes and, meanwhile, they are a heavy drag upon McClellan's candidacy, although the Brooklyn Democracy is supporting McClellan. McClellan himself, however, has refused to attend any of the Democratic meetings in Brooklyn unless Grout and Fornes are invited, too, so that his campaign in that section of Greater New York is not making much progress. Grout and Fornes are cordially disliked by the rank and file of Tammany, and what looked at the time like a smart trick of the Tammany leaders has returned in every way to plague them.

Canada's Disappointment.

The anger of the Canadian commissioners over the award of the Alaska boundary commission goes to extreme lengths. They have declined to sign the award and have publicly denounced it. Among Canadian politicians generally there is much bitter feeling. It is the first time that Canada did not get the best of any controversy with this country. In the settlement of the boundary between Canada and the United States west of the great lakes the United States was badly worsted, although the result was due more to the unpolitic course of our own government than to any particular shrewdness in the management of the British case. In the arbitration of the value of Canadian fishery rights under the treaty of Washington, an outrageous award in favor of Canada was made, and it turned out subsequently that evidence accepted by the commission of arbitration had been deliberately cooked up to deceive the commission. Canada had always found the United States such an easy mark that there was ground for expectation that something handsome could be made by inventing the territorial claim, which has now been decisively rejected by the casting vote of the lord chief justice of England.

Although the award as made gives to Canada territory claimed by the United States on Portland canal, the result there is as unsatisfactory as elsewhere to the Canadian commissioners. They declare that the two islands awarded to the United States command the entrance to Portland canal and the ocean passage to Port Simpson, so that the territory which Canada gains by the award has no strategic value. On all important points the award is an acknowledgment of the rights of the United States, and no other conclusion was possible. The concurrence of Lord Alverstone with the Canadian commissioners would have caused a dead-lock, but it would not have helped Canada, as the territory to which it laid claim was and is in the possession of the United States and would be defended by all the strength of the nation. The fact that the lord chief justice of England joined with the American commissioners will be accepted by the world as conclusive proof that the Canadian claim was untenable, and that Canadian resentment has no better basis than baffled cupidity. The outburst of anger in which Canada is indulging is an undignified performance.

A New Thing in Politics.

Not that it is a matter of great public concern, but just as a guarantee of good faith, will the only Democratic daily explain to its Democratic readers, or will it trust to their intelligence again? The first editorial in yesterday's Post asserted that "the representatives of the Democratic organizations of Washington, Fayette and Greene counties met in this city yesterday and after a harmonious conference agreed on a method of making congressional nominations in this congressional district." Has the Post scooped the state of Pennsylvania, including the legislature thereof, on a new apportionment? Have the Democrats fixed up a congressional district to fit their own notions of the proprieties? Or did the Post do it single-handed and alone and then compelled the representatives of the Democratic organizations of Washington, Fayette and Greene to come in and be harmonious? It has been more than suspected that the Democracy of Pennsylvania was dead and was merely standing around to save funeral expenses, but here is evidence of life and of creative genius. Who shall say that there is not a future for the Pennsylvania Democracy when such things can be?

It is true that a year ago a former Democratic attorney general of Pennsylvania made a new senatorial apportionment offhand on the stump, just to show how constitutional he could be without getting in any over time. It is equally true that when some busybody came to analyze the result it was found that the constitutional apportioner had made only 49 districts, whereas the constitution requires 50. What then? Was it the fault of the former Democratic attorney general? There can be but one sane answer: It was the fault of the constitution. If the constitution had provided for but 49 senatorial districts the thing would have come out just right. How could the former attorney general be blamed if the constitution called for one district more than he had in stock?

The Democratic journalistic authority is on safer ground, however. It does not attempt to make an apportionment for the whole state. It merely fixes up one congressional district for the southwestern corner of the state and the new congressional district of Washington, Fayette and Greene is the fix. It may have been joy that caused this reapportionment. Or it may be that the new-old-is-Ann editor was temporarily left in entire control of the political windmill? Or it may be, as we suggested in the first place that the whole affair from the making of the new congressional district to the harmonious result of the conference was pulled off by the Post itself by main strength.

The wayfaring man who has a friend from whom he can borrow a copy of Smull's handbook of the vintage of 1903 will find it set forth therein that Washington county is in a congressional district with Beaver and Lawrence counties, and that Greene and Fayette counties are joined with Somerset county in another congressional district by the act of assembly of 1901. But if the Post wants to have a private district composed of Washington, Fayette and Greene counties, what's the odds? Let it have the district, say we, just to keep peace in the family. It won't make any difference in the congressional representation from Pennsylvania, won't give rise to any heart-burnings and jealousies, and since the age of Ann has been settled to the satisfaction of the entire office force it will give the editorial staff something to think of and dream over. For the rest the Post trusts, as it said not long ago, to the intelligence of its readers. So let it go at that.

Extra Session Call.

President Roosevelt has issued the call for congress to meet in extraordinary session November 9, naming as the sole subject to be considered the reciprocity treaty with Cuba. If there is to be any currency legislation it must wait for the regular session, which begins in November. There was talk last summer of bringing this subject up at the extra session which might have been called for this month, but after several conferences were held with a view of defining a program of action it was found that agreement could not be reached among the leaders. Secretary Shaw met immediate necessities by material changes in the treasury policy, and the liquidation in the stock markets has removed the urgent call for a more elastic system for the present. Before the necessity again arises there will be ample time to work out a comprehensive scheme of monetary reform.

When the currency legislation was abandoned tremendous pressure was exerted also to induce the president to forego the call for an extra session. The chief executive was deaf to these appeals, and properly so, because the faith of the nation was pledged to Cuba that a session would be called not later than November. Neither has any amount of "influence" served to abate President Roosevelt's efforts to secure full ratification of the reciprocity treaty with Cuba, which he declared, here in Pittsburgh, was coming "sure as fate."

There is some opposition to the treaty among beet sugar and other special interests that have not become reconciled, but there is small prospect that it will find strong support in the house of representatives. It is expected, of course, the Democrats will take advantage of the occasion to open a general tariff debate, but the rules of the house provide means for terminating profitless discussion and proceeding to business, and those rules are likely to be invoked. No real harm can come to the country from this matter and a vast majority of the people are in full sympathy with the president on the subject of Cuban reciprocity.

A Striking Example.

Pension Commissioner Ware is doing his best to set a good precedent in the matter of sustaining the merit system in the civil service. He has at all times adhered closely to the letter and spirit of the law. Yesterday he added to his record in that line. He had occasion to promote 40 clerks in his bureau, and as a preliminary called them into his office and made to them a vigorous address, in which he said they were promoted for meritorious service and not because any of them happened to be brother-in-law to a governor, or nephew to a senator. Besides he warned them that in future if any of them sought political influence to secure advancement the act would destroy any chance they had for promotion, while a second offense would subject the offender to removal from his or her position.

Commissioner Ware has set a good example to the heads of other bureaus. If they will follow it they may soon put an end to the most disagreeable—not to say disreputable—feature of official life in Washington. Of course, the commissioner of pensions is personally concerned about the work of his own office. He has taken the certain means to secure in it efficient service by making it clear that there is no other road to promotion. He has offered the additional inducement of promising punishment to any who attempt to get promotion by other means. The pension bureau is already a model of clean service and will become more so.

It is a pity the Ware principle has not been applied everywhere to both public and private service. The "pull" is not confined to employes of the national government, or even to those of states or municipalities. It clutters the operations of great corporations and smaller partnerships to the disadvantage, primarily, of the business concerns and ultimately of the favorites in whose behalf it is exercised. Many persons of exceptional ability are prevented from developing their powers on account of the consciousness that their "pull" renders their own exertion unnecessary. Many others are deterred from doing their best because they feel that the "pull" of the one above them will prevent that ability, or faithfulness from being recognized. Employers, whether in public or private service, should follow the example of Commissioner Ware in awarding the prizes to merit, and more important still, in giving that close attention to their affairs that will enable them to know who it is that is giving them faithful and efficient service. The organization that has such a head is always successful.

The last week of the new Pittsburgh Exposition for 1903 is well started with excellent attendance. This week was added to the ordinary season this year as an experiment and considerable interest attaches to the outcome. The season thus far has been exceptionally successful, surpassing all predecessors for the regular number of weeks and the management anticipates even greater success for the additional and final week. The Exposition is the best Pittsburgh has ever had, including many new features, not the least interesting of which are the Cooper-Hewitt and Nernst lamps. It has a never-failing interest for heartown neighbors who are by it enabled to see at once what they want of the city's progressive ideas, without the necessity of traveling about the streets for two or three days to get posted.

Its latest ebullition is in the form of an objection to The Gazette's report of a case in court, in which a man was charged by two policemen with selling liquor illegally. The court discharged the defendant and the Leader is much excited because The Gazette did not uphold the policemen on the charge the court held had not been proven. This is not wholly surprising for the Leader never was able to recognize justice nor to tell the truth.

WHERE GOLD BRICKS GROW.

They sing about the country when the autumn glories shine,
When the apples in the orchard an' the grape is on the vine;
But I'm weary of the pleasure of a simple rural life
An' yearn for the metropolis, with all its stir an' strife,
You kin talk about the forest with its colors all aglow,
But I'm goin' to the city, where the gold bricks grow.

I'm tired o' this security that lasts the whole year through,
I want to mingle with the crowd an' take a chance or two,
The pumpkin's turnin' yellow an' the corn is lookin' fine;
So I'm goin' to the city, where the gold bricks grow.

The Quiet Observer.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

To gild refined gold, to paint the lily,
To throw perfume on the violet,
To smooth the ice, or add another hue
Unto the rainbow, or with taper-light
To seek the beauteous eye of heaven to garnish
—Shakespeare.

Have you noticed how women do run to beauty shows, particularly to those that offer receipts for making lovely women beautiful?

Beautifiers are ever in demand, command big prices, and are paid for more cheerfully, or at least with less grumbling, than grocer's bills.

Nor is there much use in telling them of the folly of their doings, nor in showing them that they will be all the uglier for it. They want to be beautiful right now—not tomorrow, nor next week, nor next year—just now.

Who was that woman who once upon a time made a compact with a bad spirit in which it was agreed that if the evil one would make and keep her beautiful until she got a husband she would not object to being ugly the longest day she lived? The evil one undertook the job, and succeeded mighty well, so 'tis said, and for his trouble got the souls of both of them.

The evil one knew very well that the husband, being fooled into marrying the falsely beautiful woman, would break for the bad as soon as he discovered the trick that had been played on him.

* * * * *

"The chief duty of a woman is to make herself as attractive as possible," wrote a querulous old philosopher.

This bald statement gave him a good start in a satirical tirade against women generally. Tirades are not profitable. They have an unpleasant flavor, although they may be rather agreeably pungent reading.

Nature evidently intended woman to be pretty, and gave her a taste for such display as will enhance her charms. To neglect to cultivate this taste would be a failure of duty on her part from which the race would suffer greatly.

Women should consider it a special privilege as well as a duty to cultivate their charms and render themselves attractive.

Of course some will abuse this privilege by making themselves appear ridiculous in the eyes of cultured people. In most instances, however, this is due to the lack of proper culture. Loudness of dress is peculiar to savages and to those who have been allowed to grow up like ill weeds.

* * * * *

Since it is a privilege as well as a duty for woman to enhance her good looks it is very necessary that her tastes should be cultivated in order that she may attain the greatest possible success. The cultivation of her taste should be commenced at a very early age and continued at home and in school.

It is a fatal mistake to suppose the toilet contains all the elements of beauty. Paint and powder and patches when properly applied may enhance beauty, but they never make it.

See how women, old and young, run after professional beautifiers and spend hours and days soaking steaming and sweating their faces in the hope of improving their complexions. Time and again they have been told that such heroic treatment will only prove beneficial for a short time and that the final results will be more or less disastrous, yet they will not heed but go ahead doing the worst thing possible.

Were women properly instructed in the art of beautifying the human form divine, they would not be so readily humbugged. It is an art, therefore no fixed rules can be laid down for all classes. Each must study herself and act accordingly.

Not long since a young woman became satisfied that her complexion spoiled her beauty. Acting upon the impulse, as women usually do, she bought one of the complexion outfits. When she first began the face-rubbing, skin-steaming performances she didn't consider that she would be expected to purchase a whole drug store, but as time went on she soon discovered that she was in immediate need of an extra dressing table, for bureau, chairs and tables became heavily peppered with white jars, tall bottles, small squatty jugs, powder boxes and yards and yards of soft cloth. She had skin foods and skin cleaners, freckle eradicators and pink stuffs—for the finger nails, of course—powders and washes and a lotion to keep the eyebrows thick and glossy.

And since the girl got well interested in the art of making herself wondrously beautiful she has had time for nothing else. She misses trains, never appears at the family dinner and keeps her best young man waiting for her every evening. No matter what the time of day, that young woman is smearing her face with creamy stuffs or ducking her head over a basin of hot water.

She says she knows she's an idiot, but since she has squandered $6 in the paraphernalia she's bound to get her money's worth. She has given up her French lessons and her hair-curling seances and arises an hour earlier every morning so as to get a good start. She also declares that she wouldn't mind all the trouble and loss of time were it not for the fact that all her friends have a playful habit of scanning her face closely and saying: "My dear child, you must get something for your complexion. It's in horrible condition."

* * * * *

If young women only realized the fact that to men of good taste and good sense the presence of paint and powder and frizzes always suggests fraud and leads to the very natural conclusion that they are used for the purpose of hiding defects or covering up ugliness, they would avoid their use.

These things have kept more women from making good matches than they have helped. They may be attractive to those possessed of savage or more or less uncultured taste, but such men do not make good husbands.

Every man of real worth and who can appreciate real worth in others, is always proud to be able to say of his best girl: "No paint, no powder, no frizzes, no fraud."

* * * * *

After all is said and done, good health is the only beautifier. It adds a brightness to the eye, a tinge to the cheek, a pearly luster to the teeth, a plumpness to the form, an elasticity to the step, a ring to the laugh and a winsomeness to the smile that nothing else can. Pomades and powders may hide wrinkles and spiotches, but health drives them away.

Therefore, if you want your girls to be considered pretty or handsome see to it that they are properly fed and cared for. Be especially careful to see that their nervous systems are not overtaxed, and that their nervous energy is not all used up in school.

* * * * *

Fashion plates have a great deal to do with marring the beauty of a girl of the period. They picture her a fragile, wasp-waisted, willowy creature fit only to look at, and that not very long at a time.

Why don't they picture the fat one, the lean one, and the plain one, and give these some common sense talk on how to make the best of their bargains? Instead of that the fat ones are encouraged to lace, the lean ones to pad, and the plain ones to dye and stain and paint and powder and act unnatural in order to appear like unto the pictured beauties.

Men may laugh and flirt with painted beauties but they don't marry them; it won't wash; it is no good.

The Anglo-French Treaty.

The theory of arbitration is one which no man can challenge, however much its practicality may be questioned. Arbitration has been discussed the world over; officially so at the convention of The Hague, which established a tribunal, but that convention left to the contracting powers the one right to conclude special agreements under which causes at issue could be appealed to the international court. The Anglo-French is the first of these direct treaties to be signed. As such it is epochal. Undoubtedly the step marks an advance, and reflects credit upon France and England and upon the statesmen who achieved the happy result.—St. Louis Republic.

Manchuria is closed now to all outside influences.—Boston Advertiser.

Talked of in New York

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Dowie, the Elijah, seems to have learned a lesson. He has ceased to abuse reporters in his addresses from the platform in Madison Square garden, and evidently has made up his mind that newspapers are necessary to the success of any movement in this city, even that of a Restoration host. He was hissed vigorously many times last night, and he did not like it. He called a meeting of newspaper representatives in a parlor in the Fifth Avenue hotel this morning and explained his position. He said he did not want to quarrel with the press of New York, but would like the papers to treat him fairly. He was pleasant of tone in this interview with the newspaper men and made a better impression than when he is rigged out in his bishop's robes and ranting on the platforms of Madison Square garden. If Dowie refrains from his abuse of reporters, as he says he will, there will be more opportunity to learn from his lips what his purpose here really is. He says it is not to get money, although he admits that when he has taken care of the souls and bodies of the people under his administrations he is willing to get enough to cover expenses, if possible. He said today that he had moved from the Plaza to the Fifth Avenue hotel because he could not afford to pay the Plaza rates, but, as he has taken the finest suite of rooms at the Fifth Avenue it is rather hard to believe him entirely sincere.

An Agreeable Meeting Place.

One of the lion hunters of the metropolis, who is withal a charming hostess, is Mrs. William LeBaron Allen. Her beautiful home in Fort Washington Park is to all intents and purposes a salon, although it is customary for pessimists to say that such a thing does not exist in America. Mrs. Allen has a knack of gathering about her at some time or another pretty nearly all the distinguished personages in literature, art and the theater, and a card to one of her receptions insures the recipient a pleasant two or three hours. She will give a reception on Saturday to meet the members of the National Art Theater society. It is expected that Sir Henry Irving will be present. He arrived in New York today on the steamship Minneapolis.

Newspaper Woman Finds Health Again.

Miss Caroline Wetherell, formerly known as one of the brightest woman writers of Pittsburgh, has just recovered from a long illness, and is living at Coytesville, N. J., within commuting distance of Manhattan. Miss Wetherell was for three years in editorial charge of the children's department of the American Press association.

Another Indictment Against Parks.

Sam Parks has caught it again. This time it is an indictment for perjury which was returned by the grand jury this afternoon against the great walking delegate. He is charged with committing perjury at his trial for extorting $200 from Josephus Planty, the outcome of which trial was his being sentenced to Sing Sing. Parks at this time is under $15,000 bail. His bondsman is John J. Byrne, a nephew of W. S. Devery. It is said that Parks and Devery have fallen out because Parks did not turn over to the ex-chief a few hundred votes he is said to control. If Byrne should withdraw his bond there is a strong probability of Parks spending his time in the Tombs until his trial comes up.

Flood Question Becomes an Issue.

Paterson people cannot be blamed for getting out of the city to avoid possible danger in the future of floods, fires and tornadoes. Mayor Hinchcliffe, who, by the way, has just refused a third nomination, has just returned from Trenton, where he has been to confer with Governor Murphy concerning the appointment of the flood commission authorized by the legislature. The commission will try to devise a plan to prevent floods in the Passaic valley. Paterson thinks it has been getting more than its share of wild waters and Passaic echoes a plaintive, "me too."

Devery After French Votes.

"Parlez vous Francais?" asks Big Bill Devery of everyone he meets in his district tonight. The French societies are parading in his honor, and there will be a ratification meeting later in the evening at the "Pump" corner, Eighth avenue and Twenty-eighth street. Red fire is blazing all over the route and amid the blare of music can be heard Devery airing the French sentences he has been assiduously studying for the last few weeks so that he can tell his Gallic constituents all he will do for them when he is mayor. Devery admits that he is proud of his French, which he airs at every opportunity.

Stride of Science in Telegraph.

An illustration of the strides of science in the last year or two is afforded in the fact that the great steamship Kaiser Wilhelm, just over here from Europe, was in wireless communication with various other vessels all the way across the Atlantic. Yet for five days she was not within sight of other craft. Two centuries ago this would have been called witchcraft.

Former Manager in the Courts.

"Yours merrily," John B. Rogers, who used to be manager, as well as husband, of Minnie Palmer, is busy with his lawyers nowadays. He entered suit against another manager recently, charging false imprisonment in a sanitarium and now he is taking legal measures to make the Actors' Fund give him half the proceeds from a handsome diamond he used to wear, and which was sold at an Actors' Fund fair 11 years ago. The diamond is known as the "Cleveland gem," and is of remarkable brilliancy and size. It is valued at $40,000. Mr. Rogers says he agreed that the stone and its settings should be sold at the fair on condition that half of the proceeds should be turned over to him. All he received was $4,500, and he wants the balance due. The case seems to be a complicated one, in which all the Rialto is cheerfully interested.

McCracken Suppresses Disorderlies.

Chancellor McCracken is not afraid to attack old customs when he does not like them. He stopped a vigorous fight between freshmen and sophomores on the library steps of the New York university last night. A year ago he abolished the annual cane rush. The men of the university like McCracken, but they feel that he is going too far in striking at some of the dearest privileges of the college student.

Naval Estimates.

Secretary Moody has approved the estimates for the support of the navy for the next fiscal year, as recommended by the chiefs of bureaus. The amount required is $102,866,199, against $79,816,791 appropriated for the last fiscal year, when the needs of the navy were estimated at $68,000,000. It is expected that congress will authorize a substantial increase of our war fleet in pursuance of the policy declared by President Roosevelt in his last annual message to congress, in which it was urged that there should be no pause in building up the navy. How far we have advanced to the desired rank among the great naval powers was shown by the official memorandum transmitted in March last by Captain Charles D. Sigsbee, chief of the office of naval intelligence, to Charles H. Darling, acting secretary of the navy, in which this government is assigned the third place in the race for naval supremacy, basing the estimate upon the number of battleline ships built, under construction or authorized.

Our rival for third place in this strenuous competition is Germany. Great Britain aims to possess a navy as strong as that of any two of the European continental powers combined. The British naval estimates for 1903-1904 involve an expenditure for shipbuilding, repairs and maintenance of $83,103,000. Disarmament seems to be a very remote event. In presenting the estimates Chancellor of the Exchequer Ritchie said that a strong navy is necessary for the preservation of the national life, and so long as other fleets grow the British fleet must grow.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The increase of nearly twenty-seven million dollars in the naval estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905, may seem large, at first, but when the work now in progress is considered, it will not appear too much. A number of war vessels are under construction, others are being repaired and the buildings at the Naval academy will require a large amount. Before 1898 a large increase in estimates would have been enough to set the critics in congress going, but every year since the Spanish war it is becoming more and more apparent that this country must have a larger navy. We have trade interests in China that must be looked after and the Philippines require protection. At the present rate of increase in our navy in no long time the United States will be sufficiently powerful on the water to set foreign nations, who may want to try experiments, thinking about what may happen.—Baltimore Herald.

\+ \+ \+

Is the inflation of our naval expenditures really necessary? Who threatens to invade us? What nation is able effectively to invade us, even if it had the desire? Has not every one of the great European powers, Great Britain included, cheerfully accepted—nay, sought—arbitration of its disputes with us for many years past? Why, then, this large annual addition to the big naval chip on our shoulder? Is it not almost time to revise a famous American maxim and say, "Millions for necessary defense; not one dollar for useless defiance?"—New York World.

\+ \+ \+

A reasonably strong and thoroughly efficient navy is indispensable for the United States. Not that this country is threatened by any great nation, though it can never be told what a day may bring forth in that respect. Land hunger and trade jealousies are characteristic features in the policy of more than one European nation. To satisfy their desires in that respect they would be quite ready to ignore the rights of the United States or of any other nation if they could do so without fear of punishment. And the only fear that can be exerted by this country would arise from the possession of a powerful navy capable of defending the national honor.—Philadelphia Press.

\+ \+ \+

Since 1897 the naval expenditure of the United States has been increasing by leaps and bounds. In that year it was about $34,000,000. In 1900 it was $56,000,000; in 1902, $66,000,000; for the fiscal year 1903-04 it is $82,000,000, and for the next fiscal year, if congress approves Mr. Moody's estimates, it will exceed the $100,000,000 mark. Is there anything in our position with European powers or in our aspirations as a "world power" that necessitates this enormous naval expansion? Or are we building a mighty navy merely to show the world "that we've got the ships, we've got the men, and got the money, too," to cut as big a figure as any of our rivals?—Baltimore Sun.

That the president has not abandoned his purpose of strengthening the navy to the limit of the last dollar he can induce congress to appropriate is plain. Doubtless Secretary Moody is in full accord with his chief in this matter. Mr. Dayton of West Virginia, who will be chairman of the naval affairs committee of the next house, is back from Europe possessed of the idea that Germany's eyes are fixed on South America as a new world Germany, and that the execution of this scheme is likely to involve us in complications with Germany which may easily result in war. He wants at least four 16,000-ton battleships authorized at the coming session. On the other hand Mr. Cannon, who will be speaker, makes it plain that he has not abdicated as watchdog of the treasury and is inclined to go slow in the matter of naval appropriations—until after the next presidential election at least.

It is to be hoped that there will be no cessation of the work of building up the navy, but reduced appropriations this year will not mean anything of the kind. None of the ships authorized at the last session are fairly started, and for three of them not even the plans have been made. Moreover, as Speaker-to-be Cannon has remarked, certain shipbuilding companies are entangled in the financial mess and others are from six months to a year behind on the government work they already have in hand. The work of strengthening the navy should go steadily on, and, if possible, according to a careful thought out program, but there is no occasion for precipitate haste.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Cabinet and the Stump.

The stump is a capital medium through which the cabinet official may reach the public in the way of supplementing his formal reports to congress. In adressing political meetings made up of men who read and most who don't read he may drop the tone of officialdom and adopt that of the everybody. He may clothe his explanations and suggestions in plain United States and hope to be thoroughly understood. In a word, he becomes on the stump an instructor of many voters whom otherwise he never reaches, who merely know his name and office. When a cabinet officer is a trained speaker or an orator so much the better for those who are anxious for all the facts before expressing themselves at the polls. But, in any event, there is nothing improper, but everything desirable, in having public questions discussed by men who know of them through official connections.—Washington Star.

Roosevelt and the West.

Senator Allison does not indulge in empty compliments. When he said in his speech at Clinton that President Roosevelt is the best beloved by all the people of any president in office, he made a discriminating statement that is warranted by the record. President Roosevelt stands for so much that all Americans

SOFFEL DIVORCE CASE ON TRIAL

ED BIDDLE'S LOVE LETTER

One from Dead Outlaw to Jail Warden's Wife Identified—City Detective Involved—Physical Condition of Mrs. Soffel Prevents Her Presence.

The crowd of curiosity-seekers that flocked into common pleas court No. 3 yesterday afternoon in the hope of obtaining a glimpse of Mrs. Kate Soffel was sadly disappointed. When the suit for divorce instituted by ex-Warden Peter K. Soffel of the Allegheny county jail against his wife was called for trial the respondent was not present. It was announced that her physical condition was such as to precludes any possibility of her attending the trial yesterday. Whether she will appear later rests with her attorneys, S. S. Robertson and James A. Wakefield.

The case was called before Judge S. A. McClung at 2 o'clock. Ex-Warden Soffel sat with his attorneys, L. F. McVay and H. G. Mellroy, and scrutinized closely every juror called.

Mr. Soffel was the first witness. He was only required to identify a certificate of marriage showing that he and Kate Deering had been married on December 7, 1896, by the Rev. Father Ruoff of the First United Evangelical Protestant church, Sixth avenue and Smithfield street.

Mrs. Julia Lehman of Mt. Washington, at whose house Mrs. Soffel is alleged to have met various men, testified that the respondent, previous to her husband's appointment as warden of the jail, had met Harry Jones and "Mike" Roach, a street car conductor, at the Lehman home. Five or six of these meetings took place, according to the witness. The Soffels at this time were living in Virginia avenue, while Mrs. Lehman resided four houses distant at No. 40 Shiloh street. No one was ever present at these meetings except Mrs. Soffel and either Jones or Roach.

Maggie Vogel, formerly a domestic in the employ of Mrs. Soffel, testified that her former mistress had made a confidant of her and that on this account she did not abuse Mrs. Soffel's confidence by informing the ex-warden of what was taking place.

Miss Vogel testified that Jones and Roach visited Mrs. Soffel frequently, both at her home and at Lehman's. One evening Mrs. Soffel told the witness she was going to Lehman's to meet Harry Jones. She was absent all night, and Miss Vogel, becoming alarmed, went to Mrs. Lehman's to make inquiries. Mrs. Lehman, according to the witness, said that Mrs. Soffel had gone out. Miss Vogel, however, opened the parlor door and there saw her mistress and Harry Jones.

On another occasion, according to the witness, Jones visited the Soffel residence and remained over night. Miss Vogel testified that she opened the door of a hall bedroom by mistake and there again saw Mrs. Soffel and Jones.

Mrs. Soffel, said the witness, often told her that she was going out to meet either Jones or Roach. She was absent from home one night, and when, in the morning, she returned Mrs. Soffel told Miss Vogel that she and Roach had been together.

When Soffel was appointed warden of the jail and took up his residence there Miss Vogel came with the family. Several times during her husband's absence, Mrs. Soffel, according to the witness, received visits from Ed Biddle on occasion the two remained together in the parlor, with the lights out, until 3 a. m. Miss Vogel said she knew of all these things, but she did not wish to meddle. But when Mrs. Soffel fled with the Biddle brothers, the witness said, she thought it was her duty to tell Mr. Soffel.

Mrs. J. J. Stevenson, at whose hotel in Mt. Chestnut the Biddles and Mrs. Soffel stopped just previous to their bloody encounter with the officers of the law, told of the arrival of the fugitives at her place. She said that Ed. Biddle represented Mrs. Soffel to be his wife, and that, after dinner, they occupied a room together for several hours.

James McGeary, who was a guard at the jail when the Biddles escaped, identified the writing of Ed. Biddle in a letter to Mrs. Soffel. This letter was found by Miss Vogel under the carpet in the parlor of the Soffel residence at the jail.

The case will be resumed at 9 o'clock this morning.

Has Last Word With Defiant Woman Who is Given 90 Days in Jail.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special)—Mrs. Mary Dowling of Bayonne, N. J., was sentenced to 90 days in jail today on complaint of Mrs. Mary Gender, who said Mrs. Dowling has circulated stories about her. Recorder Lazarus said:

"You will furnish a bond of $100, Mrs. Dowling, to keep the peace."

"I won't do it," retorted the woman.

"Pay a fine of $10 then."

"I can go to jail and get my money's worth out of her," rejoined the defiant prisoner.

"I will now give you 30 days in jail," said the court.

"Give me 90 days, if you like."

"Very well, then; it shall be 90 days."

SUIT FOR BIG SUM.

Stockholders of a Western Oil Company Fight for Posession of Books.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Oct. 20.—A suit, in which judgment is asked in the sum of $1,900,000, was begun today by C. W. Little, L. W. Peterson, L. M. Crafts, of this city, and W. J. Johnson of Sibley, Ia., all stockholders in the Star Petroleum Company, to restrain the officers of the company from removing the books of the concern to Texas.

The suit is to compel the officers to account for their actions, and it is alleged that the defendants are about to come into possession of $25,000, the proceeds of a sale, and that this sum is in danger of being wrongfully converted. Several instances of the misuse of funds are cited by the complainants to substantiate the claims in question.

ELEVATED TRACKS FOR DOWNTOWN

Emil Swansson Declared Overhead System Was Solution of Local Traction Problem.

MAJORITY FAVORED SUBWAYS

Interesting Discussion Before Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania. Many Suggestions for Relief Are Offered.

That Pittsburgh would ultimately have a series of elevated traction loops through the downtown and thickly-populated sections of the city to connect with surface lines as feeders in the suburbs was predicted by Emil Swensson, a prominent member of the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, in a paper which he read last night before the organization.

The meeting was devoted to a discussion of the local traction problem, and expert engineers had a number of valuable suggestions to offer on this all-important subject. Mr. Swensson's topic was "Notes on Rapid Transit with Special Reference to Pittsburgh." He said that the width of the streets and the contour of their surface were important factors in the solution of the traction problem. The solution would probably be a system of loops traversing the downtown section, extending to the Grant boulevard and out other thoroughfares as far as Thirty-fourth street, where the surface lines would begin and distribute the traffic to the different suburban points. A traction line, he said, out the Grant boulevard, beginning at the terminus of an elevated loop at Seventh avenue, would in a measure afford relief to congested traffic and do so without interfering with the ordinary traffic on the boulevard, as the line could be laid close to the hillside or to the retaining wall. He also discussed the proposition to build subways to the East End as far as Ellsworth and Center avenues. Mr. Swensson added that he considered an elevated system downtown imperative and in view of the natural evolution to be expected in the future, that surface lines were not to be considered where the streets were narrow and the traffic heavy.

N. W. Storer read a paper on "The Effect of Multiple Control on the Traction Problem." Mr. Storer's paper did not enter into the question of speed ways and elevated tracks. Multiple control, as interpreted, means the coupling of a number of cars together to form a train with the controlling device in the front car, known as the "master's switch." By recent improvement cars are coupled and all sections made automatically at the same instant and the train of a number of cars is operated as quickly and easily as one car would be.

Mr. Storer contended that the demand for new routes was not as great a necessity as the handling of the present routes.

Walter C. Herron followed along the lines of Mr. Swensson for downtown elevated loops and the adaptation of the Grant boulevard for the purpose of rapid transit.

S. M. Kintner read a report of data from circular letters sent to members, and prominent among the many suggestions received were for more cars, more tracks, more power, more loops, and a suggestion to send shoppers home early and another to have passengers walk.

Seventy per cent, the report showed, were in favor of subways to East End points. Express lines for the East End exclusively in Penn avenue and lines for local traffic in Fifth avenue and Forbes and Wood streets also suggested.

In the discussion that followed several members took the position that the boulevard had been condemned for boulevard purposes and its use for other purposes would be illegal and would result in the property reverting to the original owners.

PRESIDENT PARDONS THREE COAL MINERS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—President Roosevelt has commuted to expire immediately the sentences of Marcom Marshall, Cyrus Rattles and Burton Harper, coal miners, who were convicted in West Virginia a United States deputy marshal. They were sentenced on June 11, 1903, Marshall and Harper to imprisonment for eight months, and Rattles to imprisonment for five months in the Raleigh county jail.

The pardons are granted on the recommendations of the district attorney and judge and the deputy marshal who was resisted, in which recommendations the attorney general concurred for the main reason that five other co-defendants who were jointly indicted and pleaded guilty, received sentences of only three months and have already been discharged. A further reason for pardon is on account of ill health of the prisoners and the unsanitary conditions of the jail where they are confined.

These cases were the outcome of the coal strike riots at Stonyford W. Va., in which the deputies fired upon the mob. It was charged that the deputies acted hastily in the matter, and an effort was made to have the department of justice take up the charges preferred against them. L. W. STRAYER.

REBUILDING

A Woman Makes Students Over.

A woman who used a famous food for convenience made a discovery that she tells of as follows:

"I had been sick for a long time and was a nervous wreck suffering from headache, faintness, distended stomach, palpitation and great heart disturbances.

"Two physicians said that I had valvular trouble of the heart. I was then a widow living alone and was often too ill to get my meals; hearing of Grape-Nuts as a ready cooked food I purchased a package for convenience only, thinking it would at least keep me from starving.

"It was delicious and after a week's diet with little beside Grape-Nuts and cream I had improved so as to be a wonder to myself. Then I took on Postum Coffee in place of tea and coffee and continued the steady use of both Grape-Nuts and Postum. This was a year ago and today I am a well woman for my heart disease is gone along with all my other bad symptoms.

"Some time ago I took charge of a Boarding Club of students of our University and following their instructions I gave them luncheons made up of biscuits or light bread, cold meat and coffee. The result on the students was that many of them suffered from headaches, dullness and inability to apply themselves to study after luncheon.

"I knew that the trouble was the wrong selection of food and it was not long before I persuaded some of them to take only Grape-Nuts with cream for luncheon. This worked like a charm and one after another followed the example until now Grape-Nuts is the principal article of diet for breakfast and luncheon in the Club.

"Some of the professors in the University have noticed the change, too, for the student's brain when fed on Grape-Nuts is clear and active, the memory is good and his ambitions appear to be heightened because the body and brain are in good, steady condition." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CHURCH POLICIES ARE CONSIDERED

DIVORCE QUESTION A TOPIC

Representatives from Canada and the West Indies Are in Attendance—Sessions Are Secret—Bishop Doane of Albany Says It Is True Apostolic Church.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Pan-American congress of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church convened today. It is the largest body of high dignitaries of that church ever assembled on this continent. The main purpose of the congress is to adopt a universal ecclesiastical policy regarding the problems peculiar to the western hemisphere and in the insular possessions of the United States. The discussions on these matters will be of wide range and will be held behind closed doors.

Among the topics to be discussed are divorce, unlawful marriage, and the discharge of the parental obligation. In this the obligations of the church to maintain the Christian family in its integrity will be forcibly presented by the bishops of Albany, Toronto, Huron and Missouri.

The development of the church at home and abroad, the evangelization of dependent races, the adaptation of church methods to the needs of the twentieth century, the attitude of the church toward other protestant churches and the Roman churches and the inculcation of communal and political morality will also be subjects of discussion.

At the opening services at the pro-cathedral Bishop Doane of Albany delivered the sermon and attracted considerable attention by his assertion that the Protestant Episcopal church is the true apostolic church. He contended that the attitude of the Protestant Episcopal church as deriving its claim from "all history" was a truer proof of its catholicity than the claim of the Roman Catholic church, which, he said, is predicated on descent from one apostle and one see.

At the close of the services the bishops went into executive session and later gave out the following statement:

"The meeting of the bishops holding in the United States, in Canada and in the West Indies, is for the purpose of conference on matters especially affecting the work in the western hemisphere. The conference is not for the purpose of legislation. The meetings are private, and only such matters will be given for publication as the conference may authorize.

"This afternoon the subject for consideration was the relation of the several branches of the Anglican communion in America to one another. Suggestions were made as to the transfer of clergymen from one national church to another with a view of a better maintenance of discipline and the protection of the church from unworthy ministers."

THE "AIR-TIGHT" CROWD TO PUT SCREWS ON B. & O.

Indications Are That the Selects' "Rump" Committee Will Do Things.

The present indications are that the "rump" committee on corporations of select council, better known as the "air-tight" committee, is prepared at the meeting which Chairman John Upperman has called for tomorrow afternoon to put through an amendment to increase the rental for the proposed new B. & O. station on the Monongahela wharf to such a figure that the franchise will be useless to the company. It is rumored that it is the intention to raise the annual rental from the figure fixed in the ordinance now held up, to some figure between $20,000 and $50,000.

Charles S. Crawford, president of common council and a member of the "air-tight," said yesterday that $40,000 for the B. & O. station franchise was a fair sum and that the ordinance should be passed in its present shape.

SOCIETY.

THE chimes of Trinity church pealed forth yesterday at the conclusion of the wedding of the bishop's daughter. The marriage of Miss Edith Wallace Whitehead, second daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Whitehead, and Pressly Neville Guthrie was solemnized yesterday afternoon.

At 4 o'clock, the bridal party entered Trinity church to the strains of the wedding march, Walter E. Hall presiding at the organ. The bride was attired in an exquisite creation of crepe de chine and lace. Her gown was made with full court train over which fell her veil, while draped in her arms was a magnificent cluster of large white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Houghton, Miss Priscilla Guthrie, Miss Penelope Whitehead, Miss Dorothy Gilman and Miss Elisabeth Bellesby, were handsome gowns of white crepe de chine and lace and black chiffon. Huge clusters of long-stemmed chrysanthemums formed their bouquets. Bouvardias in yellow chrysanthemums were worn by the ushers, George McBride, Frank Guthrie, Frank Lemoyne and Joseph Rarch. The best man was John Brandon Guthrie. The bride was given away by her brother, John Brinton Whitehead. The father of the bride, the Rt. Rev. Cortlandt Whitehead, D. D., bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese, in his official robes and red hood, read the marriage service, the Rev. Alfred W. Arundel, rector of Trinity, assisted.

A reception and supper for the members of the bridal party and their friends, numbering 150, was held at the Whitehead residence, in Ellsworth avenue, Bellefield, last evening. The house decorations were exceedingly dainty and simple. Garlands of smilax outlined the doorways, curtains and mantels of the home while the same adornment was seen on the chandeliers and mantels. The church was elaborately decorated. On the reading desk in the two windows of chrysanthemums arose a mass of green, while in different parts of the edifice were quaint little bay trees from Holland.

A number of out-of-town guests were present at the wedding, among them being Miss Houghton, who was one of the maids; the Rev. George C. Houghton of New York, Miss Gilman of Yonkers, Miss Julia Kerr of New York and Miss Lillian Paxson of Philadelphia. The two maids were entertained by the parents of the bride, while the others were guests at the Hotel Schenley. After the wedding supper Mr. Guthrie and his bride left for an eastern trip. After December 1 they will be at home in Elmira, N. Y.

Guffey—Cummings.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Guffey, daughter of Mrs. William C. Guffey of Irwin and a niece of Col. James M. Guffey and the Hon. Wesley S. Guffey of Pittsburgh, to Samuel B. Cummings of this city took place last evening at the family residence and was the most brilliant wedding event in the history of the town. The drawing room, where the ceremony was performed, was turned into a bower of flowers and palms. There was a canopy for the bridal party and brass standards with curtains of smilax and ribbon cords marking the path of the bridal procession. Mantels throughout the house were banked with asparagus, maidenhair fern and primroses. The bride entered on the arm of her brother, William C. Guffey, Jr. She was attended by her sister, Miss Edna Guffey, as maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Shaw of McKeesport as bridesmaid. Miss Katherine Kennedy of Munhall and Miss Marion Scull of Bellevue were the flower girls and scattered flowers in the path of the party. The best man was Edwin Young of Pittsburgh and the officiating clergyman the Rev. C. P. Cheeseman of the East End, assisted by the Rev. J. C. Oliver of the Long Run Presbyterian church.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white crepe meteor and duchess lace, with a bridal veil and a wreath of orange blossoms. The only ornament worn was a diamond pendant, the gift of the bridegroom, while she carried a shower of roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore white crepe de chine and carried bouquets of chrysanthemums. The bride and bridegroom left on an evening train for an extended bridal tour.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Conrad Lamm of Philadelphia and Mrs. L. Vark Rose of Germantown, sisters of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Miller of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Vandergrift and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Beall of Wellsburg, W. Va.; Col. and Mrs. J. Warren Keifl of Bellevue and Mrs. W. W. Scott and the Misses Scott of Swickley.

Holmes, in the First United Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg last evening. Six hundred invitations had been issued. The church was handsomely decorated. To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the bridal party entered, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The Rev. M. M. Patterson, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white bridal and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Cora Holmes, a sister of the groom, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Laura Dickson of Philadelphia, Miss Florence Parr, Miss Nell Kirkpatrick, Miss Georgeanna Carpenter and Miss Mame Turner of Wilkinsburg. Samuel Gayley of Philadelphia was best man. The ushers were James Allen of Boston, Matthew Lowry of Pittsburgh, Robert Pitcairn and Robert Ferguson of Wilkinsburg and Charles Torrence, a brother of the bride. After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride, at which the guests were limited to members of the families and close relatives. The Torrence home was handsomely decorated with roses and carnations, mingled with ferns and palms. Mr. and Mrs. Holmes left for an eastern wedding trip, after which they will live in Wilkinsburg. The bride is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College for Women and is a well-known singer. Mr. Holmes is a son of W. M. Holmes of Wood street, Wilkinsburg, and is a graduate of Chambersburg college.

Amberg—Koch.

The Rev. Dr. Leonard Levy of the Eighth Street synagogue performed the ceremony at 6 o'clock in the presence of a number of friends and relatives of the young couple. The bride wore a gown of white crepe, with trimmings of duchesse lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Her veil was fastened with ostrich tips. Miss Koch wore white point d'esprit and carried roses and maidenhair fern, and the little flower girl appeared in a frock of white batiste and carried a basket of flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Koch are now taking an extended trip through the east. After will live in New York. The wedding decorations were green and white, a quantity of smilax being used and vases of roses aided in the color scheme. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Berkman and Miss Sella Berkman of Beaver Falls, A. Koch and Miss Theresa Koch and Mrs. Rosenberg of Chicago, Miss Rena Rothheimer of Philadelphia, Hugo Freund and Louis Cohen of Chicago, the home of the bridegroom's parents.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Novels and Their Readers.

The Woman's club yesterday afternoon waived its regular literary program and listened to an interesting address on "Novels," by the Rev. A. J. Bonsall, D. D., of Rochester, Pa. The speaker discussed novels from all points of view, classifying them according to their purpose or style. Dr. Bonsall frequently quoted from classical and modern novels. In the address and in the general discussion which followed not a word was spoken against the novel, which a few years ago was regarded by the light of a dangerous power. The widespread influence of those novels depicting the life and customs and scenery in other countries was dwelt on as bringing closer a knowledge of the world's people.

Among the clubwomen who took part in the general discussion were Mrs. Jane Hall, Mrs. J. Wade, Mrs. Charles R. Wray, Mrs. James B. Scott and Mrs. S. G. Rosenfeld. Report of the meeting of the state federation in Carlisle last week were given by the club's delegates, Mrs. Charles W. Irving, Miss Anna Martin and Mrs. Rosenfeld. Miss Martin sang to the program, Mrs. Edwin R. Miller and Mrs. Minnie O. Roberts singing several songs. Miss Peppard of Crafton was the accompanist.

Club Meeting in Lawrenceville.

English Explorers and Colonizers" were discussed this season's second meeting of the Lawrenceville Century club, conducted in the Butler Street Methodist church parlors yesterday afternoon. Mrs. E. A. Amaden was the leader, and among those who gave informal talks and papers were Mrs. F. J. Kress, Mrs. Robert Osternaler, Mrs. Daniel Coveney and Mrs. Ulrich. The representatives selected from the great English explorers who have explored and aided in colonizing other lands were divided into four groups, the first including Sir Walter Raleigh and William Penn, founders of the two great colonies of this country; Sir John Franklin and Capt. James Cook, intrepid explorers of the frozen north; Sir Francis Drake, Sir John Hawkins and Sir Martin Frobisher, distinguished English navigators, and Sir Henry Hudson, whose name has been given to one of the most picturesque rivers of the United States. At the next meeting "English Reformers" will be discussed.

More Money for a Missionary.

Miss Mary P. Hill, who has been spending a few weeks in Pittsburgh as the guest of the Central Young Women's Christian association, left last evening for Chicago. For seven years she remained in Madras, only returning to America last May, and after a rest in this country will go back to India to continue her work among the women and girls of Madras. Her sister is the national secretary of the Young Women's Christian association of India, Burma and Ceylon, and the two young women are working together.

The Central Young Women's Christian association has heretofore raised $750 to the support of Miss Hill, the money being gathered in collections, but a new system was adopted this fall, a plan of systematic giving, which has already resulted in over three times as much money being secured as in previous years.

It was brought into the fold of the woman's congress held in Chicago during the World's fair, and the Pittsburgh and Allegheny section was one of the first to be organized. The local council holds monthly meetings in directions. It supports the Columbian council school for which a special fund is called. There is a committee on religion, one on philanthropy, one on social service and one on study.

Among the principal subjects which will be discussed this year are "Zionism," "Ceremonies in the Jewish Home," "Adaptation of Ancient Ceremonies to Modern Needs," "Duties," "Traditional Jewish Music," "The Modern Jewess."

Mr. Rumgnall is an eminent Shakespearean scholar, but has not been heard often on the concert platform, having confined his engagements largely to schools and colleges. E. Booth, Mrs. J. R. Yohe, Mrs. J. F. Challinor, Mrs. J. A. Reed and Mrs. O. A. Blackburn.

PATTI'S FAREWELL SONG.

Charles K. Harris Has Written One Especially for Last American Tour.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Aucling Patti, who is now on her way to New York, where, on November 4, she will inaugurate her farewell American tour, has for the first time in her career commissioned an American composer to write a song for her. This honor has been conferred upon Charles K. Harris, author of "After the Ball." His song, "The Last Farewell," has been accepted for Mme. Patti, and will be sung as an encore at all her performances. The chorus of the song was especially pleasing to Mme. Patti. These are the words:

Good by, old friends, we'll never meet again.
Though sad my heart, yet sadder is the parting,
But sadder still to breathe the last good-by,
Each gentle word is graven on my heart.
Although I smile yet still my tears are flowing,

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY TO READ IN PITTSBURGH

James Whitcomb Riley will be at Carnegie music hall next Monday night, when he will give readings from some of his latest and most famous works. The poet, whose sweet songs have taken him into the hearts of the American people, is a slender, frail looking man below medium height, with tender grey eyes that look out from black-rimmed eyeglasses and do not like the glare of sunshine, a nose slightly after the eagle order, and a thin lipped mouth that widens into a delightfully humorous smile when he talks in his slow, delicious drawl.

There Is Nothing to Prevent You Employing a Substitute to Do Its Work.

There is such a thing as forbearance ceasing to be a virtue even in the case of one's stomach. There is an opinion but that some stomachs will stand a great deal more wear and tear and abuse than others, but they all have their limit, and when that limit is reached the stomach must be reckoned with as sure as fate. The best way, and really the only effective way to treat your stomach when it rebels is to employ a substitute to do its work. This will give the weakened and worn-out organ an opportunity to rest and regain its strength and health.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve the stomach of its work by taking up the work and doing it just as one set or shift of workmen relieves another. They actually digest the food in just the same manner and at the same time as the digestive fluids of the sound stomach do. In fact, when dissolved in the stomach they are digestive fluids for they contain exactly the same constituents and elements as the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach. No matter what the condition of the stomach is, their work is just the same. They work in their own natural way without regard to surrounding conditions.

The stomach being thus relieved by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is restored and renewed by Nature and the rest of the human body does not suffer in the least by reason of its failure to perform its work.

A Wisconsin man says: "I suffered the pangs of dyspepsia for 10 years. I tried every known remedy, with indifferent results until I was told of the remarkable cures of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I bought a box, began taking them and soon noticed a remarkable change. Before I had used one box I was entirely cured me completely. I have had no trouble whatever for a year and have an appetite like a harvest hand and can eat anything that is set before me without fear of distress."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. The druggist never fails to have them in stock, because the demand for them is so great and so pronounced that he cannot afford to be without them. People who could not get them of one druggist would go to another, and would get in the habit of buying their other drugs there as well as their Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

PRISONERS PLOT TO WIN FREEDOM

Penitentiary Officers Discovered That Two Doors Had Been Tampered With.

SECURED A KEY TO ONE LOCK

Plan Was Well Devised, but Could Hardly Have Been Successful—Investigation So Far Failed to Discover the Men in the Plot.

A conspiracy by prisoners in the Western penitentiary to escape has been discovered by the prison authorities. Keys had been obtained, a steel-barred door had been tampered with, and only one little door stood between the plotters and freedom. While the door is little, the prison authorities say it is strong and would have defied efforts to break it down.

Deputy Warden J. Harry Corbett and the board of inspectors say that it is probable no one will be discharged from the prison's employ on the ground that 800 prisoners are constantly planning to escape, and that walls and doors and guards are there to prevent them.

The plot was detected on last Wednesday by Deputy Warden J. Harry Corbett. Screws had been removed from a steel door, the screw holes had been filled up with putty and painted over, all the details showing that the prisoners took their time.

To comprehend the plot it is necessary to understand the building plans of a part of the prison.

The Way to Freedom.

The main entrance to the penitentiary is through steel gates, which are always left open in the daytime, to a covered archway which connects the prison entrances with barred doors, giving admission into the rear of the warden's house. From this covered way a half-dozen steps lead up to a door made of steel plates, which door also was always left open until last Wednesday afternoon after the plot was discovered. Thence steps lead up to another steel-plate door which opens into the rotunda of the prison, but at each side of the steps at their foot is a steel-plate door. One of these opens into an areaway walled off from the cellar, but the other leads into the cellar. It was this last door which remained to be opened by the conspirators. With it open they could have walked out into the prison lawn, in broad daylight, to liberty, for they are supposed to be good-conduct prisoners wearing dark clothes, distinguished from other clothes by tin-plated buttons, which could have been painted a dark color. No guards stand outside, so that the prisoners would have run little risk of detection.

The little door leading from the unguarded entrance to the cellar was the only bar to the liberty of the conspirators.

Lock Was Unscrewed.

About seven yards from this door is another one, made of steel bars, separating the cellar from the dungeon room, and this was the door which had its lock unscrewed and the screw holes filled with painted putty. Twenty yards away is another door, made of steel bars, leading from the dungeon room to a rear area, and this was the door to which the convicts had obtained a key.

Suspicions of a plot were not awakened two weeks ago, when, according to William J. Diehl, a member of the board of prison inspectors, the last-mentioned door was found unlocked. It was not suspected that a prisoner had a key, but the supposition was that a guard had left the door unlocked. The guards were questioned, and all denied that they were at fault. The investigation was dropped and the plotting convicts remained unsuspected.

Last Wednesday Deputy Warden Corbett was down in the dungeon and cellar portion of the prison. Passing near the steel-barred door leading from the dungeon to the space which was separated from the outside by the little steel-plate door, he remarked that one of the vertical steel bars, which looks just like the other vertical ones in the door except that it slides up and down and acts as a bolt, was not in its socket.

Work of the Plotters.

He examined the plate which stretches across the steel bars and which contains the lock and a horizontally moving bolt. The screw holes looked all right, but on pricking them with his pocket knife the deputy warden found that all but three of the screws had been taken out and the holes filled with putty, scored across in imitation of a screw head and painted the color of the door. The deputy warden found that the lock was tumbled and was no security whatever. It had taken time to do all this, for the plate must have been taken off by the plotters, the lock tumbled and the plate put on again.

Corbett told Warden W. McC. Johnston, and Johnston telephoned for Prison Inspector Diehl, who went to the prison and investigated. Mr. Diehl was told of the door which was found open a little more than a week before. It is admitted to be quite possible, and even probable, that the elaborate work on the other door had been done before the discovery of the unlocked door.

The plot having been detected, great precautions were taken to prevent its success.

Taking No More Chances.

Orders were given that the door leading from the outside to the steps going up to the door of the rotunda should be kept locked, and that the door which experience had just shown to be in a risky place should be taken down and the space walled up.

"Are the prison inspectors convinced that no blame attaches to the management of the prison?" Corbett was asked.

"Of course, neither the management nor the guards are to blame," he replied. "We have 800 prisoners here, always thinking up some plan to escape. Some of them bright, alert, cunning men, and their movements are hard to follow despite the utmost vigilance of the guards and the management. It requires diligent vigilance on our part to frustrate the plans they might make."

Warden Johnston is in Scranton attending court and, of course, he could not be seen. The board of inspectors will hold its regular meeting on the last Friday of the month. Mr. Diehl said he hardly thought a special meeting would be held to make an investigation. The board depends upon Warden Johnston to do his best to learn what prisoners were in the plot and why it so nearly succeeded.

Always Trying to Escape.

"Prisoners are always trying to escape," said Mr. Diehl, "and I cannot see that the management is to blame."

David B. Oliver, president of the board, said he did not attach much importance to the matter, as prisoners were constantly plotting to escape, their plans usually ending in failure.

So far as the public knows, there has been but one escape from the penitentiary since Warden Johnston took charge. The convict was James Jones, sentenced for burglary. He provided himself with rope, made a hook, threw it to the top of the wall and escaped, although he was recaptured in McKeesport two weeks later.

Corbett said that it was impossible for Alexander Berkmann, the anarchist, to have made the attempt, as Berkmann was kept in another part of the prison. Besides, he said, Berkmann's term would expire in two years, and that Berkmann himself laughed at the idea of trying to escape now that his freedom is so near. Boyd, the forger, was also kept in another part of the prison, Corbett said.

PLAN OF THE BIG DEAL TOLD

Record of September 2 Named as Showing Those Entitled to Sell Their Stock at 15 and 45 Pro. Rata.

George I. Whitney and Whitney & Stephenson jointly offer to the stockholders of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, by circular sent out yesterday, an opportunity to share pro rata in the prices of 15 and 45 obtained in the sale of the control of the river company to the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

The announcement, in addition to making this offer, develops the details of the plan under which the Pittsburgh Coal Company agrees to buy the control of the River company. The letter follows:

On September 2, 1903, our Mr. Whitney contracted to sell to the Pittsburgh Coal Company 200,000 shares of the common stock and 50,000 shares of the preferred stock of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, at the respective prices of $15 per share for common and $45 per share for preferred stock. The terms of the sale are as follows: For the common stock, $5 per share is to be paid on November 1, 1904, 1905 and 1906, respectively, without interest. For the preferred stock a sum equal to 6 cents per ton on each and every ton of coal mined from the properties of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company is to be set aside by the Pittsburgh Coal Company and devoted to the payments in semi-annual installments beginning January 20, 1904, until the entire purchase money shall have been paid.

Right to Receive Dividends.

This purchase is also without interest, but until the payments are completed holders are entitled to receive dividends on such remainder of their stock as shall not have been lifted. The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh has been designated as depository for both issues of stock and will, November 3, 1903, give negotiable receipts to holders for such stock as may be deposited, stating the terms and conditions of the trust.

Recent market conditions have been such as possibly to make this sale more attractive than it appeared on September 2 of this year. In view of these conditions, therefore, we have decided to offer to all stockholders of record in the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company on September 2, 1903, a pro rata participation in this sale. Of the preferred stock, one-fourth has been sold; of the common stock three-fourths are included. You are duly notified, that if by Saturday, October 24, 1903, you will advise us of the number of either common or preferred shares you held on September 2, 1903, our Mr. Whitney will give you notice to present 15 per cent of your common and 45 per cent of your preferred holdings to the Union Trust Company, with instructions that in exact proportion to your ownership, you may obtain participation in the sale above referred to.

It is absolutely necessary that this notification be given us by October 24 and the stock be delivered to the Union Trust Company on November 3, 1903, in case you wish to accept the participation hereby extended.

Gives Sure Control.

The capital stock of the Monongahela company is $20,000,000 common, or 400,000 shares of $50 par value; and $10,000,000 preferred, or 200,0000 shares of $50 par. Mr. Whitney's contract calls for the delivery of three-fourth, or 300,000 shares of the common stock, and one-fourth, or 50,000 shares of the preferred, making a total of 350,000 out of 600,000 shares and giving the Pittsburgh Coal a sure control of the river concern.

The recent market conditions mentioned in the letter have been such as to depress the value of the river company's stock far below the prices of 15 and 45. The quotations at the close of the stock exchange yesterday were 9¼ bid and 9⅝ asked, for common, and 28 bid and 30 asked, for the preferred.

Inasmuch as the offer includes three-fourths of the common and one-fourth of the preferred holdings of every stockholder of record of September 2, the offer is one that will appeal to very many.

Some criticism had been made of the action of those interested in the deal by which the control of the river company passed to the rail company. The offer made above places every stockholder of record on the date of the transaction on an absolutely equal basis.

The last day for the delivery of the stock is the day for the Pittsburgh Coal to take over the river coal company. This date has been mentioned before in this connection. It is believed that the resulting changes of officers will be made at that time.

Chinese Will Stand Trial.

Eight Chinamen charged with assaulting Frank Lee, a fellow-countryman, during a session of the Chinese court, being held at No. 512 Second avenue, several weeks ago, to decide the ownership of a Chinese restaurant in Allegheny, gave bail for court yesterday. Lee, the prosecutor, is said to be dying of consumption and did not appear yesterday.

Negroes Gave Battle to Posse.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Three negroes were killed and eight wounded in a battle with a posse near Pecan Grove plantation today. They refused to pay their bills and attempted to kill a constable. He organized a posse and the above casualties resulted.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.

In the course of the testimony which Charles M. Schwab is to give in the United States Shipbuilding Company receivership case, it is more than likely that he will be called upon to explain an agreement which was entered into on August 12, 1902, by the Shipbuilding company and the Bethlehem Steel Company.

The agreement, which was signed by the vice president and secretary of the Shipbuilding company and the president and secretary of the Bethlehem company, is in part as follows:

Now, therefore, it is agreed between the parties hereto as follows:

(1). The steel company agrees to, and does, contemporaneously with the signing hereof, deliver to the New York Security and Trust Company its bond in the sum of $10,000,000, and to the Colonial Trust Company its mortgage to secure said bond, in the form and of the tenor and effect requested by said shipbuilding company and said New York Security and Trust Company, and submitted to and approved by the board of directors and stockholders of the steel company.

(2.) In consideration of the execution of such bond and mortgage, the shipbuilding company does hereby agree to guarantee, that so long as any part of the bonds secured by its deed of trust to theNewYork Security and Trust Company shall be outstanding and unpaid, the steel company shall and will pay dividends on its entire present outstanding capital stock at the rate of not less than 6 per centum per annum, and, for the purpose of making such payment, the shipbuilding company hereby guarantees and agrees that said steel company shall and will earn over and above its operating expenses and fixed charges (including interest on its bonds and taxes), add over and above the working capital provided for in the subsequent paragraph, a sum sufficient to make such annual dividend disbursement, and if, on or before the first day of August in each and every year the said steel company shall not have earned and paid said dividend at the rate of 6 per centum per annum, then the shipbuilding company will pay to the steel company a sum sufficient to make such annual dividend disbursement or such portion thereof as may remain unpaid.

The shipbuilding company hereby agrees to furnish and supply the said steel company with all such orders, contracts, work and earning capacity as shall be necessary to enable it to earn and pay the annual dividend provided for.

(3.) The shipbuilding company, in consideration of the premises, hereby agrees and guarantees that so long as there shall be outstanding any portion of the bonds secured by its deed of trust to the New York Security and Trust Company, the steel company shall at all times have, keep, and maintain on hand, over and above all its obligations (except the principal of its outstanding bonds), and over and above any and all fixed charges and in addition to any and all sums required to pay the dividends provided for in the preceding paragraph, as, and for a working capital, and for no other purpose, cash or cash assets aggregating in value at all times not less than $4,000,000, and if at any time the amount of such working capital of the steel company shall be less than said sum of $4,000,000, then, and in that event, the shipbuilding company will, upon the demand of the steel company, pay to said steel company the amount of such deficiency.

Mr. Jerome, when asked concerning the story that he had instituted proceedings against the Shipbuilding company replied that he would not discuss the matter.

SATCHEL CONTRACTOR IS GIVEN A HEARING

Asserts Two Postal Officials Allowed Him to Leave Straps Off Satchels.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Leopold J. Stern, the Baltimore contractor arrested in Toronto, under two warrants charging false pretenses in supplying to the government satchels for rural free delivery carriers, was given a preliminary hearing in the police court today. Stern pleaded not guilty. The case will be continued tomorrow.

In his testimony Inspector Mayer said he had a conversation with the defendant at his place of business in Baltimore, in which the latter acknowledged having but one contract with the government and that it called for a certain kind of strap to be placed on the satchels. The defense brought out the admission that Stern had claimed that he had secured the permission of two postal officials to furnish the satchels without straps.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20.—Judge Thompson of the United States district court is expected tomorrow to announce his decision regarding a new trial of Daniel V. Miller of Terre Haute and Joseph M. Johns of Rockville, Ind., for alleged conspiracy to extort a bribe. Judge Thompson has been asked to set as early a date as possible for a new trial and he is trying to arrange his docket so as to rehear the case at the present term of court.

REQUISITION HONORED.

Amended Papers for Riley's Extradition Received by Gov. Pennypacker Yesterday.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Gov. Pennypacker today honored the requisition made upon him by Gov. Hunn of Delaware for the return to New Castle of George Riley, a negro under arrest at Philadelphia, accused of assault upon a 12-year-old girl.

The governor received the original application last Monday, but denied it because it did not show that an indictment against Riley had been found. The amended requisition honored today by the governor is accompanied by certificates from Riley's victim and the physician attending her that she was very seriously injured by the assault.

REBATE CAUSING TROUBLE.

Legal Proceedings Threatened Against McKeesport Mayor and Councils.

The action of McKeesport councils in rebating the Soles estate assessment of $3,300 on property has resulted in talk of an injunction being asked for by a number of citizens, who believe the rebate to be unlawful.

James Fulton called on Mayor Falkenstein yesterday morning to protest against the signing of the rebate, but found the paper had already received the mayor's signature.

R. J. W. Soles of common council and Andrew Soles of select council are heirs of the estate and both voted in favor of the rebate. This, it is said, is sufficient to render the action of councils illegal.

BANKERS START THEIR SESSION

Trust Company Section of Association Met Yesterday in San Francisco.

PAPER BY LYMAN J. GAGE

Gave a Comprehensive Idea of the Trust Company's Powers as Trustee. Golden City Filled With Financiers from All Sections of the United States.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—This city is filled with bankers, who are here awaiting the opening of the annual convention of the American Bankers' association tomorrow. Today, however, the California bankers, the trust company section and savings banks section of the association held their conventions.

F. C. Hanford of Tacoma read a paper before the trust company section on trust company organization. He was followed by several others, and their report of the section was submitted. This showed a balance of $2,578 in the treasury and a membership of 501.

The feature of the day's meeting, however, was a paper written by Lyman J. Gage upon "Trust Companies as Trustees." This paper was read by Secretary Branch and in part was as follows:

Carry Rich Man's Burdens.

In England they have learned better than we to be content with a competence, to relieve one's self of the burden of wealth and to devote one's energies to other purposes than the mere increase of the burden. In America, on ever increasing number are learning this lesson. Their greatest problem is to find a suitable custodian for their wealth, to whom its cares and responsibilities may be safely delegated.

This problem which, to thoughtful and conscientious men is a grave one, the trust company, in its legal capacity as administrator, executor or guardian or trustee, is established to solve. Enjoying perpetuity, it is not subject to the infirmities of death. Controlled by the limitations and provisions of its charter, it is kept by the strong hand of the law within the limits of conservative operations.

Prudently managed by a competent board of directors, the beneficiaries of the trust have the advantage of the collective wisdom of the experienced men, and in financial matters, "in a multitude of counsellors there is safety." Inspected by independent officers of the state, any wrong-doing by the officers of a trust company cannot long remain undiscovered.

Economy a Factor.

Possessed of ample capital, the beneficiary is guaranteed against loss through errors or wilful dishonesty. Moreover, the trust company, adopting methods of business, to employ it to dispatch with zeal and fidelity the high duties imposed upon it in its fiduciary capacity as trustee. Its capital should be adequate to its responsibilities. Its officers and directors should be men of experience and with a single mind devoted to the institution they serve.

In corporate work, whether exclusively relating to its retail business or not, should be of a diversified character and free from hazard. Around the trust company should further be thrown the safeguards of wise legislation. In some of the older states, adequate protection in the shape of such safeguards and other benefacent laws could profitably be adopted by the states less fortunate.

Careful Laws Needed.

The legislature may well give careful consideration to this important function of financial corporations. It is true the trust company is comparatively a newcomer. The first of such institutions began business in the United States but little more than 50 years ago. The record of that half century is, however, that the wonderful financial growth and the extent of its services in the management of property is but imperfectly understood by those most requiring its special facilities.

In the period in question, few, if any, losses have occurred to any trust property by the delinquency of any trust company acting in a fiduciary capacity. There have unquestionably been, in such limited period, occasional acts of misfeasance by employees, but I believe that I can recall has the trust company failed to make good to the beneficiary the temporary loss thereby sustained.

I am firmly of opinion, therefore, that the growing value of such companies in the special work to which I have alluded should be made known to that class which we may justly hope is becoming numerically large, to whom the problem of the proper management and ultimate disposition of their property presents itself as the peculiar problem of the rich.

The Menace of Banks.

Fred Heinz of Davenport, Ia., spoke of "The Dangers Threatening the Savings Banks." He said in part:

Savings banks are threatened with a great danger—that of losing deposits on account of postoffice savings banks, should such be established. The agitation for government savings banks is considerable and should savings banks fail in any great number, it would, no doubt, hasten the establishment of government banks.

To keep the savings banks in popular favor it is absolutely necessary that the greatest safeguards be provided for the deposits. When this is done the cry for government savings banks will cease; otherwise not. The loans should be good and kept good. Investments should be of such a character that there can be no shrinkage of the principal and should be in such shape that they can be disposed of in case of need within a reasonable time.

He urged the making of efforts toward getting "good savings banks laws" enacted in every state. "The Iowa law," he said, "gives the public as abundant security for their money as a safe and conservative banking business will justify."

MISSION WORKERS MEET.

First Day's Session of American Missionary Society Heard Sermon on the Negro.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The fifty-seventh meeting of the American Missionary society commenced here today. After the usual opening exercises the report of the executive committee covering a period of 18 years, was read. The treasurer's report showed a total of $433,294 in receipts. The expenditures were $111,079 less than last year. The work for the ensuing year requires an increase in donations of about 28 per cent.

Tonight there was a sermon upon the negro problem by the Rev. P. S. Moxom of Springfield, Mass. President Washington Gladden in his opening address also touched upon the black man by announcing that, election, taxation and state administration could not compare with the question: "What is the nation going to do with the black man?"

BLOOMSBURG IS CHOSEN.

State Convention of W. C. T. U. Selects Meeting Place for Next Year.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 20.—The state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union closed this evening by the delegates joining hands and singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Almost the entire forenoon was taken up with consideration of the resolutions, all of which were adopted.

Bloomsburg was selected as the place for holding next year's convention. Mrs. H. E. Betts of Altoona was chosen delegate-at-large to the national convention.

It was decided to pay the traveling expenses of Mrs. W. H. Woods of Huntingdon to every state convention as long as she lives. She was for 2 years state treasurer and is now treasurer emeritus.

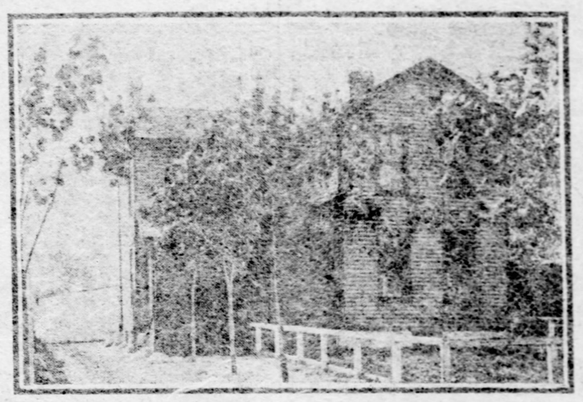
EXTENDED THE CITY LIMITS TO TAKE IN THIS SALOON



Bonner's Saloon, Now in Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 20.—(Special)—James M. Bonner, saloonist, late of Youngstown township, now of the city of Youngstown, found the city council, the mayor, and the county commissioners rather accommodating when he wanted to continue his business of selling liquor. They were so accommodating, in fact, that they extended the city limits 216 feet to take him into the city in order that he would not have to close up his saloon and go into other business in order to make a livelihood.

Bonner has been running a saloon just outside of the city limits at Cash Creek. Last spring there was an agitation for local option in the township. The anti-saloon league took up the fight and carried it overwhelmingly, putting Bonner and other township saloonists, legally, out of the business. At once the movement was started to take in the 216 feet of land which would bring Bonner into the city. The county commissioners readily agreed. City council took up the measure and wrestled with it. Nothing was done until the opposition to the move "went to sleep." Then the city council put it through with a whirl. Ex-Mayor W. T. Gibson signed the bill the next morning. "The people didn't come to me with any opposition," he said. "Besides one saloon more to the 354 in the city won't make much difference."

FAMILY PREFER JAIL TO SMALLPOX QUARANTINE

COSHOCTON, O., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Herbert McDonald, his wife, 2-year-old babe and sister-in-law are locked in the city prison and declare they will stay there all winter rather than submit to smallpox quarantine. McDonald was arrested last night for breaking quarantine. When Health Officer Foster with others went to his home to fumigate they were greeted by two angry women with a hatchet and garden hoe. Officers arrested the women. All are offered their freedom if they go home and stay in. The trouble arises from disagreement of physicians, the health board doctor stating that it is smallpox and the other physicians in the city declaring there is no trace of the malady.

Need More School Room.

IRWIN, Pa., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—With the influx of over 70 families at Trafford City, the North Huntingdon school board is in a dilemma about caring for the school children. The school board has about decided to erect a school house for the Trafford City children.

JUDGE LYNCH BALKED BY MILLVALE JUSTICE

Angry Citizens Clamored for the Life of Little Girl's Assailant Last Night.

While a big crowd of fulminant citizens clamored about the office of Justice A. J. Neidlinger's Millvale last night, demanding that Charles Fisk, 50 years old, of No. 114 North avenue, Millvale, be handed over to them for summary justice, the justice listened to evidence charging Fisk with assaulting a little girl in the borough. The information was made against Fisk by Agent F. F. Kuntz of the anti-cruelty society and Fisk was committed to jail. After arriving at the jail two additional commitments were placed in the hands of Warden Lewis by Alderman Jaminet, Mesdera charging Fisk with the same offense. They were sworn out by James Van Horne and Joseph J. Werner, both of Millvale.

Constable Charles Tyler, who took Fisk to the jail, was considerably relieved after handing his prisoner over to the county authorities. He said that had he not gotten Fisk out of Millvale at once he without doubt would have been lynched by the male residents. Four additional informations were made against Fisk before Justice Neidling last night after the hearing and it is said 20 more charges will be preferred against Fisk today for the same offense.

Fisk is employed as a gas inspector, and although a married man, he has lived alone in Millvale for the past eight months. It is alleged that Fisk enticed girls ranging in age from 6 to 12 years to enter his house. Fisk has barricaded himself in his house, Justice Neidling said last night. When he refused to leave it the justice said he went to the house and represented himself as an agent for the gas company. When Fisk opened the door Neidling clutched Fisk by the throat and dragged him to the office.

Laces & trimmings bought & to be sold at 50c on the dollar

A CERTAIN lace manufacturer, anticipating a rise in prices, held tightly to a reserve stock of considerable proportions. Then, at the eleventh hour, came business exactions (unforseen) which required him to unload without delay. Our buyer happened on the ground in the nick of time and secured concessions in prices sweeping in character—resulting in the following offers:

Wheat patterns, rose patterns, medallions, teneriffe designs, etc., are the latest ideas in laces. As a dress needs more than just to be trimmed, so these beautiful laces lend an air of grace and individuality which requires but little knack to drape appropriately. All these designs are separable and can be applied to great advantage; a large lot of lace bands also contained in the assortment. As there are only one or two pieces alike you must make early selection to insure your preference. Entire lot divided into 5 assortments, at, per yard, 75c, 48c, 35c, 25c and 19c

Two millinery makers lose considerable

UNSEASONABLE weather is more detrimental to sales of trimmed hats than perhaps any other merchandise. And the millinery maker can't sit down and wait for the weather. Styles are liable to change suddenly, and then where'd he be? This explains why such celebrated makers as were willing to part with their surplus stocks at a price concession averaging 50c on the dollar. And the women responding to this announcement will reap the full benefit of this purchase.

The $3.50 hats go at 1.75

These hats are made of choice materials, beautifully trimmed and are in accord with the latest style ideas.

At 3.98 you can today buy women's and misses' trimmed hats which ordinarily sell for $6.50. These hats are made of velvet or soft milliners' felt, trimmed with high class materials. The picturesque shapes, the soft delicate blendings of pretty shades—in fact the entire ensemble of each hat bespeaks exceptional millinery talent.

At 8.50 we offer most exquisite trimmed hats that closely follow the new ideas introduced by the most exclusive Paris modistes—also entirely original creations, with that inimitable style touch which is peculiar to our own individual conceptions. If you set about matching these hats elsewhere for $12, or even $15, you've a difficult task before you.

Newest of new waists

OUR autumn display of women's waists is fascinating—no showing was ever more radiant with beautiful and practical styles. Some of the designs are wholly of our own making—others are either exact copies or graceful modifications of styles that originated in the most exclusive dressmaker and tailor shops in New York, London and Paris.

Women's heavy white oxford cheviot waists—scattering quantities from our regular $1.50 and $2 lines, also samples that were used to represent the character of a well known manufacturer's products—retailers selected their stocks from them. Women's crepe de chine waists, alternate tucks and hemstitching, tuck back, full tucked sleeves and tucked crushed stock—worth to $5, choice 3.98

A shoe deal out of the ordinary

THE unusualness of this deal lies in the fact that we were able to make the purchase because of the rapid growth in the maker's business. Usually it's exactly reversed conditions that cause a maker to sell goods below the cost of production.

Here's the story in a few words: A certain Brockton (Mass.) shoe manufacturer is enlarging his plant. His storage building was in the way of the improvements and had to be torn down. We helped him empty it of its contents. In all, we secured 3,000 pairs of shoes. How well we bought can be seen from this offer of

Men's and women's $3.00 and $3.50 shoes for only 2.35

The men's shoes embraced in this offer are made of fine box or velour calf, vici kid and corono colt patent leather, hand and Goodyear welt sewed, with single and double sole, London, Boston and Varsity lasts.

Women's house slippers — a very special lot of women's fur trimmed felt juliets and French dongola kid strap slippers, hand-sewed, all sizes and widths—reduced from $1 and $1.25 to 69c

The women's shoes embraced in this sale at 2.35 come in 10 different smart and shapely styles, lace and button, made of extra fine kid and patent leather, hand welt sewed, close and extension edges.

Misses' and children's kid and box calf school shoes, with low and spring heels, kid and patent leather tips—shoes which were made to retail for $1.25, offered in this sale only at, pair, 85c

Major Delmar Was No Match for Lou Dillon

LOU DILLON WON THE MATCH RACE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MEMPHIS, TENN., Oct. 20.—What was regarded as the greatest race in the history of the trotting turf, and was the magnet in drawing over 13,000 persons from the four corners of America to witness, was a miserable failure from a racing standpoint.

The first race between the two two-minute trotters was a farce, if such commonplace language is permissible between two so great horses.

Mr. Smathers says his horse, Major Delmar, was not on edge, and which may be true, but there is no question in the minds of horsemen tonight but that Lou Dillon, C. K. G. Billings' peerless trotter, far outclasses the gelding in every way.

The first heat they were sent away to an even start on the first attempt and raced abreast to the first turn, where the mare gradually pulled away from Mr. Smathers' $40,000 gelding and continued to do so to the end of the mile, even with Mr. Billings easing up in the home stretch and looking back at the beaten and disheartened gelding. The time by quarters: First quarter, 30 seconds; second, 30; third, 32; fourth, 32½; mile, 2:04¾.

The second heat Mr. Smathers tried a little "foeling" with Lou Dillon by rattling Mr. Billings' mare, and seemed not to be anxious to get away. They finally got the word on the fourth score. They had gone but a few yards when Major Delmar went in the air, and it was all over.

Mr. Billings eased up the mare and let her out in the third quarter, going the distance in 2:04, seconds with apparent ease. Mr. Smathers gave it up and finished a disappointed, but game, sportsman, 15 lengths behind, in 2:04¾.

The general opinion that had the mare been pushed in today's race she could have equaled her great performance at Readville, when she made the record of 2 minutes.

Today's star feature, the Diamond handicap, a dash at a mile and a half, was won handily by Dr. Strong from the odds-on favorite, Billy Buck. Hawthorne was a good third.

SUTTON WON A GAME.

Defeated by Fowers Again, but Managed to Defeat Billings.

The balls broke better for George H. Sutton, the handless billiard marvel at the Great Northern billiard parlors last night, and smarting under two successive defeats, he went after James Billings in determined manner and defeated him by the decisive score of 300 to 83.

During the game the armless champion gave a masterly exhibition of billiards and many of his shots brought enthusiastic cheers from the spectators. His position play was wonderful, and only once was he forced to make a round table drive, and then he deftly brought the three balls together again for perfect position. He made frequent draw and close follow shots during the game, which elicited great applause.

In the afternoon Sutton lost to Fowers the second time by a small margin. This afternoon he plays Billings again, and tonight George Miller will be pitted against him.

KENNEDY'S GOOD FIGHT.

Sails Into Champion Joe Gans and Has Crowd With Him.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Eddie Kennedy put up a surprisingly good fight with Champion Joe Gans at the Southern Athletic club tonight. Kennedy carried the fighting to the colored wonder's camp through the 10 minutes of milling and in the first round sent the crowded house to cheering when he bounced the Baltimore wonder on the jaw with a stiff right-hander that staggered the clever colored boy.

After that Gans was more careful and feinted for openings. Kennedy continually scored by making Gans' stomache and ribs the target for his powerful blows. Gans fought a very careful and clever fight, using a pretty left-hand jab, landing to the head and a right uppercut to the body and jaw, but the blows, while stinging ones, had little effect on Kennedy, who came from his corner round after round as fresh as a newly cut daisy. Gans had the better of the bout on points.

SHAKE-UP TAKES PLACE IN YALE 'VARSITY TEAM

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 20.—The oft-predicted shake-up in the Yale football team came this afternoon. Bloomer was moved to left guard and Morton was shifted to center. Rcraback, who has been playing center all fall, was relegated to the scrub team. Miller, of last year's freshman team, filled Bloomer's position at right guard. Owens was used in the first line-up in place of Mitchell.

The changes were a surprise and it is doubtful if they last long. The experiment did not seem to benefit the team in any way. The older coaches opposed any change in the make-up of the eleven, but the younger coaches wanted to at least try the experiment. Hogan and Shevlin, as well as Kinney, remained on the hospital list today. Hogan's place at right tackle was filled by Lawrence, while Shevlin was at left tackle. Neal was used at right end.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The coaches of the Cornell team devoted most of the time today to trying to develop a man for Capt. "Sandy" Hunt's place at right guard. Hunt's injury is doing as well as the physicians could hope for, but it is evident that he will not be able to play again before next Monday. Newman Smith and Lull were tried in the position today, but neither of them came up to expectations. Today's practice was fairly good, the work of Lynch at quarterback being one of the features.

Instead of the Union game on Saturday next, Manager Brady announced today that the Cornell eleven will play Western Reserve university. Union cancelled the game on account of a weak team.

CAMERIDGE, MASS., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The Harvard team played a long, hard period against the second today and scored three times. The first touchdown came as the result of 60 yards of steady rushing and the other two on blocked kicks.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Princeton's football men held a long practice today in preparation for the last Wednesday game of the season, that with Bucknell tomorrow. The showing of the players was far from satisfactory. During the two 15-minute halves the 'varsity was able to force the scrub across the goal line only once, and the scrub came the nearest to scoring by straight football of any time during the season, the ball having been advanced to the 20-yard line before being lost on a fumble.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—The University of Pennsylvania today had the best lineup on Franklin field of the year. All season Coach Williams has instructed the men in the value of team play, and several times brilliant individual players have been sent to the side lines because they endeavored to tackle the line alone. This was all changed in today's work, when the men worked like machines, and the heavy scrub did not know what hit it. The plays were given off quickly and the 'varsity back field to a man hit the spot called for in the signals before the scrub could locate the direction of the assault.

EAST LIBERTY WINS.

The East Liberty academy eleven played fast football in halves of 10 and 15 minutes yesterday at D. C. and A. C. park and won from the Non-Cadet team of Pittsburgh academy 11 to 0. Capt. Carr and Bunton put his team through its work in fine style and landed a touchdown in each half. The Cadets were not strong on the ends, and as a consequence the East Liberty backs were sent around them repeatedly for gains.

Early in the first half the ball was taken down the field by the end skirts. Bulger getting around from the 10-yard line for the first touchdown. Carr missed goal. When time was called East Liberty had the ball on the two-yard line. The end runs were repeated in the second period for the same results. Carr went smashing through from the five-yard line for the second touchdown, and he kicked his own goal.

After Carr had scored Bunton made a sensational run with the ball, traveling 50 yards before being pulled down. Lineup:

PLAYERS' CASES WILL BE FOUGHT

PRETTY STORY IS DENIED

President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club, who has been in Cincinnati for the last two days presenting his side of the case in the matter of the players Ferry and McIntyre, drafted from the Buffalo team, returned home yesterday and reports that the case will be acted on by the national commission at its session next Monday.

Relative to the statement given out by Ban Johnson that the deal between the Buffalo and Detroit clubs was a bona fide one, Mr. Dreyfuss says that he is not prepared to take Johnson's word in the matter. He says that the case is between the Pittsburgh and Detroit clubs and that Ban Johnson has nothing to do with it. Mr. Johnson is a member of the commission, but where there is a dispute between two major league clubs the president of the commission, Garry Herrmann is the sole judge.

While in Cincinnati Mr. Dreyfuss had a conference with Garry Herrmann and under oath submitted to him all the evidence in his possession, which included a sworn statement by Pitcher Ferry, who is one of the parties to the case, and who swears that George Stallings, manager of the Buffalo team, told him that the transfer to Detroit was not a sale, but was merely a scheme to save his players. In their defense Detroit officials claim that they gave to Buffalo for Ferry and McIntyre two players, McAllister and Barrett, and Mr. Dreyfuss says if such is the case he will relinquish his claim to McIntyre and take Barrett instead. It is not likely, however, that Manager Barrows of the Detroit team will stand for any such proposition, as Barrett is one of the American league stars.

While in Cincinnati Mr. Dreyfus also submitted his evidence in the case of Pitcher Roscoe Miller, which will also come up for settlement by the commission at next Monday's meeting. This case also shows the peculiar method of the American league people. Miller was with the New York team last season, but was released, and shortly after Clarke Griffith, manager of the New York team, secured his release and then claimed the player, but it is not likely that his claim will be allowed.

President Dreyfuss yesterday put a "crimp" in a pretty little play or two that Griffith, Cincinnati and copied by some of the local papers. This story went on to tell how Mr. Dreyfuss helped Deacon Phillippe to purchase a farm in South Dakota last year, and paid for it with $7,000 on the deal. Mr. Dreyfuss said the story sounded good, but unfortunately there was no truth in it, but he was sorry there was not, as he would be that many thousand to the good.

It was given out yesterday that at the conclusion of the present year Mr. Dreyfuss will give up the ball park on the old Recreation park, now known as the Colosseum. This park was originally secured as a war measure to keep the American league from entrance to this city. At this time it is quite valuable, but the sport did not prove popular, and the park has been practically idle for a year. As there is no longer any fear of invasion by an opposition league the grounds, of no use and the lease will therefore be given up.

LOOKS LIKE HARVARD.

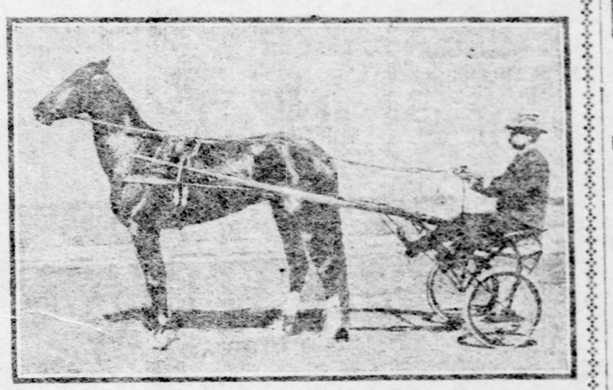
Crimson Golfers Looked Upon as Inter-Collegiate Champions.

GARDEN CITY, N. J., Oct. 20.—As a result of today's play over the Garden City Golf club's links, intercollegiate team championship honors are almost sure to go to Harvard again this year. Five teams in all, representing Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Columbia and Princeton competed for the team championship in the fifth annual tournament of the intercollegiate Golf association which began here today, and this odd number necessitated the playing of a preliminary round, the draw for which brought Harvard, Yale and Pennsylvania. The New Haven golfers scored a very decisive victory over the Pennsylvanians by a score of 16½ to 1½ points during the forenoon, and in the afternoon the Yale men were pitted against Harvard's experts. The latter, however, proved to be too strong a combination for Yale as only one member, M. Behr, of the New Haven contingent, was successful. He defeated W. Article of Harvard, 2 up, but his other five clubmates were unable to score a winning point. P. H. Jennings did the best work of these five, as he broke even with H. Wilcox, Jr., each making the round of 18 holes in 85.

Princeton and Columbia also met during the afternoon and the New Jersey collegians won all their matches, scoring 19 half points, while the Columbia men had to be satisfied with eighers.

Today's matches were all at 18 holes, but tomorrow the final contest for team honors between Harvard and Princeton will be decided on 36 holes. The individual championship contest will not begin until Thursday morning when it is expected Cornell will send at least three men to strive for the honor.



LOU DILLON.

THE WICHITA TRACK IS SEVEN FEET OVER A MILE

KANSAS CITY, MO., Oct. 20.—A special from Wichita, Kan., says: The statement to the effect that the track on which Cresceus yesterday clipped a quarter second off the trotting record, when many caught his time as 1:59¾, is 180 feet short was emphatically denied today by C. A. Irwin, president of the Southern Fair association.

Mr. Irwin stated that instead of being short the track is, as a matter of fact, seven feet over a mile long. He has ordered an official survey and measurement made.

AWAITING FITZSIMMONS BEFORE MAKING BETS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Oct. 20.—Lovers of the pugilistic game and critics here are anxiously awaiting the arrival of Bob Fitzsimmons before they begin to pick the prospective winner in the light heavyweight contest between the Cornishman and George Gardner, the present holder of that title.

Predictions of all kinds are being freely made each day, but the most skeptical of the fight "fans" want to see Robert on the ground before they bet a dollar on him.

Gardner has been here for several days and has already set himself down to hard work in preparation for the tilt with Fitzsimmons which comes off a few days past or next month.

"I want to get in the best of shape by the time the gong sounds for my bout with Fitzsimmons," declared Gardner today. "I know the job I have attempted is a hard one, but nevertheless I hope to master the problem of beating the man who has been generally credited with being the best in the ring in his line."

"Guess there some honor in beating a man of this class? Well, I should guess yes. This is the reason I will train so diligently, as I will need the best that's in me to beat Fitzsimmons."

After sizing up Gardner, many of the critics here believe the Lowell man will give the Cornishman a run for his money. Many argue that Gardner, with youth and strength to his advantage, will offset "Ruby Robert's" skill.

MAY GO ABROAD.

Champion Jeffries Thinks of Visiting South Africa.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(Special.)—Unless Champion Jim Jeffries succeeds in getting on a fight when he reaches New York it is said that he will take a trip to South Africa. In a recent interview he said:

"There are no men for me to fight in America except negroes, and I don't intend to fight negroes. The boxing game is flourishing abroad, I understand the champions draw big houses, and that there are several big boxers down there who might give me a run for the championship. I may take a trip there."

Ebensburg Gun Club Won.

EBENSBURG, PA., Oct. 20.—(Special.)—In a clay pigeon contest between the Ebensburg Gun club and the North Cambria Gun club on the fair grounds here this afternoon the Ebensburg club defeated its opponents 225 to 220. Ten marksmen represented each club, and each shot at 50 birds. A purse of $100 was offered to the winners. Considerable money changed hands in side betting.

BRIGHTON CUP OF $9,000 IS CAPTURED BY HERMES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The Brighton cup, of $9,000, the last of the big handicaps of the year, was run at Brighton Beach track today and 15,000 persons saw E. R. Thomas' Hermis second choice in the betting, win easily by eight lengths. The time, 3:53 2-5, was excellent and was next to the best time ever run for the stake. Ethelbert, in 1900, ran the distance, two miles and a quarter, in 3:49 1-5, a world's record.

Maj. Daingerfield, owned by W. B. Leeds, the favorite, was second. He was beaten at the end of one mile and three-quarters. Only once during the race did the Major display a dash of his speed, when he went to the front in the first mile, but it was only temporary and he relinquished the lead. Featherstone Igniter was third. The horses were sent away to a good start, with Hermis in front. Major Daingerfield second and Igniter third. As the flying thoroughbreds came down the lane, Hermis was leading by three-quarters of a length, with the Major second and Igniter third. This order remained the same around the paddock turn into the stretch. Two furlongs of a mile from the finish Hermis had a commanding lead of six lengths over the Major and won by eight lengths from Major Daingerfield, who, in turn, was three lengths in front of Igniter. Allan was 20 lengths back. Summaries:

First race, 1 1-16 miles—Bad News, 109, Finlay, 9 to 2 and 9 to 10 won; Stamping Ground, 106, Fuller, 7 to 2 and 7 to 5, second; Col. Bill, 126, Gannon, 5 to 1 and 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:45 3-5.

Third race, selling, 1 1-16 miles—Stroller, 109, Connell, 5 to 1 and 2 to 1, won; Ernest Parham, 106, Fuller, 7 to 2 and 8 to 5, second; Nanator, 111, Bullman, 7 to 2 and 8 to 5, third. Time, 1:47 1-5.

DID THE BLUFFITES FOOL W. U. P. TEAM?

PLAYED AT THE COLOSSEUM

The Western University of Pennsylvania eleven was beaten by the Manchester Athletic club at the Colosseum yesterday afternoon, 11 to 6. The Athletic club's line-up showed Pittsburgh College players and one from the Primrose Athletic club, and it was said by one of the players from the Bluff institution that it was the Pittsburgh college team that achieved the victory. According to the players W. U. P. refused to entertain the idea of playing Pittsburgh college, and when it was learned that W. U. P. desired practice games, one was arranged for yesterday, the name of the Manchester Athletics being taken by the Bluffites. The game, nevertheless, was well played, and was a hard one for W. U. P. to lose. The Manchesters, or Pittsburgh College, as the right name may be, were slightly the heavier in weight and scored two touchdowns in the first half, both resulting from fumbles by Pittsburgh. Fullback Elson secured the ball on a fumble and then bucked the line for a short distance, going over for the first touchdown. He missed goal. In Broderick got in a 40-yard run, getting the ball on a fumble, and crossed the line for the second touchdown. Elson kicked goal.

Aside from these fumbles, W. U. P. played good football. In the second half Edwards for W. U. P. broke through the line from the 15-yard line for a touchdown and then kicked goal. The lineup:

| Manchester—10. | | W. U. P.—6. |
| L. Broderick | L. E. | Sproul |
| Flanagan | L. T. | Starnsteil |
| Caskold | L. G. | Ord |
| Boyle | C. | Rose |
| Fox, Clarke | R. G. | Hindeman |
| Rittenhouse | R. T. | Reed |
| Dillard | R. E. | Edwards, Glass, Hilgeford |
| Huckenstein | Q. B. | Carpenter |
| Scanlon, Bittner | L. H. | Page |
| L. Broderick | R. H. | Wall, Edwards |

MOYER ENTERS E. L. A.

Jack Moyer, who two years ago was one of the best athletes at Washington and Jefferson academy, has entered East Liberty academy, and will play on the football team at that place. He will probably play one of the halves against Kiski Saturday. Moyer besides being a crack halfback, is a good performer on the track, and when at W. & J. academy took some prizes in the interscholastic games.

The Western University freshman team, which was scheduled to play the Pittsburgh High school yesterday afternoon at Friendship park, did not put in an appearance at the park. The High school players, as well as a fair-sized crowd, were disappointed by the Freshmen's failure to show up. High school has played with two prep school teams from W. U. P. The High school team practiced for some time. Coach James sent the team through signals and later against the scrubs.

The Kiski team yesterday at Saltsburg had its first lineup since the university game of Saturday at Cleveland. A special to The Gazette last night from Saltsburg said that Capt. Caughey had put his team through hard drilling in the afternoon, and all showed up well. Considerable time was spent in running plays, and the team lined up on one side of the scrubs' line. Kiski is determined to make a good showing in its first game in Pittsburgh this season, when it plays East Liberty Saturday. East Liberty will resume practice work today.

The Shadyside Academy players, who have been enjoying a much needed rest since their hard game with Allegheny high school Saturday, will start field work again today. The coaches will have all the men in the squad out. The New Castle High school plays Shadyside Saturday.

POPE DESIRES PEACE.

Reported That He Will Negotiate With Italy to Obtain Concession.

PARIS, Oct. 20.—(Special Cable.)—A Rome correspondent learns from a trustworthy source that the pope has expressed his intention to open negotiations unofficially with the Italian government relative to the basis of a possible modus vivendi between the church and the state with a view of putting an end to the fruitless conflict which has existed between them for over 30 years.

"His holiness," the correspondent says, "has been induced to take this course, partly by his personal convictions, but to some extent also by reasons connected with his health. He is anxious to be in a position enabling him to leave the vatican, as he has always been accustomed to an open-air life."

Before taking this step, which would appear to all the Roman Catholic world as a concession to the kingdom of Italy, the pope desires to ascertain the possibility of obtaining some concession of benefit to the papacy which would render his action justifiable."

Woman Buncoes Merchants.

Homestead merchants yesterday awoke to the fact that during the past week a woman had been working an old swindling game on them, and yesterday a number of the merchants had a warrant sworn out for the arrest of Mrs. Bridget O'Hare, who is said to be a resident of Braddock. It is alleged by the merchants that Mrs. O'Hare would make small purchases at the stores, a few days later open an account and then order large orders for goods to be delivered at fictitious addresses. It is alleged Mrs. O'Hare secured nearly $800 worth of goods in this manner.

HOME FOR PYTHIANS.

Plans are under way for the establishment of a home for aged and infirm members and the wives and widows of the Knights of Pythias of this state. Application will be made to the court of common pleas No. 2 on November 14, for a charter for the Pythian Home Association of Pennsylvania. The names in the application are J. A. Jacob Haupt, George L. McCleary, Benjamin Moore, C. A. Boory and Jacob Pierken.

Attorney George L. McCleary represents the incorporators, and yesterday he said that the locality in Western Pennsylvania will probably be more largely represented in the matter than any others in the state. For this reason it is probable, he said, that the home will be established in this section. There are about 48,000 members of the order in Pennsylvania and it is the plan of the promoters to have each member donate $1 for the purpose.

MANY COMPELLED TO STAND

The second of a series of debates between the Rev. E. L. Eaton and Pastor C. T. Russell was held last night in Carnegie music hall, Allegheny. The big hall was crowded. The gallery was full, all the seats in the body of the auditorium were occupied, and in the rear aisle more than 100 persons were standing. The big audience remained until the last. The Rev. Dr. Henry D. Lindsay, pastor of the North Presbyterian church, presided over the meeting.

The topic debated was the proposition: "The scriptures clearly teach that the soul of the dead are unconscious while their bodies are in the grave." Mr. Russell took the affirmative side, Dr. Eaton denied the proposition. Each speaker spoke 50 minutes in turn and then each had 10 minutes for reply to the other.

The third of the debates will be held tomorrow evening, when this proposition will be debated: "The scriptures teach that all of the saved will become spirit beings and after the general judgment will enter heaven." Dr. Eaton will take the affirmative side and Mr. Russell the negative.

Last night's debate opened at 8 o'clock, Dr. Lindsay calling the meeting to order and saying a few words in explanation. Having the affirmative Mr. Russell led off as follows:

Forming Character After Death.

Truth is stranger than fiction, is an old adage, but, nevertheless, a true one. We expect to show you this evening that the truth on the subject under discussion was lost sight of during the "Dark Ages," and that fiction has taken the place of truth in the minds of people. We ask you, therefore, to have patience while you hear the testimony of the Scriptures, and that we remember that there is no one in this world competent to give a decision on this subject unless our heavenly Father has given the decision in the Scriptures.

The fiction is that which is entirely unsupported by the word of God, but which is generally recognized amongst Christian people in respect to the condition of mankind in death. They suppose that the moment of death is the turning point, and that all mankind at death either pass into a kind of awful misery, such as our brother described, or into bliss and rejoicings; that would be a tremendous blessing, and that a comparatively small number are fit, have characters formed, and are fit to be in the presence of God and the holy angels. That they are a little flock, and that the great mass of mankind, not having formed a character which God could approve, are unholy, unfit and unprepared for the glorious things of God, is, I think, an almost indisputable proposition. We are not to suppose for a moment that heaven is a great school in which the Lord is teaching us information and experiences of this present life, and there form character; but, on the contrary, there shall "enter into it nothing that defileth," or that would be interfered in any sense, and, hence, according to our friend's consideration, only a little flock shall get to glory and all the remainder of mankind, hundreds of millions and billions, are surely on the way to an eternity of trouble. Our Catholic friends help out the matter a little by saying there is now a purgatory condition, and that after spending thousands of years there, they will be something better, as they make character.

Bad Outlook for a Majority.

Dr. Eaton suggested to us Sunday afternoon that those going to their future condition at death shall have no chance of change after they get there. The whole matter is settled: whoever is fit to go to the right side of the gulf stays there, and whoever goes to the wrong side never gets farther. According to the great majority of Christians the most of mankind are pretty sure to go to the bad place. The most of them have never even heard the only name given amongst men whereby they must be saved. Brother Eaton tells us they are prepared to go there, even if they have never heard the name of Jesus. That is a very different gospel than I ever heard, but I think it is to be credited to the brother's love of mankind that he was unwilling to think of the majority of the world suffering torture, even though they didn't know Christ, and he must get them into a good place without the help of the Redeemer. I cannot agree with his head, but I believe he has a good heart. (Applause).

On the side of the truth, the Scriptures teach that those who die mankind when they die, are dead. It seems a strange proposition to have to make to an intelligent audience, that when a man dies he is dead, but nevertheless, it is necessary to show this, because the conception of people under the dominion of tradition from the dark ages, have come to the conclusion that when a man dies he is more alive than he ever was. (Laughter). The Scriptures teach that he is dead, and only when he gets a resurrection will he have reached a life condition. The resurrection and the atonement for sin go hand in hand in the Scriptures—they are the two most important themes of the Bible. The atonement, as the means of release from sin by the death of Christ, and the resurrection as the time when the release shall be accomplished by the power of the Redeemer.

No Wisdom in the Grave.

We wish to show that it is the divine plan and teaching of the Lord's word, that all go to sheol; the good and the bad; all have been redeemed from sheol, and all shall return from it. "As by one man's disobedience sin entered into the world," so through the death of Jesus Christ life and prospects have been found. As all go into sheol, and as all have been redeemed by the sacrifice of Christ from sheol, so all are in due time to be called forth from sheol. Sheol is not a place of life and activity. Our dear brother quoted a text on Sunday from Ecclesiastes in which it is distinctly declared that there is neither wisdom, device nor knowledge in the grave, whither thou goest. The word "grave" is "sheol," as our brother then declared. If there is no wisdom in the grave, the good cannot know anything there, likewise the wicked cannot know anything; if no knowledge is there, they cannot enjoy it, and if there is no device there, they cannot do anything. There is no pain nor trouble in the condition of sheol.

Our proposition that death is death, and that our dear ones, when they pass from us, are really dead, that they are neither alive with the angels, nor in a condition or place of despair, is the teaching of the Scriptures. It will not do for us to say that we prefer this or that arrangement of this matter; we must accept the Scriptural teaching as God's plan, and whether it is agreeable to our minds or not, it is our duty to realize that God will not alter his plan one iota for our preference.

Reason for Being Glad.

If we might feel a preference that our friends were in glory immediately at death, think, on the other hand, that there is good reason for being glad that those who we know are wicked and not fit for blissful conditions are not suffering the pains of everlasting torture as soon as they go out from this life, and we admit that most of our friends and relatives have died out of Christ, have not lived up to that only standard of Scriptures which could gain for them an entrance into heavenly conditions—"sanctified, and meet for the Master's use."

Since the Master exhorted that his disciples should be "sanctified through thy truth, thy word is truth," all of us should be studious to obey the truth, remembering the other statement of the Scriptures, "He that loveth or maketh a lie is not of the Lord."

I call your attention to the fact that all Christian people are practically agreed respecting original sin, that it is taught in the Scriptures that "sin is taught by the Apostle Paul, in Romans v:12, saying, "By one man's disobedience sin entered into the world, and death by sin." He does not say by one man's disobedience sin entered into the world, and eternal torment as the result of sin; but he does say death is the result of sin. The great error was made in the dark ages, when they burned, tortured each other, and gouged out each other's eyes, saying, "It is better to give them a little torment now, to save them from falling into God's hands after a while, and having them endure an endless torture of a far worse kind.

The record in Genesis is that God created our first parents in his own image and likeness, and placed them upon trial for life. His gave them a command, and made a test of them of obedience, not whether they would commit murder or chivalry, but whether they would be obedient to him, that they might live. If they would disobey him they should die!

Our First Parents Disobeyed.

They disobeyed—we are not excusing them; God justly put upon them the penalty of their sin. But the question is, what was the penalty for sin? Was it any kind of torment? No, the Scriptures declare most explicitly, "The wages of sin is death," not torment at all. We read the account in Genesis 2, concerning the command given to Adam. If God intended that the penalty should go to eternal torment on account of that act of disobedience, why did he not say so? Could a sane man give an excuse for an Almighty, heavenly, Father dealing with his child in such a manner and deceiving him into thinking that the penalty was something else than what he really intended, if he intended to torment him to all eternity? Is there anything of that kind in the record? I have not seen it.

Theologians have taken this wrong view of the matter from the expression "in the day," as it occurs here, and they weave various kinds of theories about the one day mentioned; but we find it very plain when we read Peter's explanation, "A day with the Lord is as a thousand years." Here is the statement of the Lord in Genesis to Adam that he should die within a day, and he did die within the thousand-year day of the Lord's reckoning.

After this the Lord pronounced the sentence upon the guilty pair, a sentence which extended to every member of their race: "Dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." But does it not say something else about that in the Scriptures? Does it not say that they would not die? Yes, Satan appeared to Eve, and guaranteed, "Ye shall not surely die," and as a matter of fact do we not see that the whole world is believing Satan, that when a man dies he will be more alive than ever, and disbelieving God's statement, that when a man dies he is truly dead.

The Sentence of Death.

We read of the curse all through the Scriptures. What does it mean? it means this sentence of death which came by disobedience, on account of which the whole human family is groaning and travailing in pain together, as declared by the apostle in Rom. 8:21-23—they are suffering the effects of the curse, mentally, morally and physically, all leading to the ultimate end, death itself. "The soul that sinneth it shall die," and "the wages of sin is death," are the emphatic scriptural declarations.

Where is the hope? In the statement, "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish"—here verbatim Satan's interms of the sentence—not eternal torment, but perishing, death—"that have everlasting life." The sentence of perishing was eternal, were it not for the fact that God provided a redemption through Jesus Christ, who represented in the Scriptures as "the Lamb slain" (taking the place in death of the condemned race) "from the foundation of the world."

The release from this death condition is to come through a resurrection of the dead. There could not be a resurrection of the dead if there is nobody dead. It is only those who are dead who have part in the resurrection of the dead. This is what the Scriptures call to our attention as the good tidings or salvation, deliverance from the penalty upon us of eternal death. The whole stress lies upon the work of Jesus Christ: if there had been no sacrifice for sins then the sentence would have remained, the penalty or curse would have continued, and continued. So the apostle suggests that "He is the propitiation for our (the church's) sins, and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world." How much does that have out in this great salvation, which began to be spoken by our Lord? (Applause.) It was never spoken before; there never was a hope in the resurrection although it was implied that because the ransom price had not been paid previously. The most that could be done was to give a suggestive hope, as the Lord did to Abraham, "In thy seed (when your seed shall come) all the families of the earth shall be blessed."

Though Living, We Are Dying.

We speak of "being saved," but only in the reckoned sense. Actually we are still subject to the pains, distresses and difficulties incident to the penalty of death; but those who are trusting in the Lord are accounted as saved from the death penalty, and are looking for the blessing of the salvation which shall be revealed in us "in due time—in the resurrection. We have death working in us actually, but the life through Christ, by faith, by trust in the Redeemer.

If the penalty of sin had been eternal torment, then would our dear Redeemer have gone to that condition in order to be our ransom price. If He would suffer in our stead. But the Scriptures declare, "Christ died for our sins, and rose again for our justification." In the present time only a small class have ever come to an opportunity to know of the life-giver; very few, and those since the time the Lord Jesus. God's purpose is that in due time these may come forth, for God's will is that all may be saved and come to a knowledge of the truth." Not saved with eternal salvation, but saved from this destruction in death, which Christ redeemed them from with His own death. They are to come forth from the tomb and have the opportunity of accepting the only name whereby we must be saved.

I agree with my brother Eaton entirely that all the dead go to sheol, but this is a word very little understood amongst people except Hebrew scholars. The Hebrew word stands for "the hidden state." In the Old Testament Scriptures, the authorized version, sheol is 31 times rendered hell; the same word sheol is 31 times rendered grave, in other words, the grave is hell, and hell is the grave. It is a pretty strong statement to make positively, which is sometimes pictured to us as so hot! Jacob, speaking about his son, Gen. 37:35, says, "I will go down into the grave to my son mourning." Translated, "I will go down into hell to my son mourning."

The Appeal of Job.

And again, "O, that thou wouldst hide me in the grave"—the translators might just as well have translated it hell; but it didn't have all the theological hell; Job was suffering with his boils and disasters, and was longing for release; then he called to God to hide him in the grave; "that thou shalt cell and I will answer thee, for thou hast a desire unto the works of thy hands." He was going down to hell, and yet he knew that in due time God would answer him and bring him forth—when? In the resurrection.

"In the grave (sheol) who shall give thee thanks?" David evidently didn't know anything about a compartment in hell where he would praise God. Psalm, xvi:10, "Thou will not leave my soul in hell (sheol)"—Christ's soul was not left in the grave, and so Peter applies it in the Book of Acts, adding that it was not David speaking of himself, but, being a prophet, he spoke of Christ. God raised him from the dead after it was three days in the grave. Psalm xvii:5, "Let the wicked be silent in the grave"—in sheol. There will be no cursing of God and blaspheming and shouting at all. Psalm, xxxxix:15, "Like sheep they are laid in the grave"—in sheol—"their beauty shall consume in the grave"—in sheol—"death shall feed upon them." Psalm xxxxix:15, "Thou shalt redeem my soul from the power of the grave." When we understand that sheol is a part of the same sentence of death that came upon us, and that David here desired that God would not allow him to remain in the power of it, by a resurrection from sheol, we get the scriptural thought in harmony with the entire word of God. Again, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might, for there is neither wisdom, device nor knowledge in the grave whither thou goest." Isaiah, xxxvii:10, "I shall go to the gates of the grave. The grave cannot praise thee as I do this day."

The Prayer of Hezekiah.

This occurs in Hezekiah's prayer, when the prophet told him he was to die. He did not think it was a good place for him to, and God did not inform him of a misconception regarding sheol, by assuring him that sheol was a desirable fit and propitious condition, a place of joy and happiness; but God answered Hezekiah's prayer and gave him 15 more years of life in which to praise God, knowing that that could not be done in sheol. Psalm cxv:17, "In death there is no remembrance of thee; in the grave who shall give thee thinks?" Nobody. Then we must be a resurrection before they can give God thanks. "Will thou show wonders to the dead? Shall the dead praise thee? Shall they loving kindness be declared in the grave? Thy faithfulness in destruction? Shall wonders be known in the dark and thy righteousness in the land of forgetfulness?" The grave is the land of forgetfulness. Psalm cxvvi:4, "His breath goeth forth; he returneth to his earth; in that very day his thoughts perish." How much can we think about then? Eccl. ix:5, "The living know that they shall die, but the dead know not anything." Eccl. ix:10, xii.vii; Isaiah, xxxviii:18; Deut., xxxi:16.

Then a few texts in which this matter is spoken of as a sleep. Job xiv:12, 13; I Kings, ii:10, xi:43; II Chron., xii:16; II. Chron. xxi:1. Some of these men were good, and some bad, but they all went to sleep when they died. Matt. xxvi:9, "The maid is not dead but sleepeth." John xi:11, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth, but I go that I may awake him out of sleep." I Thess. iv:13, "I would not have you ignorant concerning them which are asleep." Them which sleep also in Jesus will God bring from the dead by Him." Psalm, xvii:15, "I am, will 2. Of David it is declared, "He not ascended into heaven, but his sepulchre is with us unto this day." He is still asleep; he will be satisfied when He awakes in the morning, Jer. xiv:14. All the days of my appointed time shall I wait until my change come; thou will call and I will answer, and thou shalt have respect unto the works of thine hands." In the resurrection morning the Lord will call Job and all others from their sleeping condition, in sheol, in the tomb, in their present dying condition.

Dr. Eaton's Reply.

Our friend Russell has made an excellent speech, and he has done exceedingly well. It is surprising how much there is on both sides of this proposition, and you have to decide it according to the best evidence we have. This subject is the most important that God ever created, and I have been impressed with the case as he has stated it. I will point out a few errors, however, as we proceed.

In the first place, the Old Testament Scriptures are somewhat obscure. The men themselves did not have a very clear understanding concerning the matter. We have had very fully in the New Testament texts, but we want not rest the case entirely on any class of statements, for we shall find texts on both sides. We must realize that revelation is progressive and is growing and evolving, and the new Testament, the last word that God has had to say to men, is very much more distinct than the first. There is a good deal of indistinctness in the early addresses, but they grow clearer as time advances. So we have to interpret the old by the new. The matter of sleep: I grant that death is often spoken of in that connection, and that David here desired that God would not allow him to remain in the power of it, by a resurrection from sheol, we get the scriptural thought in harmony with the entire word of God. Again, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might, for there is neither wisdom, device nor knowledge in the grave whither thou goest." #### The Theory of Purgatory.

Now we will talk a little about the intermediate state. That is the state of conscious existence between death and the resurrection for the entire human race, in sheol, in the Old Testament, and hades in the New Testament. The reformers rejected the doctrine of the intermediate state, because they feared it would bring in the doctrine of purgatory and return probation. I do not teach that it is a state of probation at all, or of purgatory. The Catholic doctrine of purgatory is based upon this, that Christ died for all sins, and that all must suffer the penalty for the great sins, the mortal sins, and that to the church is left the work of providing satisfaction for the venial small sins. But the Scriptures are all to the effect that we are saved through Jesus Christ from all things from which we could not be justified by the law of Moses.

Our diagram shows the features illustrating the intermediate state; these diagrams are a good thing to help the eye. Here a dark wedge begins immediately after infancy and increasingly separates the individual from God, righteousness and those inclined toward evil, the saints from sinners. It is only a speck at the beginning, but wide indeed at the end of life, and life ends every individual out of the situation. There is a good deal of inspiration in this man—Edison said inspiration consisted of 2 per cent inspiration and 98 per cent perspiration.

The old King James version of the Bible, which translates sheol 65 times and translates it grave 31 times, hades 10 times it, 31 times hell, 31 times grave and three times it, every time wrongly. The revised version does a little better; but the American revision never translates sheol or hades once, but uses common sense and transliterates. Sheol is an English word, just as Jehovah, or Hallelujah, and hades is an English word similarly. Everybody knows what the grave is, and means. They do not mean heaven, because the Greek word for heaven, chayin, is used 720 times in the Old Testament quite independently. It never means grave, and has no physical idea attached to it. Qeber is the Old Testament grave. It means just what it says, the place and state into which the entire human race go when they die; not heaven, not hell, but Sheol. The Hebrews did not know what that state was.

Another Translation of Sheol.

Our brother gives a good many texts which give an obscure idea of their meaning, but there are a few texts which show what it does mean clearly. The Greek version of the Old Testament, the Septuagint, prepared for the Jews by learned Hebrew Greek scholars three centuries before Christ, almost always used the word hades in translating sheol in the Greek, and hades means the place where people go when they die. You cannot get away from that. (Loud applause.) We might quote a lot of texts which make that very clear. If it was the grave, why didn't the Hebrews translate it with that word when making their Greek translation?

"I will go down to sheol to my son mourning." Old Jacob had just been told his son had been eaten by wild beasts, and he believed it. In other words, this was a grief which he said would kill him, and he would go down to his son; he would die of grief and be with him in sheol. Well, the lion was in the stomach of a lion. (Laughter.) Did he expect to crawl into the stomach of a lion to meet his son? He thought there was some conscious state of existence where he would go to meet his son.

"Like a flock they are laid in the grave." That translation is simply awful: A flock of sheep like it will be devoured. The revised New writing such a thing as that. (Laughter.) Read the revised version: "Like a flock of sheep they are appointed to sheol." Everybody, like a flock of sheep, has gone, and following their leader over the highest corner of the fence, they are rushing to sheol.

Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do with thy might, do it, for there is neither wisdom, knowledge in the grave." Does that mean you will go to sleep? Well, what motive have you to do with your might if that is true? The idea is that whatsoever you find to do in order to win the favor of God do it with your might, for you cannot do it in sheol. To read it as in the authorized version is simply a deception. I have a right to manufacture this in this sense, upon the authority of the Apostles Peter and Paul. Peter said: "He that prophesieth must prophesy according to the analogy of faith." You compare the Scriptures and read them against the whole word of God. Peter says: "No prophecy is of any private interpretation." Any word of God teaches that there is no chance to be saved in sheol, therefore do the best you can in this life, and do it at once.

Scriptural References to Hell.

Psalm 55:15: "Let them go down alive into sheol." Our brother says they always died. "The wicked shall be turned into sheol, and all the nations that forget God." That is not a very discriminative text, however. It might do on either side. "If I make my bed in hell, lo, thou art there; there shall thy hand lead me." God is everywhere, and all conscious beings could go to Him." Jonah's prayer was in harmony with everything. He found God in the uttermost part of the sea. "Hell from beneath is moved for thee, to meet thee at thy coming." This is the picture of the great Sambourere in hell, the standing, laughing devils invited to meet Saul their derisions. A scene like that in the grave? That is a great place to look for it. O, my brother, you must give it up.

"The dark side of sheol." Tartarus, the lower hell. "Out of the belly of hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice." I maintain that Jonah was in the fish, although I could not prove it, unless this Scripture helps to think so. He went into the sea and sank there, died and went to sheol, and after an interview with Jehovah received inspiration to go to Nineveh. He was not unconscious. He was more conscious than he ever was. "The waters compassed me about. Weeds were wrapped about my head." This is a reference to his lying at the bottom of the sea. The Hebrew held the idea of sheol vaguely, indistinctly, so that we cannot get it clearly from the old Testament. It is very doubtful if you could find immortality in the old Testament. But we have no difficulty when we get to the new.

When sheol means hell it is always accompanied by a modifying word. "Hell from beneath." "Thou hast delivered my soul from the lowest hell." "Her guests are in the depths of hell."

Not an Eternal State.

Sheol is not an eternal state, just as the diagram indicates. "Thou wilt not leave my soul there. God's power goes down and brings him up. Our brother thinks there is a long sleep before that time, but my idea is that the conscious state of existence continues until the resurrection.

We come now to the most complete and perfect representation in the world in the sixteenth chapter of Luke, the rich man and Lazarus. "In hades he lifted up his eyes." He was on the lower side. A great gulf was fixed, so that he could not pass over, nor Lazarus pass to him. Every element of hades and sheol is in that parable, and when our brother strives tooth and nail to get some other mystical meaning out of it, it is a clear study of character. The gulf of character is there, the separation of the human race into saints and sinners in this life.

My answer to soul-sleeping is the intermediate state. If anybody can understandingly study the intermediate state and fairly grasp it and stick to soul-sleeping he can do more than I. There is a conscious state for all mankind. He goes on living; he will continue to live until the judgment day, for the resurrection, and there is nothing in the soul itself that can bring about that.

"I saw a pale horse, whose name was death, and hades followed with him." Death and hades take the bodies and hades to take the souls. "Death and hades gave up the dead that were in them." Death gives up the bodies and hades the souls. "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." "Death and hades were cast into the lake of fire;" that is the end of the intermediate state. I agree with our brother that the opinion that everybody has gone to heaven. The theologians are foolishly giving us a lot of rot in preaching folks to heaven. Every funeral you go to the minister declares that they are in heaven. John Wesley said no human being has gone to heaven. He said they went to hades. No man hath ascended into heaven."—John iii:13. No apostle will go to heaven until after the resurrection and judgment. Then comes the eternal state of heaven and gehenna. But we are not going into that now; that will come later.

Agree Upon Some Points.

Pastor Russell, in reply to Dr. Eaton's contention, said:

I am very glad there are some points of agreement. If that is the case, and that the scriptures are true, that all go into sheol, and that the word hades of the New Testament is the exact equivalent of the word sheol in the Old. The two words are identical in their meaning, the one from the Greek and the other from the Hebrew. Whatever is true in respect to the use of the Hebrew word is true also in respect to the Greek word. Therefore if there is neither wisdom nor knowledge nor device in sheol, neither is their wisdom, knowledge or device in hades, whither thou goest.

This is a very interesting topic, but one of the most interesting features is that there is very little Scripture about it. You notice that our brother threw us all about the matter—I do not know how. (Laughter and applause.) He has pointed out that here is Tartarus, and there is something else, but how does he know? What do the Scriptures say? The word Tartarus occurs only once in the New Testament, and it is never associated with hades at all. It refers to the condition in which the angels were cast down at first, which our dear brother has chosen for his whole theory. If that parable were not there, I am wondering what our dear brother would have done? (Laughter and applause.) We are going to hold that parable; it is too good to give right away. But we want you to think of this. That poor rich man in the parable has a few more brothers living yet. I don't see some here with white flags; I see by your faces that you have fared sumptuously today. Those were two of the items which were recorded against the rich man. You have no servant, nor are you reclining at the rich man's gate.

Application of a Parable.

Now watch out! If you are going to apply the parable as our brother has you will have to apply to yourselves the fate you give the rich man! Our brother thought I was fishing north and mid about that parable, but this is the first time I have mentioned it. He has been the one who has been worrying about it. Wait awhile, dear friends, and meantime think that first time you get a drop of water across the gulf, when a whole bucketful would evaporate before it got to hades, would be a most extraordinary procedure.

Our brother wants to know whether Jacob looked to go to his son Joseph in the belly of the lion. By no means. We did not claim that the word grave is the full translation of sheol, but we claim that grave is a better translation of it than hell. The nearest English thought it "the hidden state." Jacob did expect to go into the death state to his dear brother, and he considered that that was where his son had gone. If you will take an unabridged dictionary you will find that at the time of the translating of our Bible in the 16th century the word "hell" in a very general way. A man would speak of "helling" his house—he meant that he was going to thatch it. Or he would speak of "helling" his cellar—he intended to put things in a pit, in a dark, damp condition, without any suggestion of heat or light or intelligence. We shall have something to say about this entire matter, and a satisfactory explanation of the rich man and Lazarus in due time.

I agree very well with our brother regarding the "flock of sheep." They do rush to sheol. The people are—in rushing to the tomb, the place into which they have been consigned until the time for the awakening of them all, the dismal, dark face, where "the dead cannot praise thee; in sheol who shall give thee thanks?"

The Lowest Hell.

The "lowest hell" signifies the most complete destruction. "Hell from beneath is moved to meet thee at thy coming." You will see, if you will take your Bibles, and read carefully this statement in Ezekiel xiv., that the whole of Egypt, which is there damned, represents the fall of a great dynasty, a great government, just the same exactly as the Lord spoke of coming upon Capernaum, "exalted to heaven—cast down to hell." Egypt went down to death condition, to utter overthrow. Just so with Babylon, which is now completely desolated without inhabitant.

"Then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, O death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory?" The prophet points out that the time is coming when hades is to be destroyed. How will he destroy it? Is it by making the people out to "All that are in their graves" shall be awakened, and there won't be hades any longer. God pointed out in advance how the great work of Christ should be accomplished in the sacrifice of Himself, and that having given the sacrifice on behalf of the whole world He should release the world from hades, and grant to mankind the opportunity of life. To some special ones, who are specially favored, there will be particular privileges—the Lord is blessing you and me with the knowledge of His plan, that we may be counted as His Elect, escaping from death unto life, but the time for the world to have the opportunity of coming out will be future, when their time of resurrection shall come. As general resurrection. Then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, "O death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory?" This sting has been on the race all the time since the fall, it is stinging the whole world, but in God's due time it shall be removed.

It is very interesting to see how very much in common we hold in this matter, and I suppose it will be out of breath by that time. If he could only make a figure out of it he would be all right. He says we don't know anything about Tartarus? The word is used as to put in 1 Peter ii:4, and means that God tartarused them to hades. Tartarus is the hell of hades. All Greek scholars knew of Tartarus, but they thought of it as eternal, while we see that it is only until the resurrection.

The Lord's words to the thief, "Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise." That was a conscious state of existence, not the grave. Paul says, "I knew a man in Christ caught up to the third heaven"—the throne of God. And then he goes on, "I knew a man who was caught up to Paradise, and heard unspeakable words." Paul speaks of two kinds of scriptures two experiences, two visions, one in heaven, the other in the Paradise of hades.

"To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life which is in the midst of Paradise of God." Peter says the soul of Jesus went to hades, in quoting the 16th Psalm, while His body went to the tomb. Jesus Himself said He would be in the heart of the earth three days. And Jesus said immediately upon His resurrection to one of the disciples, "Touch Me not, for I am not yet ascended to My Father." He ascended to the Father, and then did not go to the Father. Is not that right? Paradise is the intermediate state, where all the good go at death. Tartarus is the intermediate state where all the evil go at the same time.

Cash Prizes for the Best System of Household Management

The Pittsburgh Gazette invites the contribution of articles not to exceed 200 words, describing with as much detail as possible the best system of household management, including the division of work, the schedule for the various days of the week, privileges accorded to help, etc.

Mistress and Maid

The Gazette believes that the secret of a smoot-running household lies not so much in any special good fortune in securing unusually competent help, as in the capable direction of affairs by the mistress, a proper division and schedule of work for each day in the week, and in treating the help with at least as much consideration as a business manager accords to the people he employs to assist him in his business, and in order to promote practical and thorough discussion, not of the "Servant Problem," but of the systematizing of housework and the administration of the "business" of keeping house,

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE WILL GIVE CASH PRIZES, AS FOLLOWS:

For the best article on the Management of a House in which one maid is employed..... $25

For the best article on the Management of a House in which two or more maids are employed..... $25

DANGER LURKS IN JOHNSONISM

ENEMY SEVERELY ARRAIGNED

Republican Campaigners Address Two Mammoth Meetings in Tuscarawas County—Senator Puts a Hot Brand on Socialism of the Opposition Party.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 20.—Senator Hanna and Myron T. Herrick began the fourth week of their campaigning tour by addressing two mammoth meetings today, in the afternoon at Canal Dover, and at night at New Philadelphia. Both are in Tuscarawas county, a Democratic stronghold, and as a result, it is expected to this year place it in the Republican column.

The senator was especially severe in his arraignment of the Democratic platform and policy. "All we need offer is to point to the teaching of the Democratic party this year, teaching as false, as poisonous as a snake bite. It does not belong to America in any sense nor can it be fitted to our doctrines. An ill-fated party that would make such an issue must be regarded as an enemy. It pays fealty to the insidious policy of Henry George. It is an insult to the intelligence of the voters of Ohio for a speaker to stand and argue such a proposition.

"Free silver, as advocated in 1896 by Bryan was bad enough, but when you add to it, socialism, communism and Johnsonism, it is too much to swallow. Johnson would do away with the custom houses and forfeit $75,000,000 annually, which is a large part of the revenues of the country, and to make this up he would force single tax upon the people and make heavier upon the farmer and landowner.

"I believe when, from the standpoint of a business man, it is for you to say whether the present conditions shall be changed in the slightest degree. We are partners, capital and labor, and must rise or fall together. The time is near when under the influences which are creating the great evolution in our country, capital and labor, are drawing closer together upon a platform of mutual confidence and respect. It is the act of an unprincipled demagogue to seek to sow seeds of discord between employes and employers in order to advance his own aggrandizement. It is shame to ask for your suffrages upon a platform that would seek to destroy present conditions."

For the first time the list of questions prepared by the Democratic committee to be hurled at Senator Hanna were distributed broadcast. The result was a failure. Not one was put at him and he gave them no attention beyond saying:

"I see scattered about like autumn leaves a libellous document attacking my record and asking some one to ask me questions. I am ready, in it I am attacked for the heinous crime of defending the ship subsidy bill. If my judgment was wrong in that, or if I erred, you can correct me, but until the people of Ohio say so, I shall feel no alarm."

Mr. Herrick continued his discussion of state affairs. Tomorrow will be a busy day ending with a meeting in the evening at Coshocton.

SENATOR FORAKER OPENS CAMPAIGN AT CANTON

CANTON, O., Oct. 20.—Senator Foraker opened the Republican campaign in Canton tonight before an audience that taxed the seating capacity of the grand opera house to its fullest extent. He made a forceful argument in behalf of the re-election of Senator Hanna.

He spoke of the work of the junior senator in connection with the ship subsidy bill, emphasizing the effect of such a measure on the wage earners of the United States through the increased employment it would provide, and for the Isthmian canal, which was referred to as a work not contemplated, in which Senator Hanna's services are still needed.

Following a defense of the Republican Philippine policy, Senator Foraker referred to the importance of the Philippines in connection with the trade of the far east, the natural and most profitable market for the surplus of wage earners of the United States.

S COURT TO OUST DIRECTORS

CONTRACT DIVIDES BOARD

W. B. Collins on Trial Charged With Embezzlement by Western Union Telegraph Company—Court's Action Led to Plea of Guilty in Assault Case.

Attorney J. E. McKelvey, acting on instructions from the central board of education, yesterday went into quarter sessions court with a petition asking for a rule on the members of the Ralston sub-school district of the Ninth and Tenth wards to show cause why they should not be removed. The rule is returnable on October 24. The board is composed of Charles Schafer, John Windish, George Grehler, Jr., John Carr, John Regan and Charles Reilly.

The petition reviews the action of the board since August 18 last, when the members became deadlocked over awarding a contract for plumbing for sanitary purposes, and cites the subsequent efforts, all futile, on the part of the board to make arrangements for the completion of the plumbing that was necessary.

On the first advertisement for bids the district received one from Albert Henle for $850, and another from Bart Regan for $1,209. Regan is a son of School Director John Regan, and the latter, with Carr and Reilly, voted to award him the contract. The other three members were in favor of giving the contract to the lowest bidder. The deadlock was followed by further advertisement for bids, and when these were received the board deadlocked on them, which was the last action taken.

No contract was awarded and the petition states that when school opened the building was still in need of the desired sanitation, and as a result the sessions were seriously affected, those of the younger children being reduced to one hour. The bill avers that the directors have not made any provision for the remedying of the existing condition nor by their conduct given any indication that any relief could be expected from them. It further charges them with absolute disregard of the duties of school directors; of the comforts and necessities of the school children and the proper healthful and beneficial operation of the schools under their supervision.

Only a few cases were disposed of in criminal court yesterday before Judges John D. Shafer and Elliott Rodgers. When adjourned the case of embezzlement of Paul W. B. Collins, charged with the offense by the Western Union Telegraph Company, was not finished. It is alleged that Collins sent vouchers into the office of Joseph Krotzen of this city for larger amounts than had actually been paid out. When Collins went on the stand he admitted that the vouchers sent in were larger than the amounts paid out, but said it was the custom to do this to cover expenses that could not be put on the pay-roll. Mr. Krotzen practically admitted that he knew the vouchers were large and that it had been the custom to do as Collins stated.

Frank Sipe was acquitted of the larceny of tools and gas fixtures valued at $75 from the Young Men's Republican Tariff club.

Jesse Simpson, charged with felonious assault and battery, was found guilty of aggravated assault and battery. On September 6 he shot Arthur James in East McKeesport.

William Nice, Harry Thompson, David Muir and Charles Smith, charged with aggravated assault and battery on James McKain, pleaded guilty to assault and battery. Sentence was suspended on the payment of the costs by the defendants. This was the case growing out of some trouble the boys had with McKain, who is a Franklin township farmer. The bills were ignored by the grand jury once and were sent back again, the court hearing a report that the matter had been fixed up.

TESTS GRADE CROSSING.

Case Involving Railroad and Passenger Railway Argued in Supreme Court.

In the supreme court yesterday the trouble of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company and the Butler Passenger Railway Company over a grade crossing on Center avenue, Butler, was argued. The Baltimore & Ohio figures in the case by reason of operating the Pittsburgh & Western railroad. The latter company built the crossing Center avenue at grade in 1882. The railroad company in 1900 began to elevate the line along the street to the railroad crossing, where it was stopped by legal action. The railroad company claimed that the crossing would be dangerous and that an overhead crossing or another route was possible. The court below found that the crossing was not particularly dangerous and dismissed the bill of the railroad company, thus permitting the street railway to cross at grade. The railroad company appealed the case.

The case of the Guaranty Safe Deposit & Trust Company vs. Herman Liebold, appellant, from Butler county, which is an action to recover a piece of real estate, Liebold owned property in Butler. He gave a 10 days' option on a 24 feet of the property to the Guaranty Company. He claims that the company knew the Standard Car Company would locate in Butler, which would increase the value of the property and kept this knowledge from him. He also claims that an agreement not written in the option, called for the satisfaction of two leases held by tenants. The Guaranty Company brought suit and Liebold appealed.

The case of John Young vs. Robert W. Herron, appellant, was an action based on the validity of a title to land in Butler county. The case of Ellen McCafferty, administratrix et al. vs. Emma Duerr et al, appellant, concerns the settlement of the estate of Robert Ekas, deceased, of Butler county. The appellants are the sons of John Ekas, a brother of Robert Ekas, and claim that they inherit under the terms of the will of Jacob Ekas, their grandfather and the father of Robert Ekas.

The case of Robert Carr vs. the Rochester Tumbler Company, appellant, and the National Glass Company from Beaver county, was argued. Carr is a stockholder of the Tumbler Company, objected to the sale to the National Glass Company and brought suit for an accounting. A verdict of $10,038 with interest has been hire and the company appealed. Another case in which the Tumbler Company is interested is the appeal of H. J. Mosly, an action on a contract to drill for gas.

LEGAL BRIEFS.

In the suit of Nellie B. Hogan against John Alease and others, to recover damages for alleged false arrest and imprisonment, the jury returned a verdict for the defendants.

The following executions were issued yesterday: M. E. Collins vs. Minnie Miller et al, $5; same vs. Mrs. Jennie Wright et al, $37.50; same vs. Collie Houston et al, $85; T. Tully vs. Agnes N. Wolf, $75.80; Heller & Perkins vs. Samuel Seifert, $74.60; A. O. Derr, vs. John B. Patton, $361.49; same vs. Mary Patton, $307.95.

STOCK EXCHANGE SEATS ON THE BARGAIN COUNTER

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A Wall street authority has made an investigation of the changes in the price of seats on the various stock and produce exchanges, boards of trade and the like throughout the country and the figures throw an interesting sidelight on the shrinkage of speculation this year and the great increase in the value of these privileges in the past five years.

On the New York stock exchange the last sale of a seat was made on October 14, for $51,000, as compared with $82,000 in January, 1902, and $80,000 in October 1902. Seats on the New York stock exchange have nearly trebled in value the last five years, the low price in 1899 being $20,000, as compared with $82,000, the highest figure for 1903.

Seats on the Boston stock exchange have depreciated in value from the high figure of $22,000 last year to $20,000 for October, 1903. A seat on the Montreal stock exchange sold for $15,000 on October 19, 1903. This is a decline of $10,000 since the last sale four weeks ago. The price of seats on the Montreal stock exchange have been falling off gradually from the high record of $27,500 for 1902, up to the last sale of $15,000. The average price bid was $20,000.

Seats on the Baltimore stock exchange have steadily increased in value since 1895, the high figure for this year being $7,000. In 1902 they were sold for $10,500. Since then seats have steadily declined with sales at $7,000, $6,500, $5,000 and finally $4,500, the last recorded sale for 1903.

Chicago stock exchange seats sold for $600 during September, 1903. The record price during the last three years is said to have been $2,200. In January, 1903, they sold for $1,200. Seats on the Pittsburgh stock exchange sold at $18,-750 in January, 1903, but are now quoted at $10,000.

Seats on the Colorado Springs stock exchange sell at $800, the same as for 1902. The price of these seats has not fluctuated much in recent years. Seats on the Honolulu stock and bond exchange are the cheapest in existence. They sell at present for $50, compared with $100, the high record price for 1901. Seats on the New York cotton exchange sold in 1903 for $8,000, as compared with $500 in 1899 and $7,700 the last recorded sale for October, 1902.

STRIKE LOOKS PROBABLE ON NEW YORK L ROADS

Motormen Say That They Will Not Obey New Rules Requiring Frequent Examinations.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—With the declaration today of Grand Chief Jencks, of local lodge No. 135, of the International Brotherhood of Engineers and Firemen, that the long threatened strike on the elevated roads in Manhattan would be started in a few days, defiance was hurled at the men by General Superintendent Hedley of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

"The men may go out if they want," said Hedley. "We cannot prevent them from doing that. But we will make whatever rules we like and our employes must follow them. We always have done this and intend to continue to do it, no matter what anyone says."

Mr. Jencks was positive in his assertions. He declared that the proposed rule of the company to make the motormen stand an examination every 18 months was the cause and nothing else intended to force out the union men. The examinations, he declared, would be written and a large number of men would naturally fail each time they were taken. By throwing out a number of motormen every 18 months, he asserted, the company would soon be able to put in non-union workers or members of other unions.

The motormen on the elevated trains are now exceptionally well paid, and by replacing them Mr. Jencks declared, with surface car motormen, the company would save an enormous amount of money.

USED HIS SISTERS' NAMES TO FLOAT A NEW COMPANY

Testimony in Dresser Failure Brings Out Several Peculiar Proceedings.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Testimony to the effect that the names of Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt and Mrs. J. Nicholas Brown, sisters of D. LeRoy Dresser, were used for the purpose of influencing prospective promoters of the Richmond Real Estate Development Company, the company which was financed for the purpose of aiding Mr. Dresser to meet the obligations imposed by his creditors, was adduced at today's hearing of the creditors against the failed firm of Dresser & Co.

The object of this line of the testimony was to trace the origin and value of the securities which the firm of Dresser & Co. used in order to secure a loan of $50,-000. Miller C. Quimby, one of the promoters of the Real Estate Company, was questioned regarding the value of the securities upon which the loan was sought. He replied that he certified to their having been worth $850,000 "on information and belief."

The securities were then shown to include the Virginia Railway Company's $5 Pacific Beach Company, the East River & Atlantic Ocean Railways, the Colorado Gold Mining Company and the Mining Guarantee & Trust Company. These securities, the witness said, were offered to the Corporation Finance Company upon which to underwrite $1,700,-000 for the Richmond Real Estate Development Company.

Timothy Coallan testified he was asked to sign a note for $900,000 and that when he refused, stock was secured to take the place of the note and that he was induced to certify to its value as he believed as a matter of form. The hearing was adjourned until October 27, when Dresser will be examined.

CRUCIBLE EARNINGS OT BE ANNOUNCED TODAY

President Frank B. Smith and Secretary Alexander Thomas of the Crucible Steel Company of America left last night over the Pennsylvania to attend this morning the meeting of the directors of the company at Jersey City. They will be the only representatives from Pittsburgh. This meeting will be the one at which the report of the year's earnings will be made public.

A meeting of the board of the Crucible was held yesterday afternoon. The only action taken of importance was the election of W. G. Park to membership in the board, as was determined a few days ago. Mr. Park becomes chairman of the board.

President Smith said yesterday that the plans for obtaining the additional capital to take care of the Clairton plant had been consummated as was announced last week, so it would be done. The plan gives the Clairton needed working capital and sufficient funds to take care of its indebtedness.

The earnings of the company for the present month began to be the subject of much guessing. Nothing that looks like official stamp has been given out, but it was stated yesterday by one interested that the total will be about $3,260,000, net. The earnings in 1902 were about $3,-552,468. The meeting at which the matter of passing the dividend will be considered is that of the directors in December, the end of the dividend period.

Pastor's Resignation Accepted.

The resignation of the Rev. J. R. F. Milligan, pastor of the Ninth United Presbyterian church of Allegheny, was accepted Monday evening by the Allegheny presbytery at a special session. Mr. Milligan will preach his farewell sermon this coming Sunday, after which he will leave for Cleveland, O., to take charge of the First United Presbyterian church of that city.

A PLEASANT SURPRISE

In Store for Those Who Doubt.

When you read that a sufferer of many years' standing has been completely restored to health by using Smith's Cure-all, you are inclined to doubt the statement and, in fact, have no belief in it whatever. The reason for this is that so much is claimed for the Cure-all it is impossible for anyone to believe it; if the advertiser confined his claims to the curing of one disease, as do the proprietors of Pyramid Pile Cure, readers would have much more faith in published testimonials. Those familiar with this great remedy know that testimonials as to its merit may be relied upon implicitly, also that the cures brought about by its use are little short of marvelous. The genuineness of the testimonial here given is vouched for and is but one of thousands received:

"I wish to write you and tell you what your Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. I have been troubled with piles for the past five years and used every remedy that was recommended to me. While some would give me relief for a while they never have cured. I was so bad this summer I could not get up or down without pain; could not attend to my household duties. Finally I got a 50-cent box of your Pyramid Pile Cure at the druggist's and it is now two months since I used the last of the box, and have had no trouble since. I can say it is really and truly a good remedy.

"I am so thankful I tried it as I know it has cured me, and if at any time I should have any such trouble again I would use it at once. Since I am cured I have recommended it to my friends, whom I know to be afflicted as I was, and I know they will use it, too. I am so thankful I ever learned of your cure." Mrs. F. Hutt, 160 Second street, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for 50 cents a package, or will be mailed to any address upon receipt of price by Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich. Write this firm for their book describing the cause and cure of piles.

WHO IS THERE AMONG THE READERS OF THIS PAPER THAT WOULD NOT SPEND A 2 CENT STAMP TO KNOW OF A certain, speedy cure for catarrh and deafness? We take it that there are none—especially those who want to be cured. If you'll send a 2-cent stamp to Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, Ohio, they will forwagd you a free sample of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm. Experience demonstrates that this is the only remedy that positively cures every form of catarrh and catarrhal deafness. The first application gives relief. It is curing hundreds—Read what grateful people say about this remedy.

"The sample I received from you did me more good than all other medicines I used in twenty years. My hearing was affected and since using the balm my head feels better than it has for ten years." MARTIN HILE,

GOOD REACTION MARKED ALL SECURITIES MARKETS

Sugar Led the Advance in New York to Discomfort of Shorts—Crucible Preferred Made Gain. General List Went Higher.

Yesterday's markets showed the unreliability of ordinary human sentiment, for while the crowd was extremely pessimistic at the close Monday, yesterday's opening was higher and a material advance followed at once. No great amount of buying was required to advance quotations indicating that the stocks are largely in strong hands and not on the market. The selling of the day before on the discouraging reports from Baltimore and the magnifying of Pennsylvania railroad retrenchment appears to have been principally for short account. In pessimistic times there is apt to be a large short interest created, ready for squeezing at the first favorable turn and the market for the immediate future is likely to be one of bear attacks followed by severe covering. The existence of a considerable short interest is indicated by the readiness with which unfavorable rumors are accepted and the facility with which bad news is magnified to worse significance. It is human nature that human judgment is influenced by self-interest.

The upward movement began in London where the market was from ¼ to ⅜ above parity when the New York and Pittsburgh exchanges opened. The news from Baltimore was gratifying. The trouble had not extended, there was no apprehension of ultimate heavy losses in the closed trust companies, in fact one expected to be soon able to discharge the receiver and resume business. The bears circulated reports about Federal National bank in this city and a nameless firm of brokers, for which the most diligent inquiry failed to locate any foundation. Not much attention was paid to the stories when wired here from New York and they evidently had no palpable effect in the metropolis as the advance continued unchecked.

American Sugar became prominent in the advance of the market and it was said to be due to urgent demand for short account with no stock available. The stock closed Monday at 110¾. The opening yesterday was at 111⅛, from which there was an advance of 4 points to 115⅛, the close being at 115⅜. Sugar has not for a long time afforded such an opportunity for a handsome turn. Yesterday's movement came as a reminder of old times when it was popularly supposed there was an intimate connection between its fluctuations and the United States senate.

United States Steel preferred sold ex-dividend of 1⅞ so the closing price represented that much larger advance than the figures would indicate. The stock was not active in Pittsburgh, though there was an apparently unsatisfied demand for it, the bidding being a fraction above the New York market for both issues.

The entire New York list advanced, the gains ranging from the 5 points on Sugar down to the small fractions. A few of the less active stocks were stationary or fractionally lower at the close. The money market continued easier with 2@2½ per cent quoted on call and time loans recorded as low as 4½ per cent. It was also said that good mercantile paper has been discounted at 5 per cent, which tends to the profit of merchandising. These developments are the natural result of the liquidation and Secretary Shaw's disbursement of $40,000,000 deposits which prevented a drain on New York for crop movement. The first indication was the increase in the surplus reserves to the largest amount at this season since 1898.

Locally the general market was stronger. Crucible Steel preferred turned up again in anticipation of the meeting today. There was no anticipation that a dividend will be paid, but the gossip is of assurance that the balance sheet will show net earnings almost equal to those of last year. With earnings for the year above $5,000,000, a good many people deem quotations in the 20's for a 7 per cent cumulative stock ridiculous, especially as the probable passing of the dividend is for the purpose of paying for valuable additions to the earning capacity of the company. It is not the same as if a large bonded indebtedness, with fixed charges stood between the earnings and the stock. The common stock did not sympathize with the advance in preferred, but sold at 4½.

Monongahela River Coal was more active than recently, with slight appreciation in the price, probably on private information concerning the treatment of the minority stock, which is publicly announced this morning. Pittsburgh Coal on the contrary was weak and declining until the last half hour of trading when it made a sharp advance, closing with sales at 65.

Federal National bank was weak again and sold down to 80 on trading in small lots. Some one had apparently been busy the night before sending unfavorable and misleading reports to New York which came back over the wires and tended to depress the stock here. Persistent inquiry failed to disclose any good reason for an attack on the bank or a lack of confidence in its condition, before the close of the exchange and the last sale was at 85, an advance of $5 a share.

Discounts were firm; business on the stock exchange was dull and inactive throughout; consols and home rails were easier; Americans opened weak, but soon rallied smartly, to about parity on New York supporting orders and closed firm.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

The annual meeting of the Crucible Steel Company of America this morning at Jersey City has been awaited with great interest on account of the forthcoming announcement of the earnings of the past year. Speculation on this point was rife yesterday. It was generally believed, however, that the report will show about $8,200,000 earned. It is not expected now that there will be any further changes in the directory of the company, the changes which seem to be made having been accomplished last week. The dividend period ends in September. The meeting today has no connection with the dividend.

New York telegrams yesterday morning to local brokers contained reference to a brokerage house here being in such condition that all stocks carried from the Pittsburgh House association. So far as could be learned here the report was entirely baseless, no brokerage firm or individual broker being reported here to be in a pinch. The rumor, reports stated, that the Federal National bank had been given aid, but this was untrue, as it was found that the bank did not need the aid. The absorption of the rumor best appears to be the direct connection of a brokerage firm with the clearing house.

"A logical market would be a dull market, although I hope there will be more business and less logic," says a letter to a Pittsburgh broker from a New York correspondent.

Advices from Philadelphia say the reorganization committee of the Consolidated Traction Company, composed of John W. Mosby, Simon Gratz, Charles W. Henry, S. F. Houston, William Arrott, Nicholas Dyer and W. R. Wister, has recommended substantially the following plan:

40-year 5 per cent gold bonds secured by first mortgage upon stocks, bonds and other securities now pledged with Speyer & Co., if possible in the form of a mortgage upon the Altoona Central & Hudson Railway Company.

For immediate issues.....$7,142,000
To remain in treasury.....2,857,000

Total 1st mtge. bonds.....$10,000,000
20-year 5 per cent gold income bonds.....3,000,000

new stock (for $72,000,000 old com).....18,000,000
Stock in bonus with bonds.....2,142,860
Stock bonus to underwriters.....5,857,100

Capitalization of new company.....$55,000,000

Chicago advices to the New York Evening Post have this to say of the freight situation: "According to railroad officials here, east-bound roads are having trouble in moving the heavy tonnage offered in iron and steel in the Pittsburgh district, and the movement west-bound largely exceeds the eastbound, requiring a continual movement of empty cars from Chicago territory to facilitate the handling of the large volume of freight offered. This has caused orders to be issued to prevent cars from moving off their lines, which is necessarily under existing conditions. The lessened demand for iron and steel products is not felt by the railroads, owing to the heavy tonnage of old business that is being moved, while many roads, planning to make new orders, are taking delivery of previous purchases in a way which makes a fairly healthy condition. Coal docks at eastern lake ports are congested, and a shortage is felt at Lake Erie ports than the roads are able to furnish cars to move. A falling off of 617,000 bushels in lake shipments last week helped to lighten the volume of business, while all rail lines are crowded with package freight and unable to take grain. Lake rates remain low, and shipments from Chicago to eastern ports for the week were 4,384,000 bushels of grain, compared with 4,701,000 bushels the previous week."

Erie's plans for improvements contemplate an expenditure of $25,000,000. This is regarded as ambitious at the moment and Wall street was disposed to sell Erie on the publication. The chances are, however, the expenditure will put the Erie in such shape as to fully vindicate the judgment of Mr. Hill and his associates.

A decision in the Boston & Montana case is expected this week and is awaited with intense interest. If it is in favor of the Amalgamated it will advance sharply, but if the stock is likely to occur. If the decision is adverse to Amalgamated, no serious decline is expected, because the effect has been pretty fully discounted.

...IDENCE SALES ...EAD IN MARKET

POINT BREEZE SALE OF $25,000

Timber Land Brokers Condemn Titles in Southern State—Building Falls Off 37 Per Cent in Chicago—New Boat House for Oakmont.

Sales of East End residence property of the better grade continue to be foremost in the realty market. Three of the George A. Barclay houses, on the south side of Dalzell place, between Dallas avenue and the Beechwood boulevard, Twenty-second ward, have been sold for $45,000, or $15,000 each. One of the deals was made several weeks ago, as the house is now occupied by the purchaser, but like other late realty transactions, it has been kept quiet. The buyers are all local business men whose names are withheld by request. The houses are three of a lot of seven built last year by Mr. Barclay, the others being slightly cheaper. The ones sold are of the center hall type and contain 12 rooms and three bath rooms.

Charles R. Miller & Co. have sold two more of the bunch of 30 houses they are building on the old Charity hospital site, in the Nineteenth ward. They are reception hall brick houses, containing 10 rooms each, and stand on lots 20x120 feet, one facing in Wellesley avenue and one in Mellon street. Neither of the houses, which sold for $8,000 each, is completed.

Part of French Homestead Is Sold.

Another portion of the Aaron French property at Penn and Linden avenues has been sold for the Point Breeze Land Company, the syndicate which bought the property last spring to prevent it being used for an amusement park, for $25,000. The deal was made with the Real Estate Trust Company and embraces 107x222 feet in Juniata place. This is one of the new streets that is being opened through the property parallel with Penn avenue. It is reported that the plot will be improved with two high-class residences. This is the second plot sold out of the property. John P. Jackson having bought a strip next to the Milne lot.

Still another deal for a residence on Squirrel Hill, valued at about $20,000, has been arranged for and the deed will be delivered in a few days. This makes eight sales reported within a week from the Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-second wards of residences ranging in price from $12,500 to $26,000.

Southern Land Titles No Good.

The dozen or more realty firms in the city which make a specialty of southern lands are unanimous in condemning the titles that they find there. "Winchester" titles predominate in much of the mountain country, making it doubly hard to interest peaceable capitalists in such properties, as the inquiries relief, tax titles and government rights all claim supremacy on every deed that is delivered, and in parts of Virginia, West Virginia and the Carolinas 50 per cent of the titles granted are worth the parchment which they are written. A recent experience of a big Fifth avenue firm demonstrates to what trouble and expense it often proves. Not a possible show of closing a deal although their customers and sellers are both willing.

The firm secured an option on 128,000 acres of timber land in Virginia and after several months found a buyer. He inspected the property, approved it and instructed his attorney to close the deal with the brokers. Then it was found that owner No. 3 had received the land from the state for services rendered without taxes in payment for his services rendered in the Revolution. The heirs of this owner produced the government voucher for this claim, issued in the name of the state of Virginia 32 50 an acre for the land, which was sold on a tax claim and had a tax title to the tract. Owner No. 3 had "squatted" on same 100 years before he got his grant and had got a "squatter's" claim recorded. No. 3, who supposed that he had an undisputed ownership of the property, thus lost a good sale because the buyer did not care to take three titles and the brokers were out several hundred dollars in advertising and expenses.

Chicago's Slump in Building.

Further evidences are forthcoming every day to prove that the continued strikes among the building trades for the past eight months in connection with the recent tight money market has affected building in other cities nearly or quite as much as in Pittsburgh. In Chicago, according to the Economist, the first nine months of this year show a falling off of 37 per cent as compared with the corresponding period in 1902, the figures being $24,000,000 for this and $38,000,000 for 1902. This year's showing so far is also $8,000,000 less than that of the first three quarters of 1901. During September the fall off was $1,950,000.

Revised plans are being figured on for the four-story brick awning-factory to be erected by Maniaux & Sons at No. 2408 Fifth avenue and for the Hausman & Weimer warehouse in Locust street, which are estimated to cost $30,000. James T. Steen is the architect of the former and A. E. Linkenheimer of the latter building.

The Oakmont Boat club has appointed a committee to select a site and arrange for the building of a boathouse at once. The Oakmont Country club last spring secured a tract of over 100 acres which has admirable boating facilities and it is possible that the river bank on this property that the boathouse will be erected.

OAT AND CORN PRICES A TRIFLE EASIER

Yesterday was another day of heavy receipts of hay, 73 carloads being bulletined, but there seemed to be a place for it, and the market remained unchanged as to quotations. Receipts of oats were also liberal, 48 cars arriving, and the market stood the shock well, but a slight weakening in prices being noticeable. Shelled corn was likewise sold at easier prices, though the concession amounted only to about half a cent, while car corn was unchanged, though, perhaps, a trifle easier. Wheat was firm, one dealer offering to pay 81 cents per bushel for a carload. Millfeed is steady, with quotations unchanged.

The flour situation continues firm, with quotations in force at the opening of the week still prevailing. Demand has been rather steady for several days, but the demand for flour is so heavy that there is difficulty found at the mills in securing sufficient flour to fill orders. Rosin is unchanged, with demand growing lighter. Coffee is very firm, late crop reports being that the yield will fall away below anticipations, and that the next crop is likely to be still smaller. Refined sugar quote as follows: jobbers state that an advance of 3 to 5 cents will be warranted. Coffee has been for several years so cheap that if it really gets in line for advanced prices there is going to be some astonishing. Wholesalers are awaiting developments with interest, preparing themselves for a higher range of values. Navy beans are steady at lower prices. Canned beans declined. Canned goods are without special feature, and the market for corn holds very strong, with tomatoes easy and fruits just about steady. Dried fruits are commencing to attract more attention, and demand is increasing. Oils have advanced.

No changes were made in prices for vegetables, except that sweet potatoes sold a little lower, the advance of Monday having carried prices higher than conditions really warranted. Products of nearby growers continue uncertain, and quotations fluctuate from day to day. Potatoes, Burbanks, car lots, 75 cents a chip for fancy stock, although some smaller baskets were offered at lower figures yesterday. Stock is sold for fancy now. Onions are still arriving somewhat more than the choice a short time ago, as the lateness of the season makes it hard to secure genuine fancy tomatoes. Corn and string beans remain at figures ruling on Monday, with offerings light.

PROVISION MARKET.

Only a moderate amount of interest is being shown in horse trading from day to day, and the market is slow, the offerings sufficient for all demands. What request there is rates principally for good stock, and prices are fairly steady.

The auction sale yesterday brought out quite a number of buyers and 200 horses were sold at prices which ranged about the same as those ruling one week ago, when an improvement was noticed over recent sales.

$800,000 IN CURRENCY IS SHIPPED TO BALTIMORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(special.)—The only local development today in connection with the failure of the two Baltimore trust companies was the shipment of currency to that city to anticipate any run that might be made on the financial institutions by frightened depositors. # WHEAT AND CORN HIGHER; OATS CLOSED LOWER

Chicago Grain Pits Were Nervous as Result of Market Troubles in East.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Easier cables and favorable weather for the movement as well as the situation in Wall street, were influences that caused wheat to open lower, December selling under a shade to 1@¼ lower at 80c to 80¼c. Local traders were inclined to be rather cautious in their trading early in the day and there was some scattered liquidation, but with the market quickly developed a stronger tone. The best support, however, came from the conditions in the northwest, primary receipts and export business. Duluth reported 190,000 bushels taken there for shipment and reports from Minneapolis said that country millers were paying about three cents over Chicago and on account of this demand and advanced to 81½c. At this figure there was considerable profit-taking and the sentiment during the latter part of the session inclined to be somewhat bearish, receipts here 1,054,000 bushels, against 1,787,400 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Chicago and Duluth reported receipts of 851 cars against 1,019 cars last week and 1,113 cars a year ago.

Corn was easier at the start, due to favorable weather and lower cables, but in the absence of any special selling pressure a firmer feeling developed and prices advanced ½@¾c and local shorts bought liberally during the first hour, but later when wheat showed signs of weakness many of the early buyers turned sellers and the early gain was lost. Local receipts were 450 cars, with 36 of contract grade.

Trading in oats was only moderate and prices fluctuated within a narrow range. There was buying by some of the cereal people while the selling was scattered. Country offerings were light and receipts somewhat smaller. Local receipts were 220 cars.

Provisions—Prices for hogs at the yards, the provision market ruled firm due mainly to a fair support from packers, although shorts were also good buyers. January, pork sold at prices ranging from 12½@12.37½ and $6 62½ respectively, while ribs were up 10c at $6 27½.

MANY BRANCHES ARE REPRESENTED

NUMBER GROWING STEADILY

Chairman of Manufactures Committee Submitted an Encouraging Report to the State Commission Yesterday. Many Concessions Granted.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.

Over 100 Pennsylvania corporations have filed applications with George T. Oliver of Pittsburgh, chairman of the manufacturers' committee of the St. Louis fair commission, for space in the Manufacturers' building. This large number of applications is remarkable considering the fact that there remain six weeks in which the corporations may file their applications. It is believed a great many more industries will make application before the expiration of the time limit.

In addition to the Western Pennsylvania concerns already published in The Gazette as having asked for space, the following have made application: Carbon Steel Company, Pittsburgh; J. W. & A. P. Howard & Co., tanners of sole leather, of City; Penn-American Plate Glass Company, Pittsburgh; Standard Leather Company, Allegheny; The Duff Mfg. Company, mfrs. of the Barret patent compound lever locks, of Allegheny; Conroy, Pyugh & Co., mfrs. of mirrors, of Allegheny; the Reliance & Wolfe Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh; American Locomotive Company of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Oliver regrets that he has practically failed so far, after much correspondence, to secure exhibits of the iron and textile industries of Philadelphia, which he attributes to the recent strike. But he believes that within the next six weeks that some of these mills will file applications for space. In submitting his report at the meeting of legislative committee held this afternoon at the Lochiel hotel and later to the commission at this afternoon's session in the executive department, Mr. Oliver said:

"Several thousand letters have been addressed to the manufacturers of Pennsylvania and in many instances, it has been necessary to write to the same firm or corporation three or four times, at the same time dealing with the chief of the Louisiana purchase exposition at St. Louis, a correspondence bearing upon the request of the individual firms, that desired special concessions.

"Some of them were in doubt as to their ability to secure space, owing to not having received a reply from the chief department of manufacturers at St. Louis; others, owing to the large scale upon which they proposed to show their line of goods desired an allotment of space, further than the time limit set by the exposition management. I think I can say without exception, that Milan H. Hulbert, the chief of the department of manufactures at St. Louis, has granted every request made by the department of manufacturers of the Pennsylvania commission, and that at this time there are pending no cases in which uncertainty prevails, as to the final adjustment of troubles which have existed.

"The iron, steel and other allied industries, together with structural manufacturers, those in the vehicle and traction business, together with the engine, boiler, knitting machinery, air brake, drygoods, cement, oil, chemical, cable, tile, musical instruments, car and drug manufacturers, etc., are well represented in the list submitted today.

"Senator Woods of Greensburg reported to the commissioner that space had been secured in the mines and mining building for an exhibit of anthracite and bituminous coal, clay, brick, zinc and other interests of the state. It is expected that the exhibit to be made of the agricultural interests of the state will be the finest at the exposition.

"The forestry exhibit from Pennsylvania will include photographs of the state reservation with maps and reports and a comprehensive statement of the laws governing forestry, which are admitted to be the best in the country. The Pennsylvania building, which is now being erected, will be filled with works of Pennsylvania artists, including portraits, oil painting and etchings.

Fish commissioner Meehan also presented his report this afternoon of the plans that have been made for the department exhibit at the exposition. The state will have the most complete exhibit of fish that has ever been made with any exposition in the past.

A Big Musical Hit.

"The Girl From Kay's" seems to have "made good" in Buffalo, where it had its first American production on Monday night. Reports from that city, regarding the musical comedy, are decidedly enthusiastic, from all of which it may be taken that Messrs. Frohman and Edwardes are likely to find the piece as popular here as it is in London. The song hit of the piece has fallen to Hattie Williams. It describes the girls employed at Kay's millinery shop and has a very catchy melody. Sam Bernard is said to have the funniest part that has ever fallen to his lot.

Alaskan Decision May Mean Loss of the Dominion to the Mother Country.

CANADIANS ARE VERY BITTER

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—In consequence of the attitude maintained by the Canadian commissioners, Lord Chief Justice Alverstone decided, this morning, not to hold the proposed public meeting of the Alaskan boundary commission, but to hand its decision to Messrs. Foster and Sifton, respective agents of the American and Canadian governments.

The Canadian commissioners not only declined to sign the award, but said that they would publicly withdraw from the commission. They, as well as the Canadians connected with the case, are very bitter. Telegrams from Premier Laurier and other prominent persons in Canada show that this sentiment is shared generally throughout the Dominion.

The Canadians almost openly accuse Lord Alverstone of partisanship. When the latter presented them to King Edward at Buckingham palace the king endeavored vainly to induce Messrs. Jette and Aylesworth to say they were satisfied or that they accepted the situation, but the two Canadians declined to in any way express acquiescence with this view. They simply shook hands formally and bowed. One of the Canadian commissioners afterwards said:

"This award affects much more the relations between the Dominion and the Mother country than people here seem to realize and almost marks the parting of the ways, at least so far as leaving any such question for England to decide for us."

Messrs. Aylesworth and Jette will submit their contrary opinions to the tribunal, so as to go officially on record and while they declined to sign the award they signed the maps agreed on by the majority.

The Alaska award relating to the Portland canal gives the United States two islands, Kannaghunut and Sitklan, commanding the entrance of the Portland channel and the ocean passage to Fort Simpson and destroying the strategic value of Wales and Pearse islands, which are given to Canada.

The mountain line adopted as the boundary lies so far from the coast as to give the United States substantially all the territory in dispute. The line completely clears all the bays and inlets and means of access to the sea, giving the United States a complete land barrier between Canada and the sea, from the Portland canal to Mount St. Elias. Around the head of the Lynn canal the line follows the watershed, somewhat in accordance with the present provisional boundary.

MAJOR M'DOWELL TO HAVE NO OPPOSITION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—There will be no change in the house of representatives below that of speaker. Prior to the meeting of congress the Republicans will hold a caucus at which Representative Cannon will be chosen speaker and the house will be slated for re-election. These officials are: Clerk, Alexander McDowell of Pennsylvania; sergeant-at-arms, Henry Casson of Wisconsin; doorkeeper, Frank B. Lyon of New York, and postmaster, Joseph C. McElroy.

Maj. McDowell of Sharon, Pa., the clerk of the house, is certain of re-election. At the beginning of the last session there was talk of opposition to him, and ex-Congressman Dave Mercer started a whirlwind campaign for the place. But the major refused to get excited, and said unperturbably in his office holding daily levees and telling stories, meanwhile receiving assurances of support from all quarters until he seen he had more votes pledged than Cannon has for speaker. Mercer discovered this one day and withdrew from the contest.

HUSBAND OF TITUSVILLE GIRL

Secured $250,000 on Condition That He Married One of Three Sisters, Each Reputed to Have a Dowry of $20,000,000, but Was Rejected.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—Count von Larisch Moennich, an Austrian nobleman, in testifying today against the syndicate of money lenders who are accused of attempted extortion, said that immediately after his wedding in Buffalo with Miss Mary Satterfield of Titusville, Pa., in June, 1901, a New York bank sent him a draft for $50,000 forwarded by the syndicate which he refused to pay.

This, the count continued, was the beginning of persecution by the money lenders' group, which was composed of four merchants and six mortgage agents, of whom Ernst Rosenstiel and Ludwig Ziefer were directors of a savings bank. This draft was based on one of the several notes which the count signed in 1900, aggregating $250,000, payable on the condition that he married one of the three young Countesses von Faber of Nuremberg, daughter of Baron von Faber, the famous pencil manufacturer, each reputed to have a dowry of $20,000,000.

The presiding judge in beginning the case said he hoped the names of the three countesses, who were wholly innocent of any connection with the persons involved in the proceeding, would not be used carelessly. The count had dealings with money lenders for some time. His father paid them $40,000 and Count von Larisch Moennich borrowed other sums. Then, in exchange for a few hundred marks, he gave the money lenders promissory notes and went to Wiesbaden to court one of the Faber girls. They discouraged his advances and later, at his own expense, the count went to America and eventually married Miss Satterfield.

On motion of counsel for the defense the case was postponed in order to summon witnesses from America. The names of these were not disclosed. The trial probably will not be resumed until the new year.

Count von Larisch declared today that Countess von Larisch is in Vienna, that she knew all about the case, and that she had known about it before their marriage.

The count classed as absurd some of the statements published in the United States that the countess intended to sue for divorce.
